

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the article-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuk hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $8,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair. Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Suggests Ogilvie-Dunne 'Drag Race'
Two Trustees Rap County's Inaction In Road-Widening

Two Elk Grove Village trustees, impatient over the delay in the widening of Arlington Heights Road, Tuesday criticized the county for not moving ahead with improvement of what they said is a dangerous roadway.

"I suggest we invite Ogilvie and Dunne to a drag race down Arlington Heights Road," asserted Trustee Eugene Keith, in reference to Gov. Richard Ogilvie and Cook County Board Pres. George Dunne.

"Arlington Heights Road is an extreme hazard," said Keith. "If we write to Nixon we should do something. It's almost an impossible road to traverse."

Trustee Ronald Chernick said a motorist "is taking his life into his own hands" by driving on Arlington Heights Road.

He said it would probably take a death to get some action to improve the road.

Keith said he knew of no other community whose main thoroughfare was in as bad condition as Arlington Heights Road.

HE SAID THE narrow two-lane road posed a "vital danger," especially at night because it is poorly lit.

Jack Pahl, village president, said the Arlington Heights Road improvement project has been on the county's capital improvements program since 1969.

He said the county has not had the money to do the job because of a shortage of funds. Pahl noted that the county has gone to the state and obtained permission to use motor fuel tax funds for operating expenses, instead of road improvements.

The Arlington Heights Road widening project is estimated to cost $5 million and will include a new bridge over Salt Creek.

However, there has been no new commitment as to when the project will start.

In other action, the board expressed interest in meeting with the owners of a 183-acre tract north of Devon Avenue and east of Rte. 53.

THE OWNERS of the tract, Joseph Arvidson Jr., Joseph Zizzo, Ted Szywala, Joe and Jack Buttila, have sought approval for development of a planned unit development.

The village objects because according to its comprehensive plan the area southwest of the village should be for single-family homes instead of high density apartments for which the county has approved.

Fulle is director of the Parkway Bank and Trust Co., Harwood Heights, which is one of the controlling interests of a proposed apartment development along Devon Avenue.

The board rejected a request from Arvidson, owner of the Colebrook subdivision, on Devon Avenue, for a letter of acceptance permitting 28 units per acre, but said it was interested in discussing development with the owners.

The acreage is part of an area where the village has objected to a county board decision to approve of zoning for the construction of apartments.

A village committee has recommended that members of the Northwest Municipal Conference meet with County Board Commissioner Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines to "discuss the shenanigans" going on with regard to county zoning.

Smith Leaves Service Unit Post Friday

by JUDY MEHL

Thomas Smith, Elk Grove Village Community Service director, is leaving Friday. He is leaving quietly, yet amidst a huff and a puff that might well blow the house down.

The 15-member Community Service and Mental Health Board has been creating the huff, aided by a few village officials.

Smith said yesterday that he sees much hope in the idea of a community service organization, but not much hope for the local one unless some changes are made in the thinking of the Community Service Board, the policy-making body for the social service agency.

"I still see a continual ambiguity in what the board says and does," he said. "They seem to be saying they support the program, yet on the other hand they seem to be saying they don't know for sure if there is a better way."

Smith resigned in November following criticism by the village and community service boards for failing to cooperate with village administration. The resignation is effective, Friday.

In his final statement to the board Smith said "The major problem confronting all is that there is not agreement on what Community Services should be about."

ALTHOUGH SMITH wrote his statement before last Thursday, his point was made evident Thursday night when the Community Service board brought Smith and youth worker Thomas Woodard to task for some of their methods and practices.

Smith and Woodard feel that reaching troubled youth is their job, and that the task is more important than how it is performed. The board feels that reaching troubled youth is the goal, but that the job must be done in a manner which no one could object to.

Smith put it this way, "They seem in favor of the program, as long as the kids we work with have crew cuts and don't write on walls."

In his statement Smith said, "I have likened our human problem-solving program to the fire department, for our task

Girl Home From Hospital

Pamela Forester, 16, came home from the hospital yesterday, 10 days after she suffered a broken back in a freak accident while snowmobiling in Lake Geneva, Wis.

Pamela, of 600 Love St., Elk Grove Village, was injured when the snowmobile in which she was riding hit a banup, causing her to fly off her seat.

She landed in the snowmobile but was in a considerable amount of pain, said her mother, Mrs. Edward Forester.

Some friends Pamela was with brought her home to her parents who took her to St. Alexius Hospital where she has been since the accident occurred Jan. 17.

A junior at Elk Grove High School, Pamela will have to rest by lying on her back for the next several weeks, said her mother.

Bowling Lane Owner Praises Fire Dept.

Lewis Handler, manager of the Elk Grove Bowl in Elk Grove Village, Tuesday addressed the village board to tell members what a good job the fire department did at a fire Sunday in the bowling lane's lounge.

"What could have been a tremendous disaster turned out to be a lot less than it could have been," said Handler. "It could have been a million dollar fire," he said, adding that there were from 250 to 300 people in the building at the time of the fire.

Fire Chief Allen Hulett estimated the damage at $40,000.

Handler said the job firemen did in limiting the fire damage was "tremendous." He said there was no water damage.

"THE WIND-CHILL factor this morning was 55 below!" said Nancy San- tler, 19, of Hoffman Estates, a letter carrier in Elk Grove Village. A student at Harper College, Nancy hid behind a ski mask to keep warm.

Signup For Health Vote Ends Saturday

Registration at the Elk Grove Township office closes Saturday for residents who wish to vote on the four township mental health referendum Feb. 27.

The township offices at 2400 Arlington Heights Rd. will be open from 9 a.m. to noon today, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1 to 4 p.m. Thursday and Friday, and from 9 a.m. to noon Saturday.

Those who qualify to register must be 21 years old and have lived in the state one year, in Cook County 90 days and in their precinct 30 days.

This Morning In Brief

The State
A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War
Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation
Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

The World
East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather		The Market
A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 90.		The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

FOUR YEARS AGO about this time, Elk Grove Village snowfall. Remember? These students helped clear the residents were digging themselves out of a two-foot walkways at Clearmont School.

Former Head Of Dist. 211 To Be Cited

G. A. McElroy, former superintendent of High School Dist. 211, will attend the district school board meeting tonight — his first since retiring as superintendent last summer.

McElroy will be honored for his 39 years of service to the district. A portrait of him, to be hung in the G. A. McElroy Administration Building on Roselle Road, will also be unveiled.

After McElroy's appearance, the board will discuss three items concerning a fifth high school to be built on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Ken Unteet, of Berger, Kelley, Unteet and Scaggs, architects for the school, will explain recent revisions in the school's design. The district's fifth high school will have movable classroom walls to allow for changes in class size. Construction on the school is scheduled to begin late this spring.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will also hear Robert Lyons, a teacher at James B. Conant High School and a Hoffman Estates resident, speak on naming the fifth school "Hoffman Estates High School."

The first bond sale to pay for construction of School No. 5 will also be considered. The board is expected to accept a bid on $1.25 million in bonds opened today in Chicago. The bonds will be used to purchase 20 additional acres for the Wise Road school site in Schaumburg, pay architectural fees and costs of beginning construction on School No. 5.

The board is expected to pass a resolution to hold school board elections April 10. Petitions for becoming a candidate in the election will then be available tomorrow in the business manager's office, 1750 S. Roselle Rd.

Other items to be discussed include setting a date for beginning salary negotiations with teachers, granting a utility easement on the Winston Park school site in Palatine, and revising the building rental policy.

Cuban Family May Arrive In 4 Weeks

A Cuban refugee which Elk Grove High School students planned to relocate in the village by Christmas may now arrive in less than four weeks.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor at the school in charge of the project to relocate the family, said that a plea for help from Illinois Sen. Charles Percy several weeks ago resulted in clearance of the family this week.

The family was delayed as a result of procedure changes in the Labor Department. Mrs. Garcia had reported earlier. Mrs. Garcia said yesterday that she had talked to Percy's office and was told a letter clearing the family had already been sent to the American Consulate in Madrid.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and their two teenage children, have been stranded in Madrid for two years waiting for relocation to the United States.

The Elk Grove High School students began a project late last fall to raise money for the family and find the father a job. The family is expected to live in an apartment near the high school, Mrs. Garcia said.

Dr. Middleton Case Reset

The pre-trial hearing Tuesday for Dr. James Middleton, a Des Plaines area physician charged by Cook County Sheriff's police with deviate sexual assault, was continued until next Tuesday.

The continuance was granted in Niles Circuit Court by Magistrate George Zimmerman after Assistant State's Attorney Daniel Miroballi asked for more time to prepare his case against Dr. Middleton.

Dr. Middleton's attorney, Warren Carey, also asked for more time on the case. In the last hearing, Carey was granted the right to examine a list of witnesses for the prosecution and physical evidence seized by the sheriff's police at the time of the doctor's arrest in his office.

Dr. Middleton was arrested in a raid on his office at 989 Elmhurst Rd. in unincorporated Des Plaines last Dec. 1 by sheriff's police. They found pipe bombs, detonators, three handguns, pornographic photographs, literature and movies and artificial devices for sexual stimulation.

The raid came after a two-month investigation by sheriff's police in which a number of his patients complained that the doctor had drugged them and then committed deviate sexual attacks.

Dr. Middleton was also charged with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

Dr. Middleton has also been charged by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education for three violations of the Illinois Medical Practice Act. Middleton has denied all three charges according to the department's attorney, Edward Price.

Price said the violations include: the charge that Dr. Middleton's medical license was revoked in a sister state; the charge that Dr. Middleton engaged in the employment of fraud and deception in applying for or securing a license certificate for practicing the treatment of human ailments in the state of Illinois.

The third violation, said Price, is that Dr. Middleton "engaged in dishonorable, unethical and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Dr. Middleton is scheduled to appear before a medical examining committee Feb. 4 at the State of Illinois Building to respond to the state's allegations.

Neither Dr. Middleton nor his attorney would comment yesterday on either hearing.

Following adoption of an ordinance, the land will revert to its original R-1 zoning from the B-2 status now held.

Development Is Removed From Plan

A 113-story building and surrounding dramatic residential and commercial development is scheduled for removal from Schaumburg's development plans within several weeks.

Tuesday night, Mayor Robert O. Atcher read a letter being sent to attorneys for Lee N. Romano, originator and planner for the project which was proposed for construction at Route 53 and Higgins Road.

Atcher's letter noted that since the 565-acre project was approved and zoned for that purpose in September, 1968, and that construction planned to begin the following spring has not taken place, the development is not proceeding as outlined.

Since more than two years have elapsed since approval of Romano's Schaumburg Planets Corp. proposal was authorized and building permits have not been obtained nor has any move been undertaken to start the project, village officials plan to repeal action taken several years ago.

The Elk Grove Village Newcomers Club will hold its annual card party on Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Salt Creek Country Club near Itasca.

Following a short business meeting, bridge, canasta and other card games as well as bingo will be played.

Members are encouraged to invite guests. There will be door prizes and favors donated by local merchants.

Books Donated By Ill. Library

Almost 700 books have been donated to the Elk Grove Village Public Library by the Illinois State Library.

"Some of the books were out of print and we wouldn't have been able to get them otherwise," Carolyn DeAre, acting head librarian, said.

The books were made available through one of the state's 18 library systems, the North Suburban Library System.

The books cover all juvenile categories, including fiction, non-fiction, and many language art books, according to Mrs. DeAre.

Blue Birds Schedule Get Acquainted Meet

Second and third grade Blue Birds will present programs next week to acquaint other girls in Elk Grove Village with the Camp Fire program.

Two sessions will be held, Tuesday and Wednesday at 7 p.m. at Thomas Lively Junior High School, 999 Leicester.

First through eighth grade girls are invited to attend with their mothers to learn about Camp Fire Girls.

Anyone interested but not able to attend, may call Alice Beine at 439-1692 for further information.

Smith Leaves Post Friday

is to put out human problems.

However, that analogy has a problem if carried out. There is usually full agreement on what should be done to put out the fire, and few people don't mistrust the professional judgement of the fire chief. It is unusual, in any case, that the village trustees, or the citizens board, would feel inclined to tell the fire chief how to do the job.

"It is a different story in human problem-solving. Everybody has their ideas — all of which are probably valid — but most of which are in conflict with each other."

"SHOULD WE LOWER the boom on kids? Should we command them to respect law and order, and education, and society? Or should we try to understand their alienation, and to try to guide them toward seeing the value of being an individual within society instead of an individual against society?"

"Well, I'll leave the resolution to those questions to the next director. I would only plead that the politicians and the community advisor give him a basic trust. Don't hire him to do an unspecified program in an unspecified way, and later find disagreement with that program and his tactics."

Smith was referring to the situation that happened to him and which led to his resignation.

Woodard, who will be in charge of the Community Service programs until a new director is hired, was threatened with the same problem.

The board's meeting Thursday was centered around one person's criticism of obscene words written on paper on Woodard's office walls. The objector, Charles Zetek, is a village trustee and Community Service board member.

Following the criticism, however, the board complimented Woodard on his overall job done in youth work and attempted to better define future responsibilities.

IN COMMENTING on the situation, Smith said, "I wish this program luck. I think that survival is dependent on further clarification of the program expectations, and of program control. The further from the political arena, the better. Perhaps there should be emphasis on the not-for-profit corporate structure now available."

Last Thursday the board officially became a not-for-profit corporation, allowing it to receive funds from outside sources. It could not do so previously.

Dr. Middleton was also charged with unlawful use of a weapon and possession of explosives.

Dr. Middleton has also been charged by the Illinois Department of Registration and Education for three violations of the Illinois Medical Practice Act. Middleton has denied all three charges according to the department's attorney, Edward Price.

Price said the violations include: the charge that Dr. Middleton's medical license was revoked in a sister state; the charge that Dr. Middleton engaged in the employment of fraud and deception in applying for or securing a license certificate for practicing the treatment of human ailments in the state of Illinois.

The third violation, said Price, is that Dr. Middleton "engaged in dishonorable, unethical and unprofessional conduct of a character likely to deceive, defraud or harm the public."

Dr. Middleton is scheduled to appear before a medical examining committee Feb. 4 at the State of Illinois Building to respond to the state's allegations.

Neither Dr. Middleton nor his attorney would comment yesterday on either hearing.

Boy Scouts To Explore Caves

Members of Elk Grove Village Boy Scout Troop 95 are going cave exploring this weekend at Blue River, Wis. west of Madison.

In addition to exploring and climbing in the cave, the boys will participate in skiing, sledding, tobogganing, ice skating, hockey, hiking and cooking.

The troop will leave Christus Victor Lutheran Church, the meeting place for the troop in the village, at 6 a.m. Saturday. Members will be arriving back in the village late Sunday.

Interested residents are invited to join the troop by telephoning 437-0205.

Smith said that this may be the best hope for survival of Community Service, but strongly emphasized that the village and village funds should never be totally taken out of the picture. The agency is funded by the village. Its budget is $45,000.

"The village fixes holes in the street, it might as well fix holes in people's worlds," Smith said.

Smith called his past year and a half with Community Service "truly exciting professionally."

In his statement to the board, he said, "Again, I thank you. All in all, it's been good experience. I apologize to all who understand our basic program, and my own personal interest in the people of Elk Grove for not being able to pull off the delicate balance between being truly concerned with individual people and being able to relate to the political and institutional world."

"I apologize for not being able to pull it off — but I cannot be anybody's 'boy,' doing what they think should be done, in the way they think it should be done, when my professional judgement and my personal convictions feel it to be wrong. You know I would have given more of myself if I had it to give."

Crane's Television Debut Smooth

by ED MURNANE

Except for some technical difficulties, U.S. Rep. Philip M. Crane's debut as host of "Conservative Viewpoint" on Channel 44 Tuesday night was a success.

In fact, Crane handled the interview-discussion program so well, it's likely he could get a job as a political commentator or interviewer when his congressional days are over.

Unlike many interviewers, particularly John Madigan, host of the At-Random program on WBBM-TV, Crane let his guest do the talking and didn't interrupt to give his own version of what the story is.

His guest on the first show was U.S. Rep. Richard Ichord, D-Mo., chairman of the House Internal Security Committee.

Dr. Edward Teller, scientist who is considered the "father of the H-Bomb," had been scheduled as the guest on the first show, with Ichord scheduled for next Tuesday.

We tried to reach Yale Roe, owner of Channel 44, to learn why the change was made but he was unavailable and his secretary yesterday was unaware that there had been a change.

It's possible that the Teller tape was damaged or maybe studio technicians put the wrong tape on the machine.

THE PROGRAMS ARE taped in Washington, in a studio in one of the House of Representatives office buildings, and mailed to Channel 44 several weeks in advance.

The camera work was as good as that

Ed Murnane

Assuming that Teller will be Crane's guest next Tuesday, the schedule of programs for the next few weeks includes Rep. Ben Blackburn, R-Ga., who will discuss wage and price controls and the current economic picture on Feb. 9, and Prof. William Stanmeyer of Georgetown University who will discuss the "new left" on Feb. 16.

ANOTHER OF THE candidates from that 13th District primary which Crane and Roe were involved in in 1969 is also making news in television circles, Joseph Mathewson, who finished third in the primary behind Crane and Sam Young of Northfield Township, was just named political editor for WBBM-TV, replacing Walter Jacobson.

Mathewson is a former television reporter and was Gov. Richard Ogilvie's press man until he entered the campaign in 1969. He also was state-wide press chairman for the anti-pollution bond issue last November.

Mathewson is considered a moderate, politically, but his candidacy in a Republican primary clearly labels him as a Republican and it's not always a good idea to have as a political editor — supposedly an objective, non-partisan figure — someone who has definite political ties.

AMONG THE MAJOR bills introduced in the Illinois General Assembly thus far include several by suburban representa-

Rep. Dan Pierce, D-Highland Park, who already had proposed legislation to change the primary election date in Illinois from late March to late May, has introduced a bill which would classify all hospitals in the state as public utilities whose rates would be regulated by the Illinois Commerce Commission.

Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, introduced a bill to require local government officials to abide by income disclosure laws which now govern state officials.

Other legislation in the hopper would lift the prohibition on sale of liquor during county and municipal elections, make the blue gill the official fish of the state, ban the operation of supersonic aircraft in the state, ban rock festivals in the state and prohibit state colleges and universities from charging students fees for the support of inter-school athletic activities.

You bank your savings... shouldn't your bank report to you?

FIRST DOES. In our fast moving world, old-fashioned banking methods can be inconvenient. That's why savings account passbooks at First National were replaced many years ago by convenient computerized statements. Passbooks don't make it. Here's why:

With a statement savings account, we do the book-keeping for you. All deposits and withdrawals are posted in your statement and mailed like clockwork at the end of each quarter—even interest is posted automatically. No need for a special trip to the bank just to have interest recorded in a passbook.

With a statement savings account, your signature on withdrawals is your guarantee of safety. There is no need to worry about the danger of a lost or misplaced passbook. When you make your savings transactions by mail, we pay postage both ways.

You can even save automatically by having any amount transferred each month from your checking account to your savings account. Ever tried to do that with a passbook? So, doesn't it make sense to save at First, where you are automatically kept informed of the exact status of your account?

Cub Star To Speak At Youth Breakfast Feb. 6

Don Kessinger, the Chicago Cubs' all-star shortstop, will be the speaker for the Feb. 6 Youth Breakfast sponsored by the Northwest Christian Business Men's Committee (CBMC).

The banquet-style breakfast will start at 8 a.m. in the grand ballroom of the Marriott Motor Hotel near the intersection of the Northwest and Tri-State Tollways.

Whether in the field or at bat, Kessinger rates as the top shortstop in the National League. In 1970, he was the National League's All Star shortstop for the third straight year. At the end of the season, he was named to the Sporting News' all star team and also, for the second consecutive year, won the Gold Glove Award as the best defensive player in the league in his position.

In addition to Kessinger's speech, the program will include a performance by Glenn Jorian, radio-television and recording artist. Jorian is the director of music at South Park Church in Park Ridge.

The program will also include a performance by a contemporary singing group called "The Jericho Singers." 13 young students now attending Trinity College in Bannockburn, Ill.

The second annual Youth Breakfast is a not-for-profit event, planned and arranged by Northwest CBMC for the benefit of youth. Since there will be more space available than there was last year, both adult men and women are welcomed to attend if each adult brings one or more young people. The young people should be between the ages of about 9 and 20 years old. Tables of 10 will be set up for the event. The cost of the man-sized breakfast is $3.50 per person, including tip.

Northwest CBMC members were greatly enthused by the turnout of 650 people last year at the Youth Breakfast when

Don Kessinger

Cub catcher Randy Hundley was the speaker.

A spokesman for Northwest CBMC summed up the purpose for the breakfast by saying, "It is a way to bring young people, and even older folks into, contact with famous Christian personalities who not only represent real American virtues but stand upon the Word of God and the Lord Jesus Christ as the true motivating power in their lives."

Reservations may be made in advance by calling one of the following people: Mr. and Mrs. Warren Moore, 823-8372; Mr. and Mrs. Vern Hultgren at 324-8833; or Mr. and Mrs. Dave Foster, 392-7383.

Northwest CBMC is one of more than 650 CBMC groups across the nation and around the world. The local group is part of the CBMC of Chicago and is affiliated with CBMC International which has its headquarters in Glen Ellyn.

The chairman of the Northwest CBMC is C. W. Gaasrud, a building contractor with offices in Park Ridge. Other officers include David Foster, Mount Prospect; Charles B. Gray, Arlington Heights; Phillip Gunderson, Prospect Heights; Vernon Hultgren, Mount Prospect; Glen Jorian, Park Ridge; Mel Lace, Prospect Heights; Warren Moore, Park Ridge; and Kenneth Olson, Des Plaines.

Harper Bd. Meets Tonight

The Harper College board will try to decide tonight just how many new full-time faculty members the college can afford to hire for the 1971-72 school year.

On Thursday, Jan. 14, the board tabled an administrative proposal that the college hire 38 new full-time teachers for the coming year. A total of 31 of those teachers would be hired by March 15.

The tabling of the proposal followed a lengthy discussion of whether a cut in class size — the result of the hiring — would be desirable before the college goes to the voters this fall to seek a tax hike.

Clarence Schauer, vice president of academic affairs, explained in January that the additional faculty members would cut class size (excluding large lecture classes) from about 27 down to 26 students.

Board chairman James Hamill, concerned that a cut in class size could further increase the college's projected deficit, suggested a fuller discussion at the next board meeting.

The board will also review the college's current financial status. In December the board picked fall, 1971, as the time to ask area voters to approve tax hikes to cover increasing expenses.

Tonight's meeting will begin at 8. The college, located at Algonquin and Roselle roads in Palatine, serves Schaumburg, Palatine, Elk Grove and Wheeling Townships and a portion of Barrington Township.

Pinewood Derby Like Grand Prix?

8— Section 1 Thursday, January 28, 1971 THE HERALD

Lou Lundstedt drops the gate and the cars begin rolling down the track.

Excited spectators stretch to see who won the race at the end of the track.

by JIM HODL
For a Cub Scout, racing in the Pinewood Derby is just like competing in the Grand Prix.

There are many similarities.
A scout builds his own car to his specifications in order to have the fastest car possible to race with. He gets assistance in building this car from his racing team, which is his father.

Then, while the car is being raced, the scout's father remains near-by, helping out as the pit crew. During the running of a Pinewood Derby, fathers and mothers can be seen servicing cars by replacing wheels that have fallen off or applying sewing machine oil and graphite to the axles to make the car go faster.

While there is a time limit set on the length of time the Grand Prix is held, there is no limit on the Pinewood Derby. Scouts continue to compete against each other until the fastest car is found.

The fastest cars from each den and the fastest car in the entire pack win trophies.

However, the major point of the Pinewood Derby is to provide some fun and excitement at winter pack meetings. It gives the scouts a chance to make something, display it and compete with one another.

And nearly everyone has a great time in the process.

Ryan O'Neal To Star In 'Movie Of Week'

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Notes to watch television by:

The Headliners: Ryan O'Neal, formerly of video's "Peyton Place" and currently a tremendous hit in the motion picture "Love Story," stars in ABC-TV's "Movie of the Week" Feb. 9 in a tale of a fashion model whose romance with a playboy turns into a terrifying experience. Title of the tale is "Love Hate Love." It was written by famed mystery author Eric Ambler, and the producer is Joan Harrison, long associated with Alfred Hitchcock.

The mystique of blues singer Janis Joplin — and its exploitation since her death at 27 last October — are examined on NBC-TV's "First Tuesday" next week. Same network offers, on Feb. 9, Mel Brooks' wonderfully zany movie, "The Producers," with Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder in a story of a once-successful Broadway showman who sets out to stage a surefire flop for the financial advantages involved.

"Robert Young and the Family," an hour special starring the headliner of "Marcus Welby, M.D." as host and narrator of a satiric yet affectionate look at American marriage and togetherness in the 1970s, will be broadcast on CBS-TV March 10. Television's new two-hour production of "Jane Eyre," with George C. Scott, Susannah York and Jack Hawkins, is set for March 24 on NBC-TV.

Paul Newman stars and participates in "Once Upon a Wheel," an hour ABC-TV special which explores the excitement of automobile racing, and airs April 18. Also appearing in the program are Mario Andretti, Al Unser, Bobby Unser, Parnelli Jones, James Garner, Kirk Douglas, Arte Johnson, Glenn Ford and Pancho Gonzalez. Jerry Lewis is roasted by the Friars Club on NBC-TV's "Kraft Music Hall" tonight, with Johnny Carson as roastmaster, and others on the dias including Milton Berle, Don Rickles and Alan King.

Rock Hudson is the latest movie star to take a plunge into video films. He begins work this week in a two-hour "World Premiere" offering for NBC-TV, "McMillan and Wife," a suspense-comedy about a police commissioner and his madcap spouse Susan Saint James. Dr. David Reuben, author of the bestseller "Everything You Always Wanted to Know About Sex But Were Afraid to Ask," is featured on the same network's Jack Benny special March 10.

The Programs: The Jan. 17 Super Bowl football game, that abysmal affair between the Baltimore Colts and Dallas Cowboys, was video's highest-rated sports presentation of all time. Dinah Shore, who has a morning series called "Dinah's Place" on NBC-TV, also will be on NBC radio with a Monday-through-Friday daytime program of the same name starting next week. Miss Shore's radio show will be another of NBC's "Emphasis" features, and she apparently will focus on women's topics.

Classes For Drop-outs Set

Registration is still open for the second semester of the Young Adult Education program offered at Wheeling High School for returning high school drop-outs.

The second semester started Jan. 21 but openings are still available, according to Henry Blim, director of the program.

The program enables youth who have left high school to take evening classes and apply them toward a regular Dist. 214 high school diploma.

Persons desiring to enroll in the program may register at the Young Adult Education office in room 201 at Wheeling High School. Registrations will be taken from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday.

The program is open to residents of the Dist. 214 high school district. To participate, persons should also be between 17 and 21 and have been out of high school for at least a year, although some exceptions may be made to these requirements, Blim said.

Classes will be conducted at the high school from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. Monday through Thursday. The last day of classes in the second semester is May 14.

The classes to be offered include, developmental reading, mathematics, U.S. history, physical science, office practice, biology, five English courses, consumer problems, auto shop, group dynamics, decision making, art, sociology and physical education.

The Doctor Says:

Light Up, Smokers, But Not In The Hospital

by LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.
Dear Dr. Lamb — I am recuperating from losing two lobes of my lungs. My questions and comments concern the permission granted in hospitals today to smokers who pollute the air we breathe. WHY? WHY? WHY on earth is it allowed in the patients' rooms, corridors and waiting rooms?

With my bronchiectasis, I've had troubles with fumes of smoking, bus and car fumes — all pollution, in fact. My husband paid extra for a private room so that I could avoid a smoking roommate and her visitors.
I am forced to stay in seclusion here recuperating because of all the smoking visitors and patients in the sitting room and at the sofa outside my door. Why are nonsmokers FORCED to put up with this in light of today's evidence about smoking and its effects?

Please don't feel I am a crusading fanatic against smokers — I'm not. It's just that I feel smokers are completely innocent or ignorant of nonsmokers' problems like mine and I feel that it's unfair in today's polluted world and it's time for a change.

Dear Reader — You have reason to be annoyed. Our bastions of health are really not the place for cigarettes. I don't think smokers really recognize that many non-smokers with asthma, allergies and lung problems really cannot tolerate the fumes from their tobacco. This is a problem for patients forced to sit next to a smoker — as in airplanes. Since less than half the population now smoke, it would seem time to give the nonsmoker a break.
Dear Dr. Lamb — First I will say I am not biased as to integration. In fact, my own children attended integrated schools. This last year the schools where I live now were integrated and the children got along very well, but the little black children kept running their hands through the long blond straight hair of the white children. There was a rash of incidents of lice eggs found in the blond heads, much to the alarm of parents. Believe me, the affected children all came from homes where heads were shampooed regularly. The school at first admitted the blond hair attracted the little black children. Suddenly, it was proclaimed in the school that "black people never got lice ever." I am most interested. Could you please tell me if this is so? I have no intentions of making and pronouncements about it — I'm just interested in knowing. — An old grandmother.
Dear Reader — I don't think any cause — no matter how just — is best served by ignorance, particularly in our halls of learning, germs, most diseases, and pests cannot tell the difference in the color of a person's skin — brown, black, yellow, red or white. Under the right circumstances, anyone can get lice from anyone else who has lice.
I hope the day will come when all our people will have enough of the advantages of our advanced society that problems such as these will not arise in any group. They can be prevented.
—(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)
Please send your questions and comments to Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D., Paddock Publications P.O. Box 286, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60004. While Dr. Lamb cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

The Lighter Side

It's Hard To Kick The TV Cigarette Ad Habit

by DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Almost a month has passed since I, along with millions of other Americans, gave up cigarette commercials. I don't know whether my case is typical, but I still miss them like crazy.

Dick West

The time I want a cigarette commercial most is when I turn on the television set right after dinner. A good meal just doesn't seem complete unless it is topped off with a cup of coffee, a snifter of brandy and a cigarette commercial. I have tried all of the recommended substitutes — sinus remedy commercials, mouthwash commercials, hair dressing commercials — but they fail to satisfy.

When you have been a heavy viewer meaning 10 or more cigarette commercials a day for almost 20 years, as I have, you can't stop the habit overnight without some psychological and physiological reactions.

AFTER A FEW minutes in front of the tube, I start getting irritable and fidgety. If my dog jumps into my lap to be petted, I snap at him. Finally, I can't stand the strain any longer. I have to get up and read a cigarette ad in a newspaper or magazine.

That doesn't totally eliminate the craving for cigarette commercials, but it calms me down enough to drop off to sleep during the Dick Cavett Show.

Another bad time is when I get excited watching televised sporting events. If there is a suspenseful moment on the field, you instinctively expect a break in the action that returns you to the studio for a cigarette commercial.

Not having it leaves me too keyed up to enjoy the game.

I am, of course, aware of the health threat that caused Congress to ban cigarette commercials, and I fully agree with that action. I do think, however, that the withdrawal period would have been less rigorous if Congress had permitted us to taper off rather than forcing us to quit cold turkey.

SURELY ONE cigarette commercial after dinner for six weeks or so wouldn't have hurt anything. By which time, our central nervous systems might have become adjusted to the deprivation.

When you wake up in the middle of the night needing a cigarette commercial and knowing none is available, it nearly drives you up the wall.

Friends who had previously gone without cigarette commercials for long periods tell me that the first month is the hardest. After that, they say, the desire begins to abate, and by the end of one year you hardly miss them at all.

Very well. But in the meantime does anyone know the telephone number of Cigarette Commercials Anonymous?

Win at Bridge

by OSWALD AND JAMES JACOBY

We know a philosophical gambler who feels that you should gamble some every day. Otherwise, you might get into a streak of good luck and never know it.

We aren't going to go into the merits and demerits of this theory except to point out that the winning bridge player avoids gambling any time he has a sure-thing play.

South ruffs the second round of diamonds and draws trumps. At this point he has three ways to gamble with his contract. The first is to lead a heart toward dummy and finesse the jack. If it works he can discard one of dummy's clubs on the king of hearts and be sure of 10 tricks. If the finesse loses he will still make his contract if East holds the ace of clubs.

The second is to lead a club from dummy and play East for that same ace of clubs.

The third is to assume that West holds the ace of clubs and East the queen of hearts, but that West will only have two clubs so the ace will have to be played if South just plays two low clubs.

Any one of these gambles might work. If South chooses the right one he will be in one of those lucky streaks. If South is a winning bridge player he will take the sure-thing play.

He will win the second trump in dummy and ruff a diamond. Next will come three rounds of hearts, with the third round ruffed in dummy. Then South will lead dummy's last diamond and discard a low club from his hand. West will score a surprise diamond trick, but South will make his contract. West will either have to play a club or give South a ruff in dummy and discard a club from his own hand.

The Way We See It

Festival Helps Suburb Culture

The Schaumburg Festival of Arts, announced last week, promises to become one of the area's major cultural events.

Centered on Schaumburg High School, it will include an art festival, complete with exhibits of paintings, sculpture and other art forms, dramatic productions and concerts. Scheduled June 19 and 20, it will begin with a parade of floats, bands, baton twirlers, clowns and other units.

The art festival is designed to give local artists a chance to demonstrate their talent and stimulate awareness among Schaumburg residents of the existence of local talent. It is also designed to help finance a Schaumburg Civic Theater.

The fair will include paintings, water colors, ceramics, sculptures and crewel, for sale and for exhibition.

A children's play, the Young People's Theater, will be presented by the park district, and a magic show is scheduled Talent '71 will offer persons aged 14 to 19 a chance to demonstrate their talents. An evening of one-act plays is planned, along with a program featuring the music of the past decade.

Other community activities will tie in with the Festival of Arts. A poster contest for junior high school students will be used to call attention to the festival.

In area elementary schools, a poetry writing contest will be held. Special recognition at the festival will be given to winners of the poster and poetry contests.

The festival represents an enormous amount of planning and should provide a significant cultural boost for the entire Northwest suburban community.

"Lots of people have complained about the cultural void in this area," observed Mrs. Sonja Leraas, chairman. "This will be a large scale attempt to do something about it."

Judging by the reception of other cultural programs in the northwest area, the committee should find a real community interest, involvement and support.

Police and the Public

Many sources, including this newspaper, have repeatedly warned that serious trouble is brewing with and within the police forces of the United States.

There is far too little public recognition of the strain and the assault under which these forces live and operate. Their work has grown increasingly dangerous over recent years. They have been criticized, verbally attacked, scorned, termed "pigs," not only by callow collegians but far too often by members of the community who ought to know a good deal better. Finally, given the danger of their work, given their indispensable importance to society, they are often seriously underpaid.

It is impossible for individuals, other than candidates for sainthood, to live under such circumstances and not be tempted to feel anger and resentment. There is widespread conviction among policemen that they are the unappreciated scapegoats for society's ills, and that, if they do not stand up for themselves, nobody will.

The dangers which lie within a police strike are so monumental, however, that such strikes are quite reasonably looked upon as impermissible under any and all conditions. By striking, policemen put themselves on the same level with those who attack them. Indeed, they appear to lend substance to the charges made against them by those who have now made a career of being antipolice.

Finally, the terrible financial bind in which most cities find themselves makes it hard, if not impossible, to meet all of the po-licemen's demands, however fair these may seem when viewed against the country's general wage level.

But there will be no permanent solution to police discontent until all factors in the situation are taken into account. And by this we mean that society must once again come to openly recognize how much it owes the men who daily put their life on the line for society.

So long as television, radio, newspapers and magazines continue to give a sensationalized distorted view of police activities, so long as leading citizens pay more attention to the misdeeds of a few, while overlooking the heroism of many, police officers will continue a prey to slander and discontent.

The police often seem to be particular victims of snobism and elitism in American society. Police discontent affords additional proof of the desperate need to recognize and honor the worth of all men's work, so long as this upholds progress and order.

Pigs Are Offended

by NANCY COWGER

"What self-respecting pig wouldn't be insulted?"

In the interests of equal space, this writer took time off from regular duties yesterday to conduct a rather unusual interview — with a pig.

It all came about because of a recent upset in the Schaumburg Police Department. It seems the chief and his men were broiling over a drawing in a children's book depicting police officers in the shape of pigs. The police had their day in print. Now, to give the porkers their due, I'll relate my conversation with Curly Tail, noted among his fellows for his intelligence as well as his hammy nature.

"It was the police who let this nonsense sizzle up," said Curly. "You didn't hear any porkers complaining early. We like the cops. But we got mad when they acted like a comparison to us was such an insult. They should have had a sense of humor, like we did."

"Now, since you ask, why shouldn't we be mad?"

As Curly puts it, the pigs don't do anything to anger the public.

"We've accepted our role in life, feeding the hungry, even though it means a big sacrifice. What hurts even more is the cops' attitude."

"Pigs don't give traffic tickets, don't make you keep off the grass, even if it should be ours to romp in. We don't throw you in a sty if you enjoy your corn too much. We don't interfere if you want to steal someone else's feed."

"And how many times do you hear of a pig taking a bribe to keep someone away from the butcher's knife?"

In reaction to the comparison, police around the country have repeated a phrase using the letters from pig — Pride, Integrity and Guts. Curly had some comments on that too.

"We take pride in our work, too. We pass tests, just like the police. Only our finest fellows end up on your dining room table."

"Our integrity puts even the police to shame. You won't see any pig lining up for the slaughter unless he knows he can meet the test."

"And who could dare to question our guts. I do think the term rather indelicate, but remember, the police used it first. And since they did, I'll point out, sausages wouldn't be what they are today, without us."

But Curly calmed down long enough to repeat one bit of barnyard wisdom, in the way of advice to the police.

"Don't go looking for insults. You may wind up with ham and egg on your face."

Climax of a Bitter Saga

by MARTHA KOPER

There's probably more people in Palatine who don't have the vaguest idea what it means that Pebble Creek golf course is finally a part of the village than the vehement homeowners who have spent a lot of money to oppose the annexation.

The whole bitter story came to an end Monday night to the hooplas of the village board and the developer along with groans from a few homeowners.

The 66-acre tract at Baldwin and Hicks Road has been outside Palatine village limits since the beginning of time. As years passed, the land around the golf course gradually became part of the village. But the putting greens still retained their immunity.

Then a few years ago, a local builder, Elmer Gleich, eyed the land and decided it was a great spot for a few apartments. Just a few apartments — only two or three-story buildings.

You would have thought Gleich was asking to build slave headquarters on the land when he made his proposal known to the town. Some homeowners adjacent to the property stormed to the second floor of the village hall and shouted. The village board listened, and Gleich's annexation proposal was soundly defeated.

That's how the whole story started.

Martha Koper

Similar scenes have been enacted for the past four years, even though the land was sold to Sellergren Brothers Inc., which now intends to construct more than 1,600 apartments on the property.

Before the board's final action Monday night, the shouting got louder, the village board's actions became more hazy, and the developer got more confused.

The board requested several changes in the original plan. Jim Sellergren, vice president of the construction company, responded favorably to most of the demands.

The final argument staged by the group of die-hard opponents had to do with the density of apartments proportional to the land. I couldn't help but laugh.

I was the reporter who heard the same group claim — just two years ago — the property should never be more than a golf course. I was there a couple of months ago when they said they didn't care about a school site in the project as long as their homes were separated from the 13-story buildings by some open green space.

I've stayed at the village hall for hours on Monday nights listening to the group say the same things over and over again. And I've spent long Monday nights wondering why the village board continued to listen to the same old arguments.

This week, in their traditional anti-climatic fashion, village officials calmly approved the annexation with a unanimous vote. It's all over. Really. The end finally has come.

All that now remains are rumors that those same homeowners will start legal action against the village and stop at nothing to halt construction of what will be a tax boost to the village economy.

Welcome to friendly Palatine, Mr. Sellergren.

Bring Back The Buffalo!

by CRAIG GAARE

If Elk Grove has elk, and Deer Grove has deer, why doesn't Buffalo Grove have buffalo?

That question was posed to me recently by a Herald photographer. I couldn't answer him, but his query did start me thinking.

The village has stationery with a picture of a buffalo on it. It has decals for village vehicles with buffaloes on them. Even the village flag has a buffalo in its design.

There is Bill's Buffalo House, the Buffalo Grove Mall, the Bank of Buffalo Grove, the Buffalo Grove Golf Course, but no buffalo. Everywhere one looks in the village, there is the word "buffalo," but where is the object of this affection and reverence? Why isn't there a live buffalo in Buffalo Grove?

There must have been a buffalo there at one time or another in order for Buffalo Grove to get its name. But the buffalo in Buffalo Grove must have suffered the same fate as the Buffalo Utility Co. — it was junked and has become extinct.

Just think. What a civic project it would be! The Jaycees, the Lions Club, the boy scouts, cub scouts and brownies could all fight for the distinction of bringing a buffalo back to Buffalo Grove!

A suitable site for the buffalo to live would have to be selected. Two sites come to mind immediately. One would be the "Raupp Memorial," an abandoned barn south of Rte. 83 which the Jaycees are supposed to develop. This would give them an inside advantage. They could turn the barn into a home for the buffalo so residents could observe the animal all year-round. However, an alternate site would be more agreeable to the village residents and most likely to the buffalo, too.

An ideal site would be the 40-acre tract of land behind the Ranchmart shopping center for which 900 apartment units are currently planned. There the buffalo could romp and graze in an open field. I'm sure residents in the area would much rather have a buffalo living next door to them than "those transient apartment people."

If that site were to be selected, village trustees could condemn the land and move to get it dedicated as a national buffalo sanctuary by the federal government. Imagine what that would do to land values in the area!

The village fathers could get real estate experts to testify that land values would soar, just as the people who opposed the apartments had experts testify that land values would plunge if apartments were to be built there.

The way to do it would be to designate the property as a national buffalo shrine and then seek a federal grant to buy a buffalo. Who ever heard of a buffalo sanctuary without a buffalo on it?

The whole question could become an election issue with candidates charging there is a "buffalo gap" because there is a buffalo sanctuary and no buffalo.

The first step must be taken.

I propose that the village board commission a study to determine the feasibility of putting the buffalo back in Buffalo Grove. The study would have to determine the "buffalo ratio," recommending the proper number of buffalo related to the village's population.

Then the village slogan, making the buffalo worship complete, could be "As Buffalo Grove Grows, So Grow the Buffalo" or maybe "The Home Where the Buffalo Roams."

If the buffalo don't roam in Buffalo Grove, then the village's name should be changed. A likely name would be Franksville, in honor of Albert Frank, the original developer of Buffalo Grove. He's still around.

Project Assists Migrant Children

It is with a great deal of pride and pleasure that I write this letter to thank you for your enthusiastic support of our "Choose a Child — Buy a Smile for Xmas" project.

A project of this nature depends largely on the awareness of the public and the power of the press cannot be over estimated. Your coverage of our project completely told the story to the Des Plaines residents and they responded with love and generosity.

An 'Open Letter'

By Palatine GOP

As Village Trustee candidates of the Regular Republican Organization of Palatine, we are being contacted by many people representing homeowners associations and community organizations on how they may best lend their support.

As Republican candidates we favor and will work for a two-way communication system with all residents, homeowners associations and community organizations. It is our hope that all groups in all areas of the village will maintain a free flow of communication with us. We pledge to be responsive to any group expressing concerns.

We feel that much of the strength of our community lies in the integrity of its homeowners' and community organizations. This strength flows from the fact that these organizations represent citizens of all political persuasions working not just for their own good but also for the good of the whole community.

We believe that any plan to exploit homeowners groups or community organizations for political purposes would be detrimental to good government in our village.

While we would be encouraged and flattered to receive any endorsement and formal support, we feel this would not be the most appropriate way to represent all of the people. For this reason we do not seek the endorsement of any existing non-political organization.

We will, however, welcome individual support of all citizens who share our belief in the need for more efficient and responsive village government.

Cut Your Own Taxes

Now Is Time To Consider 1971 Income Tax Return

by RAY De CRANE

It may sound absurd to suggest planning right now for your 1971 income tax return. Now is the time you are most concerned about your 1970 return.

Yet, the suggestion to start thinking now of next year's return is good advice.

Tax laws are constantly changing. You have seen many of the changes which became effective last year. Even more changes are effective this year. For example:

Last year's surcharge of 2½ per cent is eliminated.

The credit for dependents and the personal exemption is $650 for 1971.

The standard deduction which for years had been 10 per cent of adjusted gross income (limited to a maximum of $1,000), is upped for 1971 to 13 per cent of adjusted gross income with a maximum of $1,500 on a joint return, or $750 on a separate return of husband and wife.

It is this last change, the upgrading of the standard deduction to much higher levels, that should create close scrutiny of each person's tax status throughout the year.

Unless for the next several years you expect to have high real estate tax payments and high mortgage interest payments, this could be the perfect year to get on the alternate year cycle of itemizing deductions.

This tax-savings technique requires you to pack as many deductible items as possible into the year in which you itemize deductions. In the following year you hold down your deductions to the bare minimum and elect to take the standard deduction.

When you really stop to examine your individual situation closely, you will be surprised the extent to which you can control your deductions.

In many communities real estate taxes may be paid in either December or January. This gives you the choice of two tax years. Don't make December payments if that is going to be the year in which you will take the standard deduction. Save the payment until January.

The same applies to year-end medical payments and charitable contributions. Make your deductions work for you. Use them to their fullest advantage.

This is the way prudent taxpayers handle their finances.

And remember the admonition against ending the year with a net long-term capital loss, if you are a stock market investor. Review your portfolio frequently throughout the year. Use your gains and losses to maximum advantage.

Money Crisis Doesn't Stop Requests

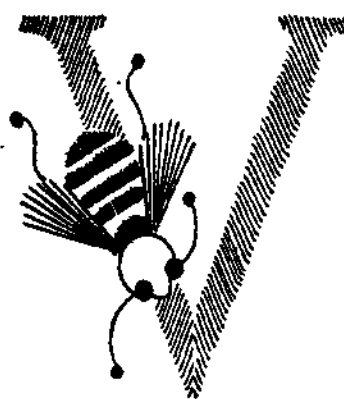

The current financial crisis within the Volunteer Service Bureau of Northwest Cook County has not interfered with the flow of requests for volunteers coming into the main office and the branch offices.

Maryville Academy in Des Plaines which houses approximately 500 youngsters between the ages of 6 and 18 years old has filed several requests. The children in the academy have been declared wards of the court and are housed in the academy, according to the bureau.

One request is for someone willing to be the volunteer coordinator for the academy to handle the paperwork and other details of volunteering. This job will include someone to help coordinate the activities of the volunteers and thanking the volunteers for their time, freeing the academy's social workers from this task.

Another request from the academy is for someone to cut hair. The volunteer would be working either after school hours, evenings or weekends. The usual volunteer commitment is for three hours a week, although these time commitments can be arranged on a once-a-month basis.

ANOTHER OPPORTUNITY for volunteering includes participating in the Juvenile Court Volunteer Program. A special training program will be presented in the Northwest suburban area beginning the end of February. This volunteer program requires three two-hour sessions of basic training.

THE VOLUNTEER BUREAU'S SYMBOL

The training includes instruction on the nature of probation and the formulas which other court volunteers have found successful in working with these youngsters, ages 12 to 15, who are not hard-core delinquents. These youngsters are ones who are primarily in need of a friend to see them through a crucial time in their lives, according to the bureau.

The program has been operated in other areas and the success is partially based on the youngster realizing that someone cares about him, according to the bureau.

Volunteers may still register for the training sessions, receive screening and then take part in the program. The volunteer assignment covers a period of six months of one to three hours per week. Male volunteers are particularly needed in this program, according to the bureau.

ONE OF THE volunteer programs presently under way is sociology class students in a high school are participating in field work assignments. Agencies which have received high school volunteers in this experiment include Holy Family Hospital, Northwest Opportunity Center, Headstart classes, Lutheran Home for the Aged, Maryville Academy and Little City. High school students have also been participating with special interest programs for elementary school students.

The Lois Moore office serving Palatine Township is in the process of conducting training programs for volunteer coordinators in schools. Dist. 15 and parochial schools in the area are participating in the training.

As the program of volunteering grows, the main office of the bureau has become increasingly aware of the importance of a coordinator to work exclusively with an agency or a school for scheduling, record keeping and trouble shooting. Many hospitals employ paid directors of their volunteer staffs. Their quantity of volunteers, structured program and method of recognition of the volunteer's contribution are well known in the world of social welfare, according to the bureau.

THE VOLUNTEER Service Bureau is set up as a clearing house where people may view the panorama of where volunteers are used, where agencies may file requests, where consultation may be given on volunteer programs and screening of applicants relieves the agencies of some of this vital and time-consuming procedure. The bureau, in addition to conducting training programs for school coordinators, has resented classes in "Friendly Visitors," a program aimed at helping shut-ins and elderly people.

The bureau's main office operates from donated office space at John Hersey High School in Arlington Heights. The bureau's main phone number is 392-6051.

The bureau is presently preparing for the summer when it expects many high school and college age students who will not be able to find employment. A good volunteer job for a student often is more meaningful than menial summer employment, according to the bureau.

Students Make Safe Toys For Children

Students in the Child Care Occupations program at Maine West High School have been making safe and purposeful toys for children. The toys include a bean bag throwing board to improve muscular development in children, a sewing card to improve eye-hand coordination and manipulation, a creative hop sack with zipper mouth to develop interest and imagination in children, and a "Things I Can Do" book that gives the child practice in using zippers, snaps, belts, hook and eyes, and buttons.

Other toys which the students made under the direction of Miss Shirley Kipina, Maine West home economics instructor, are a Touch and Feel board with different shapes and textures attached, a ball and catch cup which improves coordination, an alarm clock to learn how to tell time, and a soap project where a picture is fastened to a bar of soap.

Child Care Occupations is being offered for the first time this year at Maine West. It is part of the Cooperative Education program. It provides the students with a job situation where they learn to apply the principles of child care and learn the responsibility of having a job. Students are able to work at nursery schools in the area.

More Colorful More Carefree More Comfortable

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Throw away your chenille bedspread; put those fancy sheets back in the linen closet — you don't need them anymore. Mattresses have come into their own and the beauty of their designs eliminates the need for any other covering.

Even bedding has gone mod with major manufacturers displaying lively florals and quilted damask coverings. Box springs either match the prints or come in color coordinated solids. The old striped mattress ticking is a thing of the past for today's buyer.

Could it be that the ultimate mattress has arrived? They are dirt resistant, firmer than ever, don't need to be turned and are colorful beyond your wildest dreams. And that's the conventional ones. If you choose, you can float your way to dreamland on a waterbed — economically.

MANUFACTURERS, such as Sealy, have brought greater edge strength to their coil spring mattresses. Serta has put a contour edge on its boxspring to keep the mattress stationary.

Mattresses need little care — only occasional dusting and thorough vacuuming twice a year — thanks to acrylic finishings and Scotchgarding.

The Perfect Sleeper Patrician by Serta is a breakthrough in the bedding industry. Blue, violet, green and gold quilted floral ticking covers mattress and box spring. The big news is that this mattress never needs to be turned.

A scientifically designed foundation works coil for coil with the mattress and extra heavy perimeter coils reinforce the Twin Edge design.

SEALY BOASTS of a revolutionary new mattress foundation named Posture Grid. This is the first foundation to be developed without coil springs. It's geometrically formed spring wire foundation lets body weight be distributed throughout the foundation, regardless of the sleeper's position. The unit is also lighter in weight than box spring units and is virtually noise free.

It is designed to cradle the mattress to reduce shifting and prevent gaps between mattress and foundation.

Sealy's new Posturepedic Imperial is covered in blue and white lace damask, highlighted by ribbons of satin. A patent is pending on the Posturepedic mattress spring unit, which has been designed to give firmer support.

A double row of outer coils with a special locking device reinforces the perimeter, making a substantial improvement in one of the most vulnerable areas of the mattress, the edges, according to Burt Goodman, Sealy vice-president.

SPRING AIR is introducing a new national line of Comfort mattresses at a moderate price. Floral patterns decorate this and all other Spring Air lines this season.

New for King Koil this year are the Diplomat and Spine Care mattresses in the company's Posture Bond series. An easy care acrylic finish is a feature of the floral print cover.

Geometrics, florals and strips of red, white and blue decorate King Koil's Hollywood line. Box springs are done in solid navy for contrast.

A budget waterbed is available through King Koil, a division of the United States Bedding Company, with suggested retail prices starting at $199. Prices on the Deluxe Waterbeds are down by as much as $100.

GREATER SALES volume than originally anticipated and improved production facilities have reduced prices, according to Lewis Miller, vice president of marketing.

Frames are made of wood and are upholstered in Naugahyde in the Budget Waterbed series and heating elements are controlled by a thermostat.

Sofa beds this year are as attractive as any couch you could buy. Englander has 22 models to choose from, among them the new Texas King which gives you 74 inches by 74 inches of sleeping room.

Englander's Bed 'N Sofa line also features a seating height of 17 inches when the unit is closed — exactly matching the standard height of upholstered furniture.

The Magic Bed by Flexsteel Industries converts from sofa to a full size 80-inch long boy bed and can be opened without moving it away from the wall.

AN INDUSTRY-WIDE effort to promote the "modern way to sleep" will begin during "Debut '72," an environmental merchandising program with the theme, "A Whole New Way of Living."

This is the springboard for development of all types of ideas to stimulate the sales of the super sizes in mattresses, particularly the Queen, according to Howard Haas, president of Sealy.

"We believe that the decade of the seventies will see the Queen size emerge as the standard size bed for two people as the full size we know today fades into oblivion," he said.

YOU NEVER HAVE TO struggle with a mattress again with the new Perfect Sleeper Patrician by Serta. Its revolutionary construction eliminates the need for turning.

Also new is its quilted floral covering — Scotchgarded for easy care.

The Home Line by Dorothy Ritz

Dear Dorothy: I sprinkle seed and crumbs outdoors for the birds but would like to hang out some of the simple feeders that are made of suet, seeds and such. Would you know how I could make some of these? — Anna Mae W.

I don't know the specific formulas but a pet shop reports they make such feeders in the shape of bells. One is honey, heated and mixed with bird seed and allowed to solidify. The other is rendered suet, mixed with seed, placed on a plate and hung in a tree or put on a board which has a nail through it from the bottom. The suet mixture is then shaped around the top of the nail and hung.

Dear Dorothy: Thought I read in your column that nylon slips were being made with antistatic properties. I bought a slip recently that clings as usual and is quite a nuisance when I wear knits. Is there anything that I can do to it? — Helen W.

Rinsing it in a fabric softener will help a little. But it won't be as satisfactory as the new slips being made with antistatic and antisoil properties. You'll have to look at the labels and buy only those that state specifically they are made this way.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that charcoal is given to animals to sweeten their stomach and breath? — Mrs. Robert D.

That's what pet shop owners say. All such shops sell charcoal biscuits. It's also said that these biscuits also help clean their teeth.

Dear Dorothy: If the runners on a sled should become rusty between uses, the rust can be removed with steel wool and washing thoroughly with hot suds. Then, when dry, rub with slightly dampened soap and you're back in business. — Sandy G.

Dear Dorothy: Our office installed new high-pile carpeting and the static electricity was driving all of us to ulcers. Every time I touched the phone I got a big blue spark, and our boss was hesitant to shake hands with clients. Finally, a firm provided us with a colorless, odorless spray that eliminated the static. Only catch is that after each vacuuming we have to spray again to stay shock-free. — Sharon Wimp.

Move over, I'm in the same fix. This is another of those cases where the manufacturer's propaganda snowed so many of us. We were telling many readers who asked that the "treated" nylon carpets were static-free and bought it myself. The man of the house has always given off sparks, but never so literally. He swears he's about to be electrocuted. So I've been researching assiduously. Yes, the spray works but for homes the better course seems to be the humidifier. I've plugged humidifiers for a long time as an answer to problems acute during the heating season. There seem to be fewer respiratory ailments and furniture does not dry out and crack. Now, promised that these devices also cut down static electricity, I'm going the humidifier route to get benefits beyond ending the shock waves.

TIP TO BRIDES: If fresh pineapple is your desire and you're not sure when it's ripe, try the tender leaves in the middle of the crown. If they come out easily and pineapple smells good, it's ready.

Women And Engineering Power

"Women and their Engineering Power" will be the theme of a symposium sponsored by the Chicago Section of the Society of Women Engineers at the Chicago Circle Campus of the University of Illinois on March 20.

The symposium will deal with two basic types of problems; those affecting the environment as a whole, which might benefit from the representation of women, particularly women scientists and engineers, in their control and solution; and, problems primarily affecting the lives of women, which might not exist if women had a greater representation in the engineering profession.

ENGINEERS, scientists, architects and students are invited to submit papers dealing with the problems of women's environment and her lack of representation in the control of it. Copies should be submitted by Feb. 15. Interested persons desiring further information may contact: Eileen Duignan Woods at 525-6377.

Gourmet Lesson For Iverness

"A Gourmet Meal in Minutes" will be demonstrated by Charlotte Erickson to the Women's Club of Inverness next Monday afternoon. The demonstration will follow the general meeting and tea scheduled for 12:30 at the Inverness Community Field House.

Mrs. Erickson, who lives in Bensenville, has made numerous radio and TV appearances. In addition to being the author of "The Freezer Cookbook," Mrs. Erickson writes a weekly food column which appears in the Herald. It incorporates her time and energy-saving ideas for the busy woman in the kitchen.

For the Inverness Club, Mrs. Erickson will demonstrate the art of fondue including a recipe for an all-inclusive fondue sauce. She also will give those present her recipe for pickled mushrooms and a sauce for ice cream. All food prepared will be available for sampling after the demonstration. There will also be time for a question and answer period.

Something's Fishy Here!

If your mouth is watering for fish, don't call Mrs. Robert Robinson. She may try to sell you her house.

Mrs. R's phone has been mistakenly listed in a flyer as the number to call for reservations for the fish fry sponsored by Mount Prospect Welcome Wagon Newcomers. Worse yet, we dum-dums at the newspaper copied the number for our story earlier this week!

Mrs. R., who has been most gracious about the mistake, is not a member of the Mount Prospect Club; she's an "old-comer" of Arlington Heights who is about to become a "pastcomer."

So if you want fish instead of a house, the number to call is 392-9108, the phone of Mrs. Anthony Benedetto who is taking reservations for the Friday, Feb. 26, fish fry at the Village Tavern in Long Grove. That's right — the 26th, not the 27th as listed in the erring flyer!

The luncheon this year will come shortly before the Center celebrates its 76th birthday. It was on Valentine's Day, 1895 that the late Dr. Joseph B. DeLee, the "father of modern obstetrics," began the traveling maternity hospital and organized it to send teams of doctors and nurses to deliver babies in the home of low-income families.

Cards Vs. Hinsdale In Gym Spectacular

by PAUL LOGAN

Simply put, the Arlington-Hinsdale Central showdown on Saturday will be the premier prep gymnastics dual in the nation.

That's the feeling of both coaches — Tom Walhouse of the Cardinals and Tony Canino of the Red Devils. It's hard to refute their claim:

"Both red and white clad teams are ranked 1-2 in Illinois, the No. 1 state for producing collegiate material."

"Both carry dual meet averages in the 130s, a plateau on which no other team in the state sits."

"Both carry long winning dual marks into the battle. Arlington, barring an upset tonight against Prospect, will be at 60-0 Hinsdale, following its easy meet with LaGrange on Friday, will be 20-0."

"Both schools have accounted for the last three state team titles — Arlington in '68 and '69 and Hinsdale, runner-up to the Cards in '69, in '70."

Walhouse and Canino, two old friends from college days, are both optimistic about the meet. However, each has different reasons.

Canino is more candid in his pre-meet observations, but his reasons for thinking his team will win are well grounded. He will throw an almost all-senior lineup at Arlington with just two juniors each on the side horse and trampoline. His seniors, veterans of state meet pressure, defeated Arlington's seniors two years ago as sophomores, 68-64. Canino explains:

"The boys remember that ('68 meet) well. 'Our boys (varsity) kinda choked (134.85 to 119.05). That was the first year we began to rise to power."

"We're looking forward to it (meet). I feel we've got a stronger team than Tom's. I think that if anybody has the team to beat Arlington it's us. But I won't bank on it because I have a lot of respect for Tom Walhouse."

Walhouse has a much different team than Canino. It is young and strong, capable of hitting big in the clutch but just as capable — since it is dominated by juniors — of missing its challenging routines.

Tonight's 8:00 meeting with rival Prospect at the Arlington gym will possibly tell the tale. Walhouse will be having his team test its new tricks in preparation for Saturday. If they can perform them well against the Knights, the Cards should be ready for the state's No. 1 ranked team.

"We're putting them (routines) in because we're capable of doing them," Walhouse explains. "We're trying to accept the challenge Saturday... a great challenge to accept."

Walhouse labeled the Prospect meet as being "very important!" and added, "I'm just glad they're a good team. They ought to score high. I hope they do."

Statistically speaking, Prospect does not have the overall team strength as Arlington. Rich Chew, the Knight coach points this out:

"Arlington is a very solid team. They've got a bunch of good kids. They'll be on their home floor on their own equipment and in front of their own fans. This has to be a slight advantage. But it will be the same way for Hinsdale on Saturday."

"Arlington's score does not fluctuate. We'll have to hit at least 135 against them and then just hope."

If the Cardinals get by tonight's hurdle, they take their gaudy dual meet record into a Hinsdale gym that's expected to be filled with 4,000 people, mostly Red Devil advocates.

Canino expects the two teams to wind up in the high 140s — a most amazing total that is possible if both teams hit. Hinsdale has had two 144s and a 140 this season and Arlington has registered a 142. The latter occurred without two of his high bar men hitting, according to Walhouse.

"I don't know what we can score," Walhouse says. "I know we're going to win, barring injuries. If they throw their routines. It may be by just a couple of tenths of a point."

Hinsdale has two of the best performers in the state in Bob Anderson and Ted Marcy. Anderson carries the best all-around average (7.78) and Marcy is tops on the side horse (9.0).

Other Red Devils to watch are Marty Myers on the parallel bars (8.55), Randy Hartanov in free exercise (8.15) and Perry Barnes also on the parallel bars (8.0).

Arlington will be counting on its six seniors — Steve Brogdon, Larry Bosung, Jeff McGuire, Bob Wilson, Greg Datillo and Tom Sayre — to do their usually consistent best. But the underclassmen will tell the story. If this group can accept the challenge as if they were seniors, the meet should go Arlington's way, according to Walhouse.

"My juniors are the ones who are going to be trying to get eight or better," says Walhouse. "They're capable of doing it. If they do, Hinsdale Central will see a helluva team."

Knights To Visit Cards

by KEITH REINHARD

All eyes along the Illinois gym circuit now look to Saturday and Arlington's big showdown at Hinsdale Central.

All eyes, that is, except for the Cardinals themselves, who still have one formidable barrier to be overtaken if they wish to carry their long dual winning streak safely into the big non-conference showdown with the defending state champs.

That blockade is being prepared by Rich Chew's Prospect contingent, which will invade the Card nest tonight to headline another full slate of Mid-Suburban league contests.

The Thursday lineup, in addition to the Knight-Cardinal fray, has Forest View playing to Hershey, Glenhard North sailing in to Fremd, Wheeling navigating over to Palatine and Elk Grove trouncing out to Conant. As usual, favorites are installed, although at both Arlington and Conant especially, upsets are not out of the question.

Tom Walhouse has his hands full keeping the Big Red from looking ahead. Their hookup with Hinsdale is billed as one of the major sporting events in the state for the year and a world of prestige will be riding on the outcome.

But the Knights can't be taken lightly. They zoomed up into the 130s despite losing to Evanston last Saturday. They have some of the class veterans in the league. And they go into this evening's battle tied with their hosts for first place in the MSL.

Individually, Chew's club is in good position to snare at least a trio of blue ribbons with one more up for grabs. Guy Courtney takes nearly an eight-point average into free exercise competition and is expected to easily dominate the event while Howie Beck leads the side horse field with a 7.74 tempo.

Prospect also has the all around man with the higher average in Rich Valentino. He is in the seven point range. Arlington's best, Doug Law, has fashioned a 6.69 league average.

And while Card Joe Tenko figures to ease out Knight Jim Lutz for the high bar prize, Tom Sayre of the hosts should outdistance Courtney for trampoline laurels, and Law looks to chase Valentino on the p-bars, the still rings winner is anybody's guess.

Bob Wilson of Arlington possesses a 7.97 rings rating but Knight Don Liston has forged a 7.83 average in loop meets for the same event. If the meet does wind up a close one, their performances at the conclusion of the action could have much riding on them.

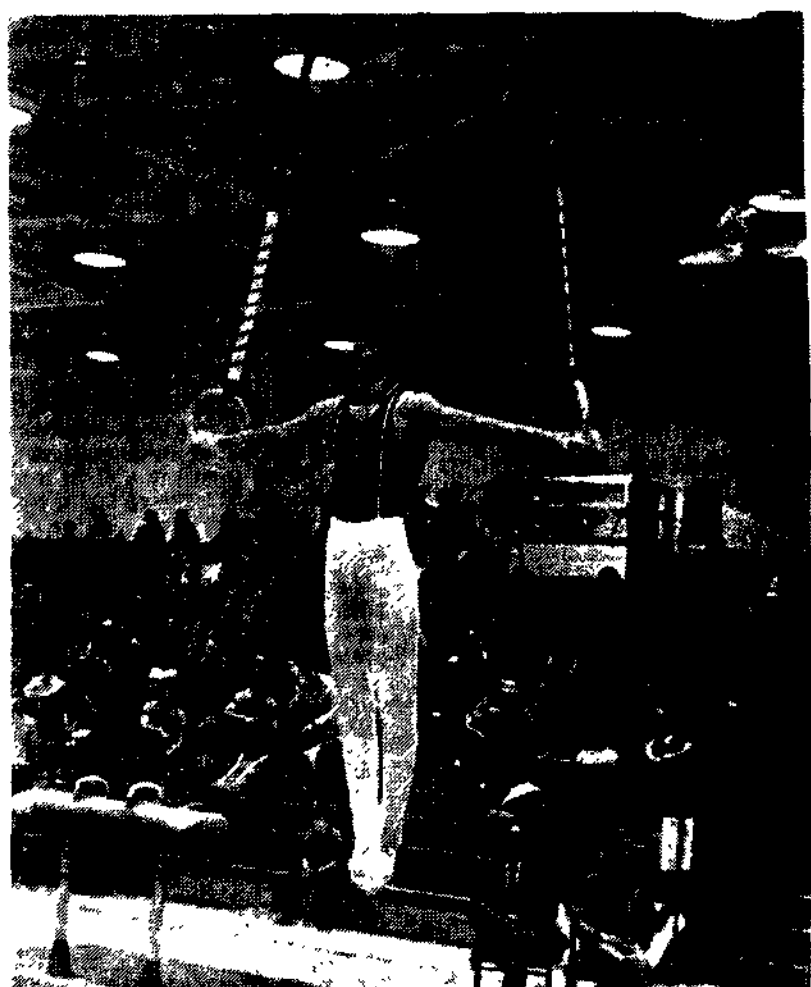

Meanwhile at Conant, the visitors will bring along a team average over ten (points higher than their foes but will yield the home floor advantage to a rapidly improving Cougar lineup.

Conant turned back Wheaton North and East Leyden last weekend to up their overall slate to 8-4. Elk Grove is 6-2 and has dropped only one in conference.

The Huskies will be protecting a 9-1 record when they entertain the Falcons (2-6) and the Wildcats, fresh from victory over Wheaton Central will take an 8-2 mark into their match with the Pirates. The Pirates are 5-3 and are bound to become the eight league entry in the 100 club eventually after beating DeKalb Saturday with a 95.82 finish.

Fremd has already turned that trick now and they'll be hoping to improve their 4-5 overall mark at the expense of the Panthers after throttling both Rich Central and Downers Grove Friday with a 100.21 accumulation.

Wheeling Hits Season High In Gym Success

Crackerjack displays by Wheeling's parallel bars and still rings teams destroyed a slim Wheaton Central advantage and propelled the hosting Wildcats to victory and their highest composite of the season Saturday.

Wayne Selvig's outfit finished at 122.31, to 116.30 for the Tigers. The total was five points better than their previous best for the season, forged Friday against Hershey, and upped the overall 'Cat win-loss log to 8-2.

The home team trailed 60.75 to 59.05 at the midway point but John Fisher's nice 7.25 routine on the tramp helped them whittle away a tenth of point. Then Jerry Hinkle, Chris Krolack and Rene Mathis teamed up to give Wheeling a 20-point tally on the p-bars and Mathis, Ray Meister and Rick Bieg followed through with a 21.25 windup on the rings that all but buried last year's number five team in state.

Mathis was easily the star of the show, turning in seven point performances in four of his five undertakings to breeze off with all around honors. He finished with a 6.46 tempo and nabbed a pair of blue ribbons along the way.

Mathis was beat on the high bars, with a winning 7.7 demonstration, but it was his contributions to the p-bars and rings efforts that provided the most impact. He won on the parallel bars too at 7.4 while Krolack turned in a 6.8 and Hinkle provided a 6.3 to give the 'Cats a 20.50 to 17.60 edge for the event.

Bill Glen turned in a respectable 6.1 at the same time for the hosts which was better three of the four Tiger showings.

On rings Mathis fashioned a 7.2 for third while teammate Bieg was winning with a strong 7.6 judging. Meister added a 6.55 and again Wheeling's number four man — Reinhard Broy — topped three of the enemy entries with a 5.95 effort.

Earlier the Wildcats had come on with a fine team showing in free exercise. Hinkle hitting 7.45, Bill Borosak 7.2 and Mathis 7.0. But Central countered with a strong exhibition themselves and Hinkle had to settle for second, Borosak for third and Mathis for fifth.

The visitors also dominated side horse action, snaring first, second and fourth prizes but Mathis came up with his winning high bar show right afterwards and the 'Cats were on their way back.

Wheeling also captured the frosh-soph meet, 68.98 to 62.04.

Walkin' the Sidelines

by PAUL LOGAN

DAVE ZIEMEK, one of the truly talented coaches in the Herald area, will be calling it quits after this season.

Ziemek will step down as Prospect High School's head wrestling coach and step up as director of student activities at Rolling Meadows High School this fall.

"I had always wanted to move up as far as an administrative position is concerned," Ziemek said after his appointment earlier this week. "This is both an opportunity for myself and my family. I hope it will provide more time to spend with them."

Ziemek has been one of the most successful wrestling coaches in the state the past five years. Several highlights during his reign as head coach were his 51 straight dual wins, three Mid-Suburban League titles and the only shutout ever recorded in the conference — 12-0 over Wheeling.

After starting Ridgewood's wrestling program in his first two years of coaching, Ziemek came to Prospect as Dick Mudge's assistant for four years.

During the past eight years at Prospect he has used a coaching philosophy that built one winning team after another. But his ninth year has brought frustration because today's athlete has to be handled differently.

"I'm kind of unhappy with coaching," Ziemek said while reflecting on what he termed "his worst year" ('63-64). "The caliber of kids is a different type than in years past."

Ziemek says he does not want to change his way of coaching which he still believes is the best way. Instead, he is going into the administrative part of education and leaving the coaching to someone who has a different coaching philosophy.

Besides his wrestling job, Dave has been assistant football coach as well as a mathematics instructor.

The sports department wishes you well, Dave. You will be missed.

JOHN BRODNAN, Arlington's classy guard, has been shooting past one all-time area great after another with each game.

The Cardinals' scoring sensation, presently leading the area with a 23.6 average, zoomed past the 14th and 13th players on the all-time scoring list — George Bork (Arlington) 783 and George Pomey (Prospect) 799 — with his 30 point performance against Elk Grove Friday.

Brodnan now has 806 points during his three-year career. He had 21 in token appearances as a sophomore and 478 as a junior.

Another good night could move him past Jack Bastable, ranked 12th with 824 points.

Should Brodnan continue at his present clip, he could become a member of the 1,000-point club. This would put him No. 4 on the list behind such greats as Ron Kozlicki (Palatine) 1,562; Tom Lundstedt (Prospect) 1,222; and Steve Allen (Arlington) 1,124.

In the meantime, John will have to leap frog over eight former stars including Chuck Close. Close was a starting guard for three years with John's brother, Gary. Close finished with 856 points. Gary is now coaching the Cardinal jayvee team.

Another mark within Brodnan's aim is Bork's single season scoring record at Arlington — 497. John missed it by just 19 last year and is only 190 points away heading into the Palatine game.

TWO OTHER MSL players are also moving up on the all-time list — Hershey's junior sensation Andy Paneratz, and Fremd's senior front liner, Randy Hague.

Paneratz has 723 points after last week's action. He collected 83 as a freshman, 365 as a sophomore and 275 so far this year. Paneratz could finish second on the all-time list before he's through.

Hague could finish high on the all-time list if he can pick up his scoring. He started off strong as a sophomore with 253 points but was injured last year and only scored 192. After last weekend's performance big Randy has 673 points.

ARLINGTON'S BIG GYMNASICS meet with Hinsdale Central on Saturday will match a pair of coaching strategists who got started in the business at the same time.

Hinsdale's Tony Canino, a good friend of Arlington's Tom Walhouse, explains: "The unique thing about us is that we are both from the same school (Navy Pier). Both of us were introduced to gymnastics by the same man, Dr. Harold Fry. He's a gymnastics coach now at the University of California at Berkeley. They won the national championship two years ago."

Both coaches attribute a great deal of their success to a lot of hard work and having athletes who are dedicated. One thing they do disagree on is the use of underclassmen.

Walhouse believes in bringing up freshmen who can do the job on the sophomore team and sophomores or juniors who are good enough for the varsity. Reid Olson is just one of several examples of this, according to Walhouse. Olson was a state champion on the rings as a sophomore in 1963.

Canino disagrees: "We don't have to use juniors on the varsity and we don't have to use freshmen on the sophomore teams. These are the things that make a strong program. Boys must wait their turn. Senior year is payoff year."

Hinsdale's sophomore teams have run up a 64-0 mark over the past five years and its varsity is 62-3. Besides his varsity's lofty 138.78 average in duals, his sophomore team is just as impressive with a 72 total.

One thing that has to be considered is the caliber of competition both teams have faced over the years. While Hinsdale's teams have been running up tremendous records, Arlington's teams have been doing the same against much tougher foes.

Although Hinsdale will be on its own equipment, in front of a partisan crowd and honoring the parents of the athletes in a special ceremony, this one factor — stronger competition — may prove to be Arlington's ace in the hole.

There's also another ace which is both-ering Canino as he points out: "There is something mythical about Arlington and the way they have of gathering together and beating a team which is stronger than them. They've got a fine tradition behind them."

How To Get To Hinsdale

Hinsdale Central expects a capacity house — 4,000 people — for the dual gymnastics meet with Arlington Saturday night at 8:00. So, Arlington fans, you'd better go early.

Take the Tri-State Tollway south and get off at the Ogden Ave. exit. Go west on Ogden about four blocks to York Road and turn left. Take York all the way to Hinsdale (York Road becomes Garfield St. in Hinsdale). Take this road to 55th St. and turn right and drive to the next stoplight and turn left on Grant. Assumption Advances Assumption College, for years a patsy on the Holy Cross schedule, has used a victory over the Crusaders as a stepping stone.

Assumption, unbeaten in 12 games this season, crushed Holy Cross, a major college with an 11-3 record entering the game, 95-72, last week and thus advanced into the No. 2 ranking in United Press International's top 20 small college basketball teams.

Kentucky State retained its No. 1 ranking by turning back Northwood and Tennessee State, ranked third last week in the balloting by the United Press International Board of Coaches.

Southwest Louisiana took third in the balloting, followed by Tennessee State and two more Louisiana schools, Louisiana Tech and Louisiana State at New Orleans. Kentucky Wesleyan, S. F. Austin, Ashland and Philadelphia Textile completed the top 10.

We're Loyal To You...

State Rep. Webster Borchers has introduced a bill asking the General Assembly to earmark $500 for the University of Illinois so the school's original Chief Illiniwek costume can be "suitably displayed."

Chief Illiniwek is a student at the University's Champaign-Urbana campus who does an authentic Indian costume and performs a traditional dance between halves of the Illini's home football games. He also appears at basketball games.

Since 1926, when Chief Illiniwek first danced the length of Zupke Field, 19 Illiniweks have kept the tradition alive. The second Chief Illiniwek was Borchers, who did the Indian dance from 1929-1931 in the costume he now hopes to restore and publicly display at the university's band museum.

They Surprised Howley

If you were surprised that Chuck Howley won the automobile as the Most Valuable Player in the Super Bowl, you're not alone. Chuck Howley was, too.

The Dallas Cowboys' linebacker received the auto presented by Sport Magazine to the Super Bowl MVP at a luncheon and admitted he was flabbergasted when he learned he was the winner.

"I was really surprised," said Howley. "I didn't think a member of the losing team — especially a member of the defensive team — would get the award. I was in the shower when they came in to notify me."

When asked whom he would have voted for, Howley hesitated and then smiled, "I'm prejudiced."

Dazzler At The Line

Rick Howat of Illinois, one of the nation's leading free throw shooters, enjoyed quite a streak at a recent practice session. He dropped in 123 straight and says he has improved his shooting by spreading his feet further and crouching at the line.

Saxons Race Past Dundee

Schaumburg's basketball team christened their brand new gymnasium the proper way, inviting over their coach's former charges from Dundee and then proceeding to romp to an impressive 94-60 inaugural victory in the exhibition jay-vie affair.

It was the fourth straight conquest for Saxon mentor John Paul's red-hot group. With John Balasco and Larry Weller providing 63 points worth of punch between them, the hosts stormed to a 31-19 lead after a quarter of play and then coasted to the win, Schaumburg's seventh in 15 tries this season. The Saxons capitalized on fast breaks and hot hands to compile a torrid 69.1 accuracy percent afield along the way.

Paul was head coach of the Cardinal alignment for 11 years prior to coming to Schaumburg this past fall. Blasco struck 13 times from the floor and added seven free tosses to produce his biggest output of the campaign at 33 points. Weller popped in a dozen more field goals and 30 tallies all told in addition to assisting on seven other scoring plays.

Hustling 5-7 guard Marty Hjertstedt plunked in 13 pointers for the Saxon cause and also came up with a record 13 assists.

If the home surroundings are going to continue to provide such incentive for Schaumburg, the young outfit should be in fine shape for a glorious windup. . . all the rest of the Saxon contests except district play are slated there.

Last Sign-Up In Palatine

Saturday (Jan. 30) will be the last chance for boys ages eight through 16 in Palatine to register for the Boys Baseball program.

Boys must reside west of Rohlwing Road and north of the railroad tracks to be eligible.

Registration is being held at St. Theresa School, 445 N. Benton, from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

Boys Baseball is replacing Little League in the Palatine central area. Boys will thus have a chance to play until a later age.

Over Arlington, Prospect

Swim Honors To Warriors

You might say that Arlington won the battles but lost the war to Maine West.

The Cardinals hosted a triangular swim meet and won seven out of the 11 first places but the Warriors came away with the meet title. The scoring went this way: Maine West 79, Arlington 66 and Prospect 23.

There were three double winners and one exceptionally fine solo performance recorded. These were the swimmers who registered twin killings:

*Skip Parent of Maine West in the 200 individual medley (2:12.8) and in the 100 freestyle (55.3).

*Steve Jurco of Arlington in the 200 freestyle (1:54.4) and the 400 freestyle (55.3).

*Tom Rowe of Arlington in the 50 freestyle (23.2) and the 100 butterfly (57.4).

The outstanding solo showing was accomplished by Charlie Dunn. The Arlington freshman won the 100 yard backstroke with an amazing clocking of 1:00.0

— a new pool and varsity record. It was also the best time recorded in the area this season.

Posting the other wins for Maine West were Steve Dueball in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.1) and the medley relay team of Larry Bierwirth, Paul Stenstrom, Steve Mammoser and Russ Zage (1:50.6).

Taking the remaining firsts were Arlington's Jeff Thiemann in diving (176.15) and the free style relay team of Rowe, Jurco, Dunn and Rick Cook.

However, despite finishing first the majority of the time, the Cardinals failed to place their second men in front of the Warriors' first two finishers. It was there that the meet was decided.

Here was how Maine West did the job: 200 freestyle — Dave Dettman in second (2:00.4) and Eric Dahl in third (2:04.6), 200 individual medley — Parent in first and Don Hudson in third (2:20.6); 50 freestyle — Russ Zage in second (24.8) and Ken Brown in third (24.9), diving —

Weaver in third (127.95) and Joe De Franco in fourth (127.6), 100 butterfly — Mammoser in second (1:03.4) and Hudson in third (1:04.1), 100 freestyle — Parent in first and Brown in second (57.1), 400 freestyle — Dettman in second (4:23.2) and Dahl in third (4:34.4), 100 backstroke — Bierwirth in second (1:01.8) and Jeff Cassin in fifth (1:09.4), 110 breaststroke — Dueball in first and Paul Stenstrom in second (1:10.7), and freestyle relay — Maine West in second (3:43.8).

Prospect's only second place finishes were Bill Cripe in diving (120.0) and the medley relay team edging out Arlington 1:53.6 to 1:53.8.

Arlington captured the sophomore meet with 86 points. Maine West had 68 and Prospect 14.

There were two double winners — Gary Dahl of Maine West in the 200 and 400 freestyle event and Dave Hartman of Arlington in the 200 individual medly and the 100 breaststroke.

Lion Swimmers In Fourth

"It was, by far, the best gathering of teams we've seen this year," said St. Viator swim coach Steve Borowski. The final score of the six-team Titan Relays was proof.

The Lions were lodged in fourth place behind surprising Rockford Guilford, host champion New Trier West and host Glenbrook South. Evergreen Park and Notre Dame completed the field.

The Titan Relays include all four levels of high school swimmers dispersed among 13 relay events that challenge all the strokes.

The Lions, in racking up 90 points for fourth behind Rockford's 136, New Trier West's 128 and Glenbrook's 104, won a blue ribbon in the 400-yard sophomore medley relay and tied the meet record in the process.

The Viator quartet of second-year men Mike Saierno (backstroke), Mark Tagge (breaststroke), Jim Wolf (butterfly) and Jeff Iversen (freestyle) equalled the old standard of 4:12.3 set by Glenbrook North en route to the gold medal.

Otherwise, the Lions were limited to six thirds, four fourths, a fifth and a sixth through a disqualification.

The Lions will meet up with New Trier East, Glenbrook South and New Trier revenge is brewing.

"We'd like to come out with at least a third," Borowski said. "I think our kids are certainly capable of qualifying from seven to eight individuals."

Frustrating Meet For Elk Grove's Swimmers

When it rains it pours, at least for the Elk Grove swim team, even if they were indoors.

It was one of the rarest and probably the most frustrating dual meets the Grenadiers will engage in this season. Coming up on the short end of an odd final score of 59 2/3 to 34 1/3 is a pretty good indication of what Elk Grove was up against.

The score, however, does not explain the fact that the Grenadiers suffered through a host of disqualifications and judges decisions that always seemed to go against them.

The opening 200-yard medley relay was an omen of things to come as host Niles West and Elk Grove both recorded identical times of 1:54.2. First place, however, went to the Indians.

Cliff Schlack and Dave Toler fought back for firsts in the 200-freestyle and 100-individual medley, respectively, before Scott Bolin won the 50-freestyle.

Second place in that event, though, was ruled a three-way deadlock, thus forcing the score into fractions of points.

The Grenadiers had one of their divers disqualified and failed to notch any points at all in the 400-yard freestyle event because both of their entries fell victim to the official's whistle for an infraction.

The afternoon was capped off when the 400-freestyle relay team was also disqualified.

The non-conference loss puts the Grenadiers at a 4-7 overall slate and 1-2 in Mid-Suburban League action.

Intermediate Boys Win In AAU Swim Feature

by JEAN FUNK

The Intermediate Division (15 yr. & over) of the Northwest Suburban Boys Swim Team, coached by John Elliot, made a fine showing at the Chicagoland Open AAU Swim Meet, held Sunday at Brother Rice High School.

They combined strong performances to take home the trophy in their division as they battled for first against 42 other teams from Wisconsin, Michigan, Missouri, Indiana and Illinois.

The 400 yard Free Relay, made up of Mike Freeman, Jim Smoker, Steve Smoker and Rick Schwarting set a new meet record as they splashed to first place, while the "B" relay of Screven Farmer, Eric Porter, Terry Lemberger and Jim Tull placed a strong fourth.

The 400 yard Medley Relay team of Mike Freeman, Jim Tull, Screven Farmer and Jim Smoker took second place while the "B" team of Terry Lemberger, Eric Porter, Jeff Arhart and Rick Schwarting finished right behind in third place.

In the Individual Events Rick Schwarting led the way with a 1st in the 100 yard Butterfly, 2nd in the 100 yard Freestyle, and 4th in the 100 yard Backstroke.

Terry Lemberger placed a strong 4th in the 100 yard Breaststroke while teammate Jim Smoker placed 6th, and brother Steve Smoker placed 6th in the 100 yard freestyle. Teammates Screven Farmer and Mike Freeman placed 7th in the 400 yard Indiv. Medley and the 500 yard Freestyle respectively.

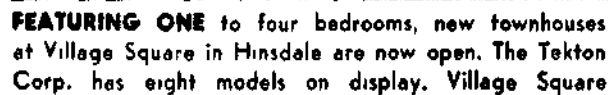

Another first place winner was Brad Busse, who took first place in the 100 yard Breaststroke. Although Brad swims for the NWSY team, he swims unattached in the AAU meets.

There is something about Farmington that puts life into its proper perspective. Here is simple, unadorned, peaceful country living complete with a pond, a few large trees, a wood lot, fields. Pheasants abound in our meadows. Wild birds light on our little lakes. Game fish swim in our waters. The homes are so conceived that they seem to grow out of the land. It will stay that way, too, protected by prudent deed restrictions. There will never be a homesite less than one acre, never two homes that look alike. Farmington on Long Grove Road represents one of the last opportunities to get away from it all within easy commuting distance of the Loop (38) minutes by train, 42 minutes by car). Of the original 190 one acre or larger homesites, fewer than 15 remain. They vary from $12,000 to $30,000 and may be purchased with a small down payment and liberal terms. Farmington is not for everyone. But to those few who know the difference between a house and a home, we invite you to come home. To Farmington.

The Accepted Influence in the Northwest Suburbs

Morton Reports Strong Savings

An increase of 12.7 per cent in savings deposits in 1970 was reported by president Donald F. Morton of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association.

at the recent annual meeting of the association.

Deposits reached a new high of $58,060,254 and total assets reached $67,719,900, an increase of 9 per cent.

At the meeting, Roy G. Klehm, production manager of Charles Klehm & Son, was elected to the board of directors. He succeeded his father, Carl, one of the association's founding directors. Re-elected to the board were Morton and Arthur J. Schaefer, vice president for development and public relations at DePaul University.

Morton said the association paid $2,657,897 interest on 26,952 accounts averaging savings of $2,154. Additions of $608,722 to reserves placed the association 44.6 per cent above required levels, he reported.

Savings were particularly strong at year-end, Morton said. Net addition to savings, not including interest in December was a record $1,125,000.

Mortgage loans mounted to $58,377,834, Morton said, with total mortgage lending for the year at $13,800,389.

He reported that the expansion now under way will double the size of the association building at 25 E. Campbell St. The project will increase building capacity from 16,800 to 36,000 square feet. Completion is expected by the end of the year.

Union Oil Steps Up Exploration

Union Oil Co. of California plans capital expenditures of about $330 million in 1971, up 10 per cent from the estimated $300 million invested in 1970

Fred L. Hartley, president, made the announcement. He said the actual magnitude of activity will be lower than 1970, due to inflation

With the conclusion in 1970 of a $200 million refinery construction project near Chicago and the bulk of the investment completed for its $35 million San Francisco refinery expansion, Union is realigning its capital program, he said

Nearly 62 per cent of the funds scheduled for 1971 will be spent to step up domestic and foreign exploration and production activity, an increase of $73 million over 1970. The increase will be divided between domestic and foreign on, roughly, a 2/3-1/3 basis

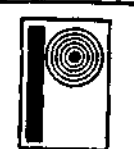

Exploratory drilling expenditures, which increased 20 per cent in 1970, will climb another 40 per cent in 1971

Among the areas of interest for Union is offshore Indonesia, where development will be underway in 1971 on a discovery made last September and confirmed by subsequent drilling. Union is continuing its offshore Indonesia exploratory work with a well drilling on a prospect 10 miles from the discovery

In addition to higher exploration and production expenditures, Union will make a modest increase in its retail marketing investment. Funds are also included for two domestic tankers which will be available by late summer 1971 for transporting Alaskan crude oil and also petroleum products between west coast ports

Local Zoning Threat Seen

The implied threat of federal government intrusion into local zoning matters presents a challenge to Realtors and to the public, said Bill N. Brown, Albuquerque, N.M. Brown made the statement in a recent speech as he was installed as president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB). He succeeded Realtor Rich Port, La Grange.

Brown said that that spokesmen for the Department of Housing and Urban Development have stated recently that, unless local leaders change their attitude about housing for low-income families, including minority groups, the government might withhold grants for water and sewer lines.

Brown noted also that an attempt was made in the 91st Congress to introduce a national land-use policy, which failed to come to a vote. "It is almost certain to come before the Congress this year," he said. "It appears to be a first step toward pre-empting local zoning by a national system."

"Where the zoning laws are working against the common goal, let us make them work by local action. Where the low-income family seems to be squeezed out of an opportunity for housing where it might logically be feasible, let us see that it gets that opportunity by local action," said Brown.

"On the other hand, let's not be stampeded into precipitous moves because of the propaganda and implied threats of the federal government..." he said.

OTHER NEW OFFICERS of the association elected at the convention in Chicago in November were also installed at the San Diego, Calif., meeting. Fred C. Tucker Jr., Indianapolis, Ind., became first vice president, and Robert A. Taggart, Detroit, Mich., was inaugurated as treasurer, succeeding John A. Clem, III, Staunton, Va. In addition, 13 regional vice-presidents were sworn in for NAREB which represents not only the 94,000 Realtors who are active members but an additional 400,000 in real estate who are associated with their firms. Participating in the installation ceremony were the presidents for 1971 of the nine affiliated institutes and societies of the NAREB.

Turning to the outlook for housing, Brown predicted that starts in 1971 will reach the 1,650,000 mark, and he noted that this figure is "a healthy quarter-million gain" over the 1.4 million units in 1970.

"Of these starts, some 900,000 will be single-family homes. Another 750,000 will be multi-family units. That is not all. Mobile homes will add another 400,000 or so units," he said.

"One new idea in the area of mobile homes which came up recently is a proposal to use these units in the inner city. A sponsor would acquire a number of vacant lots, perhaps now covered with weeds and rubble. The entrepreneur then would buy mobile homes for these lots on a wholesale basis, improve the parcels, and install homes on them.

"The units could be rented to low-income residents as temporary housing lasting for about 10 years. At that point, the homes could be phased out, and the cycle of flexible land use and types of building started all over again," he said.

"Another door, not yet fully opened, is in the area of rehabilitation... Houses can be rebuilt. By replacing decayed sections, by installing modern bathrooms and kitchens, by repainting and renovating, we can provide virtually new homes in the inner city area where the jobs are, said Brown. "One Realtor in Youngstown, Ohio, for example, has rebuilt more than 600 homes, meantime inspiring neighbors to fix up their own."

"Key efforts this year will include encouraging rehabilitation, the development of production techniques and policies for reducing costs, and the promotion of family education toward conservation of existing units," he said. Brown said NAREB expects about 2.25 million existing homes to change ownership this year.

Complete Expansion At Shopping Center

EXPANSION AND remodeling of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center is almost completed, announced Baird & Warner, Inc., management agent for the center. The transformation includes the addition of an enclosed

The $1.5 million expansion of the Rolling Meadows Shopping Center is almost completed, it was announced by Baird & Warner, Inc., management agent for the center.

Highlights of the expensive remodeling program, which took more than a year to complete, include expansion and re-design of the Crawford Department Store; the addition of an enclosed mall; and re-design and tripling the space of the Bank of Rolling Meadows.

Architect for the remodeling program was Stewart C. Wolf. Vedra Construction Co., Inc., Berwyn, was general contractor.

Crawford Department Store, the prime tenant, was expanded from 36,000 square feet on two levels to 58,000 square feet.

According to Alan J. Garber, Crawford president, the store's $1.1 million expansion program has not only increased selling space and inventory, but has also created a new appearance for the store. He said the original facility was completely remodeled to harmonize with two new additions of 9,000 square feet to the east of the original building and more than 13,000 square feet on the west end.

Crawford's original facility in Rolling Meadows was 30,000 square feet in 1957. In 1963 the company incorporated several smaller stores and expanded to bring its total space to 36,000 square feet, making it the company's largest store.

THE CURRENT expansion has produced the following results at the Crawford store: the women's dress and coat department has been tripled in size; the shoe department doubled; women's sportswear doubled; men's clothing and furnishings, more than doubled; women's accessories (jewelry, handbags, gloves, scarves, hosiery) tripled; intimate apparel doubled; card shop doubled; gift shop doubled. All other departments have also been expanded.

The firm still operates its original store at North Ave. near Crawford Ave. in Chicago, which it opened in 1916, as well as a major store on Devon Ave. in Chicago, where its central offices also are located. It recently opened a store at DeKalb Village Commons on the Northern Illinois University campus.

Leo Koltz, assistant vice president of the Commercial Management Division for Baird & Warner, said the mall at the shopping center was enclosed to provide greater convenience to shoppers and give architectural unity to the center. The mall enclosure, which cost about $150,000, is 12,000 square feet. It will contain four kiosks, including an "Old Lady in the Shoe" snack shop.

Koltz said it is the intention of tenants and owners eventually to install new types of store fronts which would be more harmonious with the mall design concept.

The original first floor of Crawford's was completely remodeled and given a new layout to conform to the new design concept of the mall. The store exterior now features exposed quartz aggregate panels and soft-stained cedar with exposed beams, highlighted by dark concrete roof tiles.

There are 10 stores which front on the enclosed mall including Crawford's which runs the full length of the mall area. The mall enclosure accents the design theme of the bank, which is on the opposite side of the Crawford store. A pitched roof and red brick trimmed with cream brick are repeated in the mall to produce visual unity.

The Bank of Rolling Meadows has expanded to three times its original bank use space and drastically increased its services.

PRESIDENT JOHN WOODS noted that the bank's expansion to 9,800 square feet of bank use space has permitted the addition of a new pneumatic tube drive-up facility and an increase from one to four drive-up lanes.

Woods said other bank improvements include: expansion from five to nine lobby teller windows; the number of general tellers has increased from four to seven and loan department tellers from one to two; installation of two-walk-up teller windows in the outer foyer at the east entrance; an increase from two to four coupon booths at the lower level; additional second customer entrance, at the west end of the bank.

The expansion and remodeling program, which Woods said cost about $250,000, has also tripled the size of the bank's bookkeeping department and allowed the bank to open a second vault on the lower level because of increased demand for safe deposit boxes which have already been installed and are in the process of being rented.

Woods said that, with the addition of lobby windows and drive-up lanes, the bank's operating hours have been increased from 39 hours a week to 74 hours.

He said the drive-up lanes are operating from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m. Monday through Friday and from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday. The operating schedule for the lobby walk-up windows is designed to permit transactions when the lobby is closed: 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. Mondays, when the lobby is closed all day; 7 to 9 a.m. and 2 to 8 p.m. Tuesday through Friday; and Saturday from 8 to 9 a.m. and again from noon until 5 p.m.

Woods said: "The first family moved into Rolling Meadows in November, 1953. Exactly six years later, we opened our bank. Today the population has soared to 20,000. I think the best way to illustrate how customer demand has kindled this expansion is to note that in just the last four years our resources have doubled and our staff has shot up from 15 to 45."

Discontinue all deliveries and arrange to have someone take care of your mail.

Make sure outside faucets are free of water. Most houses have valves for shutting off water to outside pipes. After the valves are closed see that outside spigots are open. This keeps freezing water from bursting pipes.

Ask someone to clear your walks and driveway of snow. Many cities have laws requiring the clearing of sidewalks and you might escape a possible damage suit brought by someone who slipped on the sidewalk and injured themselves. Clearing the walks will also help give your home a "lived in" look and discourage burglars.

Make sure the central heating plant is in good working order and set at about 60 degrees. This helps keep pipes from freezing. Extreme cold can also damage furniture.

A timing device to turn lights on and off at customary times will help discourage burglars.

Savings Showed Gains Last Year

Figures released through the Oak Park Federal Savings and Loan year end statement of condition revealed an increase in assets of $7,648,611.53 during 1970 from $183,353,343.98 to $191,001,965.51, the largest in several years.

Last year was also a good earning period with reserves and surplus gaining from $12,746,891.38 to $13,556,760.88. The firm reported that 13,574 new savings accounts were opened for a total amount of $45,274,317.63 and total earnings paid out to savers for the year amounted to $7,608,832.21 a record high. Total savings amounted to $152,329,943.55 representing 58,358 accounts.

The 414 loans were made in 1970 for a dollar amount of $17,603,575. While fewer loans were made than in 1969, the dollar value was substantially the same.

John L. Domeier, president of Oak Park Federal, said that increased savings activity was the most significant development of the year. Dollar inflow increased dramatically with public showing a tendency to hold on to its money inspired by a declining economy, increasing costs, some unemployment, and the stock market which fell off some 20 per cent during the first three quarters of the year, he said.

Domeier cited the efforts of the Federal National Mortgage Association and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in opening up a new secondary market in conventional and insured loans. "The purpose of this program is to provide more housing, and we intend to cooperate in every way possible," said Domeier.

May Acquire Glue Firm

Officials of H.B. Fuller Co. and Industrial Adhesives Co. of Florida, Inc., Fort Lauderdale, recently signed an agreement in principle whereby Fuller would acquire the assets of Industrial Adhesives.

Terms of the proposed transaction call for a direct exchange of Fuller common stock for all outstanding shares of Industrial Adhesives.

Industrial Adhesives manufactures and distributes solvent cements to customers in Florida and foreign countries. Sales for fiscal 1969 amounted to slightly more than $250,000.

Elmer L. Andersen, Fuller president, said the acquisition would provide technology in adhesives used in shoe manufacturing and open a new adhesives market for the company.

Fuller is a diversified manufacturer and marketer of industrial and home-use adhesives which include epoxies, solvent cements, waterbased glues and hot melts for use in woodworking, metalworking, packaging, paper converting, bookbinding and other applications.

Fuller recently announced plans to construct a new 16,000-square-foot plant in Tampa, Fla. to replace its current facility in that city.

The company has a Palatine facility at 3155 Hicks Road.

Fuller has production facilities in 23 American cities and also operates in Central and South America, Canada, Mexico, Australia and Malaysia.

Snow on Roof Is Good Sign

After a snow storm, is there snow on your roof for several days afterward? If so, it's a sign that your home is well insulated, said the Chicago Better Heating-Cooling Council.

Insulation is a recognized agent in reducing heat loss to keep a house warmer in the winter. For maximum efficiency it should be installed properly — to hang or lie straight without sagging. A well-designed home is insulated on all outer walls, the uppermost ceilings, and around the foundations to protect ground-level rooms. Floors above crawl spaces and unheated garages also require attention.

Insulation is also important in keeping the home cooler in the summer time. Because aluminum is known to reflect heat, some insulation is backed by aluminum foil. This is added protection to keep the heat within the home in winter and outside in the summer.

Since insulation cuts down on the total heat loss of the house, it won't require as much heating equipment. If you have a hydronic system, this means a smaller boiler and less baseboard heating panels.

from the oil industry's most comprehensive course in service station operation.

The course was conducted at a specially-equipped training center operated by the Standard Oil Division of American Oil Company in LaGrange.

Polley was schooled in all phases of service station operation and care of customers' automobiles. Especially stressed were maintenance of a clean, attractive station; management of money, manpower and materials and knowledge of Standard's broad line of quality products.

Since American Oil was the first company to begin a nationwide distribution program of a pollution-fighting fuel, Lead Free Amoco, the course now includes comprehensive training on the benefits the new product gives the motorist.

Polley and his wife, Maxine, live at 1105 W. Maude, Arlington Heights. He is a member of the Elks and Masonic lodges.

Single-Family Sales Moved Up

Baird & Warner, Inc., diversified Chicago real estate firm, recently reported a gross sales volume of $129,402,313 for 1970, a decrease of 1.68 per cent compared with record 1969 results of $131,711,235.

It was the second best year in the firm's 116-year history.

Rallying from a severe slump in real estate sales for the first five months of the year, the firm surpassed year-earlier unit sales participations by posting 2,668 sales for 1970 against 2,600 in 1969.

"The most significant aspect of our organization's performance in an inflation-riddled economy is the strong showing in the sale of single-family homes," said John L. Hall, senior vice president and general sales manager. "Our industry entered 1970 handcuffed by tight money, high interest rates, and a generally depressed psychological state. New residential construction was off and there was widespread pessimism about prospects for the used home market."

"By early February of 1970 we were more than 34 per cent behind our year earlier level," Hall said. "But from that point, we began to overlook the liabilities that were supposed to have us pinned down and proceeded to register 2,275 single-family home sales for the year, an improvement of better than 5 per cent compared to 2,165 units sold in 1969."

"The fact that we barely failed to match our record gross sales volume of 1969 and surpassed our single family sales production and our total production bids well for 1971. There is widespread optimism about a vigorous rally by home builders in the Chicago area and a rapid improving mortgage picture to go along with the momentum of recent months," Hall said. The firm has 27 sales offices in Chicago and the suburbs, including Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect.

The firm reported a drop in the sale of both cooperative apartment units and condominiums in 1970. The number of cooperative apartment transactions went from 41 to 25, a decrease of 39 per cent, while condominium sales fell from 96 units in 1969 to 37 units in 1970. Hall attributed some of the downturn to "extremely low mobility among condominium owners in a tight market. Condominium owners who may be planning to upgrade into single-family homes seem to be waiting out the turbulence before making any moves," he said.

The demand for income properties continued strong during the year, Hall said. Baird & Warner participated in the sale of 59 apartment buildings of less than 12 units, an exact duplication of the 59 transactions in the prior year. Sales of commercial buildings and apartment buildings of 12 units or larger declined from 116 transactions in 1969 to 107 in 1970, a decrease of 7.7 per cent.

Jumbo Jets Added

Eastern Airlines has added Boeing 747 service to its routes between Chicago and Miami, Fla.

John W. McCurkie, Eastern's manager of passenger sales, said that the addition of the 352-seat aircraft gives passengers a choice of traveling in the larger jets or of using the smaller, conventional jets.

Southbound for Miami, the Boeing 747 flights will leave O'Hare Airport daily at 9:15 a.m. and return to Chicago from Miami at 1:45 p.m.

The 747 aircraft have been leased from Pan American World Airways for use before Eastern's Lockheed 1011 Whistlers arrive. All three 747's will be returned to Pan American when the lease expires April 30, 1972. Eastern expects to have 19 of the 268-seat Whistlers in service by the winter of 1972-1973. A fleet of 50 Whistlers is planned by the airline.

Crusade Cites American Oil

Blaine J. Yarrington, 715 S. Salem, Arlington Heights, president, American Oil Co., recently accepted the Crusade of Mercy's highest award for employee campaigns from Robert E. Brooker, the Crusade's general campaign chairman. Brooker is chief executive officer, Marcor, Inc. The gold plaque, one of the six awarded to employee campaigns in the Chicago area, is presented to firms where 85% to 100% of employees give Fair Share gifts of either 1% of annual salary or one day's pay to the Crusade.

American Oil Co.'s 533 employees contributed $34,000 for a per capita gift of $35.23. Ninety-six percent gave to the drive with 87 contributing Fair Share Gifts.

Charter Meeting Set For Feb. 3

A new chapter of the National Association of Accountants will be chartered Feb. 3. The unit, known as the Illinois-Northeast chapter, is located in the Waukegan area.

The charter night will be part of the chapter's first technical-dinner meeting. It will be held at the Elks Lodge No. 702 in Waukegan. Dinner will be served at 7:15 p.m.

The Waukegan area group was formerly part of the Chicago chapter. Elton Barbatelli, international president of the association, and William R. Young Jr., executive director, will be at the meeting to present the new charter.

The Chicago chapter of the National Association of Accountants is in fourth place among the more than 260 chapters competing in an international performance competition.

Chapters are evaluated in such categories as technical programs and service to chapter members. Under the program, individual members of the chapters are evaluated for activities with community groups in which they participate.

Bryan H. Mitchell, chapter liaison director, said, "We have planned to continue to stress our technical programs and services to our membership during the next six months to assure that the chapter retains its high standing."

Huebners Attend Sales Convention

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Huebner, Joe Huebner Distributing Co., 1717 E. Davis St., Arlington Heights, recently attended the annual Anheuser-Busch, Inc. sales convention held in St. Louis, Mo.

More than 2,700 wholesalers, wives and company marketing representatives attended the annual sales meeting — the largest in the company's history. During the convention sales operations of the last year were reviewed and marketing, advertising and merchandising plans for 1971 presented.

Theme of this year's meeting is "Where It All Began," signifying that St. Louis is the birthplace of Anheuser-Busch which, in 1970, celebrated the production of its 20-millionth barrel of beer in a single year — the first company in brewing industry history to achieve this record.

Voigt Qualifies For Executive Club

Harold T. Voigt, 707 South Hi Lusi Ave., Mount Prospect, District Agent for the Lutheran Mutual Life Insurance Co., qualified for the Company's Executive's Club in 1970 according to an announcement by E. T. Koopman, president.

Voigt's efforts contributed much toward making this the best 12-month period in Lutheran Mutual history. The company had written volume of nearly $200 million and assets increased to over $285 million.

Lutheran Mutual, with life and health operations in 30 states and the District of Columbia, has more than $1.5 billion of insurance in force.

MAP MULTIPLE LISTING REAL ESTATE OFFICES SERVING THE NORTHWEST SUBURBS

Sales Continue To Move

Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., Realtors, nine-office real estate firm now entering its 88th business year, continued its recent sales growth trend in 1970. Richard G. Rutledge, vice president and general manager-real estate sales, made the announcement.

Gross brokerage volume of Q&T's nine area sales offices and two specialized sales divisions rose to an all-time high of $55,500,000, a 16 per cent gain over 1969, according to Rutledge and Frank B. Foster, president. The firm serves north and northwest suburbs.

Unit sales increased to 1,169, a 28 per cent increase over 1969. This reflects the firm's expansion out from the North Shore into the far North and Northwest Suburbs, where average sales prices are $35,000. This is substantially lower than the $52,000 applicable to the North Shore area, said Rutledge. "We increased our sales force to over 125 during 1970, enlarged our advertising program, worked on financing buyers and helping transferees, and increased in-house training of our sales staff," Rutledge said.

Rutledge said that, with the trend toward greater availability of mortgage money at lower rates, he foresees a substantially better volume year for Quinlan and Tyson than 1970.

Foster, who oversees Q&T's sales divisions serving the investment and co-op and condominium markets, as well as the firm's property management and insurance departments, reported growth in all of these areas in 1970. "Sales of existing investment properties were held back drastically, however, during 1970 by money market conditions," Foster said. "1971 should be a much better investment sales year than 1970." The sale of Marywood High School for $1,900,000 during 1970 was not included in the firm's reported 1970 sales volume, Foster said, because the sale is conditional upon zoning approval which has not yet been obtained by the purchasers.

QUINLAN AND TYSON Mortgage Corp., the financing subsidiary of Quinlan and Tyson, Inc., was busy closing loans in 1970 which were committed in 1968 and 1969. Leland N. Larson, president, stated. Mortgage servicing volume rose, but new commitments from institutional lenders were down from previous years. "Signs of easing in the 1971 market for loans on new office buildings, commercial properties, and industrial buildings are appearing, and lenders are more willing to consider loans without participation or a 'piece of the action,'" Larson stated.

AND EVERYTHING NICE ABOUT FOOD

Beef, Wine, and Friends

Now that the last holiday decoration has been boxed and the last pine needle swept from the carpet — why not invite friends over for an elegant dinner. It's time to "roll out the red carpet" to make the last week of January as festive as the first day!

Roast ribs of beef, a bottle of red wine and congenial company set the stage for an evening of gracious entertaining. A menu of recipe stars is sure to win rave reviews.

Top billing goes to the beef roast and wine. High and handsome, the roast dominates table or buffet. Queen Fritters, crisp and light, are a fitting partner for the regal roast.

The traditional companion for roast beef is a dry red wine, rich in flavor and heavy in body. Burgundy, Pinot Noir, Gamay and Cabernet Sauvignon, produced by California's wineries, are only a few from which to choose.

To complete the main course, consider Cranberry Ported Apples, Stuffed Baked Potatoes, Brussels Sprouts with Hollandaise and a relish tray.

Roast Ribs of Beef

3 to 4-rib beef standing rib roast
Salt
Pepper

Have retailer loosen back (chine) bone by sawing across ribs and tie roast. This makes carving easier.

Season meat with salt and pepper. Place roast, fat side up, on rack in open roasting pan. Insert roast meat thermometer so bulb is centered in the thickest part, making sure bulb does not rest in fat or on bone. Do not add water. Do not cover. Roast in slow oven, 325 degrees, to desired degree of doneness.

The meat thermometer will register 140 degrees for rare; 160 degrees for medium; 170 degrees for well done. Allow 23 to 25 minutes per pound for cooking roast to rare, 27 to 30 minutes for medium and 32 to 35 for well done. Roasts are more easily carved if permitted to "stand" in warm place 20 minutes after removal from oven and before carving.

Since roasts do continue to cook after removal from oven, it is best to remove roast when thermometer registers about 5 degrees below the temperature of doneness desired. Before carving, remove strings; with a sharp knife, remove back bone from roast.

Queen Fritters

2 pounds shortening
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup boiling water
1 cup flour
4 eggs

Measure ½ cup shortening, add to salted water and bring to a boil. Add flour all at once, and stir vigorously until a ball forms in the center of the pan. Cool. Add unbeaten eggs, one a time, beating after each addition until the mixture is smooth. The mixture should be very stiff.

Heat remaining shortening to 365 degrees. Drop fritter batter by teaspoonfuls into hot fat, 365 degrees, and fry 8 to 10 minutes or until delicately browned. Serve hot as an accompaniment for a roast.

Yield: 3 dozen fritters.

Cranberry Ported Apples

1 cup bottled cranberry juice cocktail
¾ cup Port Wine
1½ cups sugar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 stick cinnamon
½ teaspoon red food coloring
8 small whole apples, pared
(and cored, if desired)

Combine cranberry juice cocktail, Port, sugar, lemon juice, cinnamon and red food coloring in saucepan cover and simmer for 5 minutes. Add apples to boiling syrup, cover and cook over very low heat for ten minutes, turning apples once or twice and basting often with syrup. Uncover and cook 5 to 10 minutes longer or until apples are tender, turning and basting often. Cool in syrup. 8 servings.

Half the apples may be cooked at a time if pan will not accommodate 8 at once.

Ground Beef And Frozen Potatoes

All-Time Favorite Combo

Whenever you don't know what to serve the family, reach for ground beef and frozen potatoes! These all-time favorites can be as elegant or as casual as your mood and the occasion. For a company-special Salisbury steak with golden French fries or cheese-topped burgers and fries for a quick family meal, these two foods make fine partners. And best of all, there are always some new ways to serve ground beef and frozen potatoes.

Just look at those Nugget Nests, for example. They're deliciously different even though made with the same old standbys. Frozen French fried potato rounds top each nest of well-seasoned ground beef. The beef has green pepper and onion and a dash of Worcestershire sauce to add spice. It's formed into eight patties with an indentation pressed into each before baking. A flavorful new catsup is used to sauce the nests and add color too. Each nest is topped with several frozen French fried potato rounds and then baked till browned and done. It's a dish for the family — yet different enough for company.

NUGGET NESTS

2 pounds ground beef
3/4 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk

- 1 egg, beaten
- ¼ cup frozen chopped green pepper
- 1 small grated onion
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- ½ teaspoon poultry seasoning
- ¼ cup steak house catsup
- ¼ cup water

1 1-pound package French fried potato rounds

Combine ground beef, bread crumbs, milk, beaten egg, green pepper, grated onion, salt, Worcestershire sauce and poultry seasoning. Divide into 8 patties; form a 1-inch-deep well in each patty. Place in 13x9x2-inch pan; bake at 375 degrees for 15 minutes. Mix catsup and water; spoon over the meat. Place potato rounds in nests; continue baking for 20 minutes. Remove meat from pan; stir catsup and meat juices to blend, adding water if necessary. Serve sauce with nests. Makes 8 servings.

We like the Nugget Nest served with another easy-to dish — frozen peas in cream sauce that comes in a cooking pouch. Carrot sticks and crisp radishes complete the main part of the meal and you can finish off with a refreshing mélange of frozen fruits, melon balls and berries.

Suggest Lower Internal Temperature For Hams

Scientists in the kitchen have found another way to save Mrs. Homemaker some time and fussing. Their work also should add variety to meal planning, save on the fuel bill and keep nutrition high on the menu, reports the National Live Stock and Meat Board.

Research, completed by Dr. Agnes Frances Carlin, Food and Nutrition Department of Iowa State University, Ames, showed that fresh hams cooked to an internal temperature of 170 degrees require approximately one hour less cooking time than similar products cooked to the former traditionally-recommended internal temperature of 185 degrees. It also was learned that the amount of lean — based on original weight of the raw ham — is greater with the lower internal temperature; in other words, less shrinkage and cooking loss.

The study was financed by a grant-in-aid from the Pork Industry Committee of the Meat Board.

Dr. Carlin's work just about wraps it up for the pork industry in its long-range program to present the consuming public with a modern convenient food product. The cookery study on fresh hams is the third and final of a series of Meat Board — sponsored research projects which began in 1963. Each was a scrutiny of different popular pork cuts, testing their adaptability to today's homemakers' needs. Prior to 1963, pork cookery research had also been conducted by meat scientists at some of the nation's Land Grant colleges.

The fresh ham, also called fresh leg of pork, is not as well known to most homemakers as the more familiar cured and smoked hams. But findings from the Iowa State study can boost its popularity — which will help the homemaker, looking for ways to diversify her menus; and the pork industry, looking for ways to stimulate consumer interest in a greater variety of pork products.

The marketing of more fresh legs of pork is being forecast and homemakers wanting to try something different should ask their meat retailers to order one for them.

The flavor, tenderness and juiciness of fresh hams cooked to 170 degrees were about the same as those cooked to 185 degrees. But the shorter cooking time will provide greater flexibility for timing meals and also will lower cooking fuel costs. In addition, less oven spattering can be expected; thus less daily or periodic oven clean up.

OF INTEREST TO the weight-conscious consumer is the finding that the average fat content of the three large muscles of fresh ham — 6 to 8% — is considerably less than has been popularly believed.

Dr. Carlin, in her report on the research included: "An end point temperature of 170 degrees is recommended for roasted fresh hams as these hams are comparable . . . perhaps superior . . . in eating quality to hams cooked to 185 degrees."

Eighty hams were used in the study, conducted in the home economics laboratories at Iowa State. They were in two weight groups: 12-15 pounds and 15-18 pounds. The 170 degrees and 185 degrees internal temperatures were used with hams from each of the weight groups. Lower weight or smaller ham cuts would be expected to perform the same way, the Meat Board noted.

Since cooking time may vary with the type of oven used, as well as with final internal temperature, different models of household ovens were used in the study.

Reba Staggs, Home Economics Director of the Meat Board, said: "There is now no cut of fresh pork that needs to be cooked to the 'old' 185 degrees temperature. Careful research studies during the past 10 years show that equally desirable and more juicy end-product results from the 'new' 170 degree maximum internal temperature."

Based on the research findings, the Board now recommends that legs of pork (fresh hams) should be roasted in a 325-degree oven to an internal temperature of 170 degrees.

The time required is 22-26 minutes per pound for 12-16 pound legs (bone-in); 24-28 minutes per pound for 10-14 pound legs (boneless); and 35-40 minutes per pound for 5-8 pound half-legs (bone-in).

The investigation to determine the most satisfactory internal temperature for fresh hams was a follow-up of a similar earlier study conducted at Iowa State which established 170 degrees as the recommended internal temperature for pork loin roasts. That study also was supported financially by the Meat Board's Pork Industry Committee.

Another pork cookery project — completed in 1965 — involved various types of pork chops in broiling. This research effort showed today's product to be ideally suited to broiling, though up to test time it had not been recommended as a pork cookery method. The work was done at Kansas State University with a pork industry grant-in-aid.

Chicken Helps Keep Food Costs Down

Make It A Company Dish: Elegant But Inexpensive

Chicken Divan is a delicious, satisfying dish whose elegance belies its easy preparation and economical cost. At a time when the red meats are relatively high-priced, chicken is plentiful and thus an excellent buy. This is a real "company" dish, too, as attested by its inclusion on the menus of many of the world's finest restaurants.

One of this dish's greatest charms — apart from the superb flavor combination of chicken, broccoli and parmesan cheese — is that you can prepare both the chicken breasts and the cheese sauce ahead of time. This type of recipe is truly a boon to the working girl planning a dinner party for she can make the initial preparations the night before and finish the dish in a short time without being away from her guests for too long.

The piquancy of pepper sauce gives spice to the cream sauce which enhances the delicate flavors of the chicken and the fresh or frozen broccoli.

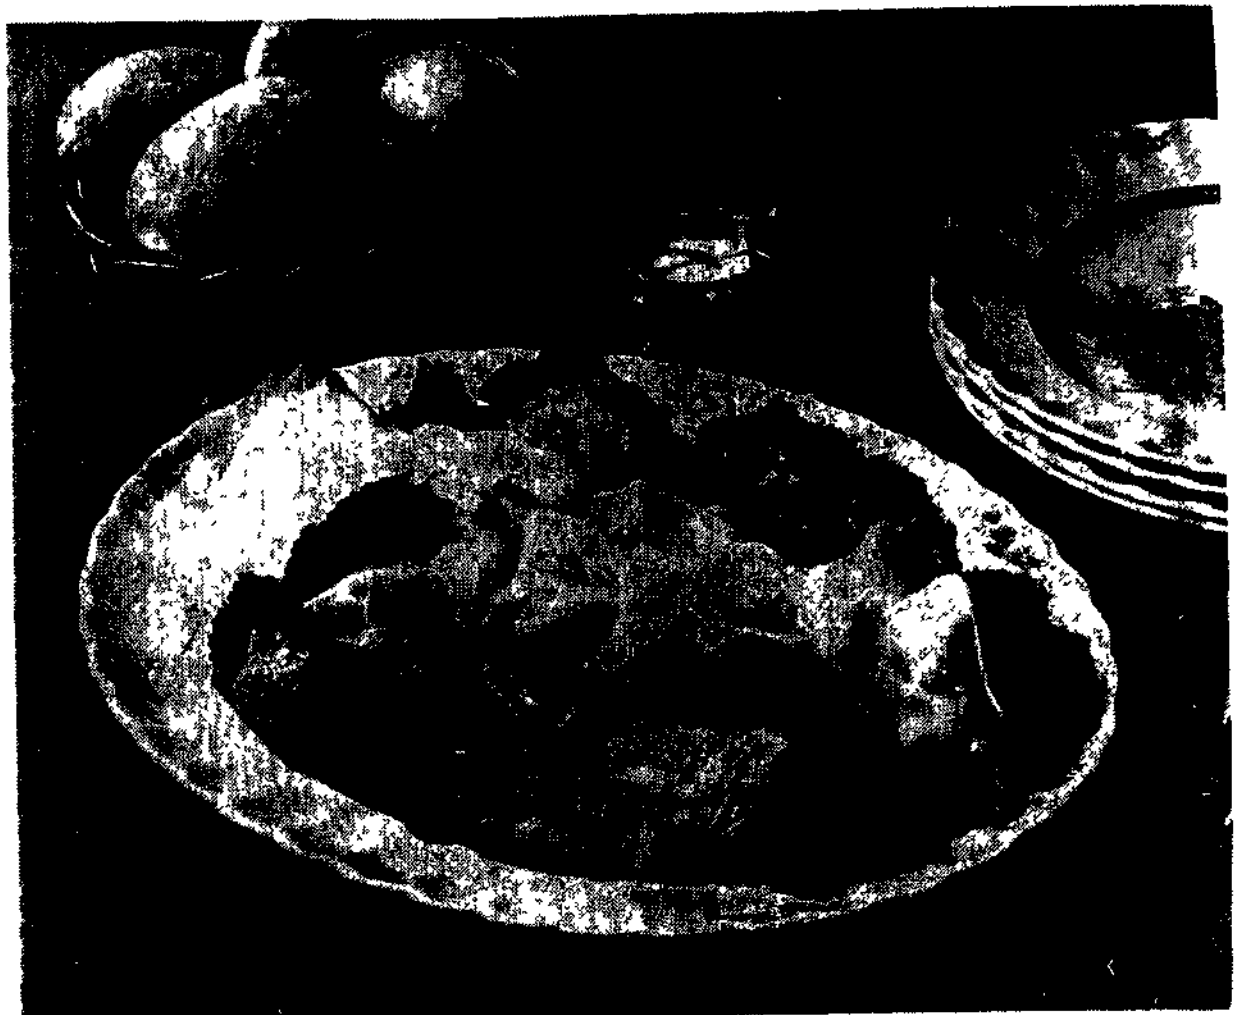

CHICKEN DIVAN

- 1/4 cup salad oil
- 3 whole broiler-fryer chicken breasts, halved
- 1/4 cup butter of

- margarine
- 1/4 cup flour
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 2 cups chicken stock or bouillon
- 1/2 cup heavy cream
- 1/2 teaspoon Tabasco pepper sauce
- 1 1/2 pounds fresh broccoli, par-boiled, or 1 package (10 ounces) frozen broccoli, thawed
- 1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese

Heat oil in skillet; add chicken breasts and brown on both sides. Melt butter in a saucepan. Add flour and salt and stir to a smooth paste. Gradually stir in chicken stock and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Remove from heat; stir in cream and pepper sauce. Place broccoli and chicken in 2-quart casserole; pour sauce over all. Sprinkle with cheese. Bake in a 350 degree oven 40 minutes, or until broccoli and chicken are tender. To serve, sprinkle with additional grated Parmesan cheese.

Yield: 4 to 6 servings.

Add Spices For A Little 'Soul'

Some of the foods they love in Equatorial Africa today are the original "soul foods." Think of watermelon and okra, native to that continent; sweet-potatoes; peanuts; coconut; cocoa; bananas; pineapple and fish and seafood of many varieties. There's wild pig and all kinds of game and wherever the ostrich hides his head, there may be an egg large enough to make an omelet for five or six people. This they prepare au fines herbes.

As with people in the tropics elsewhere, they love their foods pungently spiced with red pepper.

In parts of Central Africa curries and Moslem foods are eaten. Recipes for Cornish pasties, junket, fools, trifles and scones appearing in a Tanzanian cookbook recall English influence. Ethiopians stuff roasting chicken with peppers and spices; the men eat the most highly spiced meat and let their wives have the skins.

We import a half dozen spices from African countries. The Malagasy Republic, Tanzania, Zambia, Kenya, Ethiopia, Sudan, Nigeria and Sierra Leone all grow spices. From them we receive red pepper, cinnamon, cloves, sesame seed, ginger and cardamom.

Kuku-Pilau is a Central African recipe adapted by home economists of the American Spice Trade Association as an example of how spices are used in this part of the world.

KUKU-PILAU

Chicken and Rice

- 3 tablespoons instant minced onion
- 1/4 teaspoon instant minced garlic
- 2 tablespoons oil
- 2 (2 1/2 lb. each) chickens, cut into serving pieces
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground red pepper
- 1 cup coconut milk*
- 1 cup raw regular cooking rice
- 5 whole cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon ground cinnamon
- Mix minced onion and garlic with 3 tablespoons water; let stand 10 minutes to rehydrate. In a large Dutch oven or heavy saucepan heat oil. Add chicken and brown well on all sides. Remove chicken and all but 1 tablespoon oil. Add rehydrated onion and garlic; saute until lightly browned. Return chicken to Dutch oven. Sprinkle with salt and red pepper. Add 2 cups water. Cover and simmer 20 to 25 minutes. Add remaining ingredients. Simmer, covered 20 to 25 minutes longer or until chicken and rice are tender.

Yields 6 portions.

*In a small saucepan combine 1 can (4 oz.) shredded coconut with 1 1/2 cups water. Bring to boil, simmer 10 minutes. Strain, reserving liquid.

The Protein Food That's Versatile

If housewives out to beat inflation in foods needed a symbol, the chicken would do very well. Mild-mannered as the chicken is, it has been a mighty force for keeping protein food in the menu at moderate cost. Equally significant is the way chicken can be varied by several cooking methods and the addition of low cost ingredients to make dozens of dishes, each a delight at the table and each different. It is quite practicable to serve chicken twice a week without any feeling of tedious repetition, advises the National Broiler Council. It makes a difference when the protein center of the meal comes from an economical source such as chicken.

Don't let the term for the modern chicken, "broiler-fryer" deceive you as to the versatility of cooking methods for this tender bird. A broiler-fryer may be roasted, simmered, or sauteed as successfully as broiled or fried for chicken dishes with moist, succulent meat, advises the Broiler Council.

Here is old-fashioned Chicken In The Kettle to give you an easy way to vary chicken yet make a wonderful, economical dish for your dinner.

Sprinkle a quartered broiler-fryer chicken with 1/2 teaspoon of salt and 1/8 teaspoon pepper. Brown in 1/4 cup of butter or margarine in a Dutch oven or heavy skillet. Remove. Add 2 tablespoons of flour, 1/8 teaspoon each of thyme and rosemary, 1 teaspoon sugar and 1/2 teaspoon salt to the drippings in the pan. Stir to a smooth paste. Add 2 tablespoons of lemon juice and 1 1/2 cups of water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil.

Return chicken to the pan and add 4 halved pared carrots. Cover. Simmer 20 minutes. Add 1 cup sliced celery. Cook ten minutes more, and serve.

Create The Pot 'o Gold: A Classic Entree

You'll find the rainbow's end when you sit down to dinner if Pot 'o Gold Chicken is there to greet you!

Luscious, plentiful canned cling peach slices set the tempo for this sure-to-be-come-a-favorite entree.

POT 'O' GOLD CHICKEN

- 1 Can (1 pound 13 ounces) cling peach slices
- 1/3 cup flour
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper
- 6 serving pieces chicken
- 3 tablespoons salad oil
- 1/4 teaspoon dry mustard

- 1 to 2 teaspoons grated orange rind
- 1/4 cup orange juice
- 1 can (1 pound 2 ounces) small yams, drained
- 1 package (10 ounces) frozen peas, thawed

Brown chicken in oil in large skillet. In Saucepan gradually blend reserved syrup into remaining flour mixture and mustard; add onion, orange rind and juice. Heat, stirring constantly until slightly thickened. Pour over chicken; cover and simmer 20 minutes. Add yams, peach slices and peas. Cover and continue simmering 10 minutes longer.

Makes 6 servings.

Mrs. William Spinelle

An Authentic Italian Cook

by LOIS SEILER

There was an off-beat TV commercial that stated: "You don't have to BE Italian to cook like one!"

However, it helps to use authentic Italian recipes to achieve the savory goodness produced by Italian cooks.

While most Americans consider spaghetti a meal in itself, to the Italian it is only the beginning! The spaghetti course is followed by the main course — be it Chicken Tetrazzini, Veal Scallopini or Braciolo.

A tomato sauce is essential to a great variety of Italian dishes, but Mrs. William J. Spinelle of Buffalo Grove confesses that she never uses a recipe so her sauce is seldom made the same way twice.

"I vary the spices and herbs and add this or that depending on what I have on hand," Angie Spinelle explained. Often her husband decides to sprinkle in a few ingredients on his own, too.

When making spaghetti, Angie uses ground beef in her tomato sauce, but this doesn't stop her from also putting in neck bones or spare ribs or sausage or what have you.

Her specialty, Braciolo, is also simmered in the spaghetti sauce. This is a little different from other better-known Italian recipes, but it ranks high in popularity in her household. Angie learned how to prepare this, as well as all her Italian dishes, from her parents.

"My Dad is an expert at making sauces for pasta," Angie exclaimed. "He throws in everything imaginable."

Although in Italy Braciolo is primarily made with veal, Angie prepares hers with round steak, rolling it up with a filling of chopped eggs, onion, bacon, garlic and cheese well-seasoned with oregano. She simmers it in her spaghetti sauce, and serves it after the spaghetti accompanied by Italian bread, a green salad and wine.

"You don't have to make a complicated sauce to prepare Braciolo," Angie explained. "It may simply be simmered in canned tomato sauce seasoned with salt, pepper and oregano. However, with this method, browning the meat first in a little onion-flavored oil improves the flavor."

Braciolo needn't be served with spaghetti, either, as mashed potatoes, rice or noodles make appealing accompaniments. It is a tasty dish that satisfies the hearty appetites of the Spinelles' six children: Tony, 13; Antoinette, 11; Angela, 10; Billy, 8; Mickey, 7, and Tina, 3½.

To satisfy her children's sweettooth, Angie makes a delicious Feather Chocolate Cake. As its name indicates, it is feather-light in texture and moist, too. A little coffee in the batter enhances the chocolate flavor as well as the deep brown color of the cake.

A lighter-colored chocolate frosting makes an appetizing contrast in appearance and taste. It has a creamy consistency that never hardens.

"The cake is extremely simple to make as all the ingredients are mixed together in one bowl," Angie remarked, "and it never fails to be a success."

In addition to caring for her large family, Angie finds time for several organizations. She is a member of the Knights of Columbus, the Buffalo Grove Police Auxiliary and the Alcott School PTA.

The Spinelle family lives at 555 Thornwood Drive in Buffalo Grove.

- 1 round steak, sliced extra thin (about 1 pound)
 - 2 hard-boiled eggs, cooled and sliced
 - ¼ onion, chopped
 - 2 or 3 cloves garlic, minced
 - 2 tablespoons grated Romano cheese, or more
 - 1 teaspoon oregano
 - 1 slice raw bacon, chopped (optional)
 - Salt and pepper to taste
- Place all ingredients on round steak. Roll lengthwise. Steak may be cut in half if too big to handle. Secure with toothpicks.

Place in spaghetti sauce and simmer for two hours or until meat is tender. (Canned tomato sauce may be used, seasoned with salt, pepper and oregano.)

Remove from sauce and take out toothpicks. Let cool a few minutes before slicing. Serve with any pasta or with rice, noodles or mashed potatoes.

FEATHER CHOCOLATE CAKE

- 1½ cups sifted cake flour
 - 2½ teaspoons baking powder
 - 1 ⅓ cups granulated sugar
 - ¾ teaspoon salt
 - ½ cup cocoa
 - ½ cup shortening at room temperature
 - 2/3 cup milk
 - ¼ cup cold coffee
 - 2 eggs
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
- Sift flour with baking powder, sugar, salt and cocoa into a mixing bowl. Add shortening and milk and beat two minutes at slow to medium speed on electric mixer.

Scrape down bowl two or three times. Add remaining ingredients. Beat two minutes more, at medium speed, until well-blended.

Pour batter into two greased and floured 8-inch round layer cake pans. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes. Let set in pans for a few minutes and then cool on wire racks. When cake is cool, frost with the following:

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

- 5 tablespoons flour
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1 cup butter or margarine
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 teaspoon vanilla
 - 1 tablespoon cocoa
- Combine flour and milk in a saucepan and cook, stirring constantly, until thick and smooth.
- Cream butter, sugar and vanilla together. Add cooled flour mixture and beat until fluffy. Beat in cocoa and blend well. Spread between layers and on the top and sides of cake.

IF YOU'RE LOOKING for an unusual Italian dish, Angie Spinelle of Buffalo Grove has the answer — Braciolo. Angie makes a filling of chopped eggs, onion, bacon, garlic and cheese which is wrapped in round steak and simmered in spaghetti sauce for true Italian flavor.

Stews Save Meat Dollars

Bubble! Bubble! No toil. No trouble. That's the watery way to meat savings. The method is simple. Take a thrifty cut of meat, cover it with water, cook very slowly till tender. But you've got to know more of the fine points of water cookery than that to turn out a savory, tender meat dish.

You don't "boil" meat. You simmer it. What's a simmer? It's hot water barely moving, just a "heaving" and seething of the water. It's quiet cookery. If you can hear a big slurp and bubble going on in the pot, then you've gone wrong. The meat is cooking too fast and it will not be tender or succulent.

The watery way to meat savings turns out fabulous stews as well as larger cuts such as "boiled" beef heel of round, beef plate, veal fore-shanks or heel of round, smoked pork shoulder roll, fresh beef brisket, corned beef and smoked picnic, which is pork. Stew is the main view via the watery way and for this master dish the cuts to consider are mainly from the shoulder, cut in cubes. Riblets from lamb and veal also are to be considered when they are featured at your market.

A stew offers wonderful opportunity for imaginative seasoning, calling on your favorite herbs with a generous amount of Ac'cent to blend all the savory flavors together as the stew simmers. Basically, you can make a "white" stew in which the meat is not browned before the water is added — Irish Stew made with lamb is the classic example — or a brown stew which is especially good with beef. Here are two noble recipes for both a white and a brown stew to save you lots of money on your meat bills.

IRISH LAMB STEW

- 2 pounds boned shoulder of lamb, cut in 2-inch pieces
 - 1 quart water
 - 2 sprigs parsley
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 2 celery tops
 - 2 teaspoons salt
 - 2 teaspoons Ac'cent
 - 2 cups cubed yellow turnip
 - 6 small onions, peeled
 - 3 medium potatoes, pared and halved
 - 2 tablespoons flour
 - 3 tablespoons water
- Put lamb in saucepan with water, parsley, bay leaf, celery tops, salt and Ac'cent. Cover; simmer 1½ hours or until lamb is tender. Add turnips, onion and potatoes; cover and cook until vegetables are tender. Make a smooth paste of flour and water. Gradually add to stew, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Yields 6 servings.

OLD FASHIONED BEEF STEW

- 2 pounds beef, cut in 1½-inch pieces
 - 1 teaspoon salt, divided
 - 2 teaspoons Ac'cent
 - 1/8 teaspoon pepper
 - ¼ cup flour
 - ¼ cup butter
 - 3 cups water
 - 2 celery stalks, finely cut
 - 1 bay leaf
 - 12 small white onions, peeled
 - 6 medium carrots, scraped and halved
 - 3 medium potatoes, pared and halved
- Blend together ¼ teaspoon of the salt, Ac'cent, pepper and flour; roll pieces of meat in blended mixture; reserve left-over flour. Melt butter in a heavy kettle; add beef and brown on all sides. Add celery, ¼ teaspoon of the salt, finely cut celery, and bay leaf. Cover; simmer 2 to 2½ hours or until meat is almost tender. Add vegetables; cover and cook until vegetables are tender. Measure reserved flour. If necessary, add enough additional flour to make 2 tablespoons. Add 3 tablespoons water; stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add to stew, stirring constantly, until thickened.

Yields 6 servings.

Mostly for Men

by CHARLES E. FLYNN

Coquilles St. Jacques is the French appellation for baked scallops in cheese sauce. However, many Americans just don't fancy spending the time in preparation of sauces, so I'm suggesting this easy way to a tempting dish.

First, I've learned a secret about cooking scallops, especially the larger sea variety. If frozen allow them to thaw in a saucepan bring to a boil enough water to immerse the scallops. Pour in 2 ounces cider vinegar. Remove pan from the heat then drop in the scallops and leave them for 3 minutes.

This procedure assures that sea scallops will be tender. Should you be fortunate enough to find the tiny bay scallops, you need not worry about this step.

For the recipe you'll need 1½ pounds of scallops to serve 4. In a skillet melt 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Add 2 tablespoons chopped onion and 12 slices fresh mushrooms, or a 3-ounce can of mushroom caps. Brown lightly, then add scallops and cook slowly for 5 minutes.

Pour off the drippings and place scallops, onions and mushrooms in a lightly buttered baking dish. Combine a can of cheddar cheese soup (undiluted) with 2 tablespoons milk, 2 teaspoons fresh lemon juice, and a dash each of thyme, ground marjoram, and black pepper.

What's Thawing For Dinner?

Pastas Add Menu Variety

by CHARLOTTE ERICKSON

Pastas replace the potato in many European countries. Served with variation and imagination these dishes can add a great deal of variety to our meals.

The following are some interesting, yet simple ways to prepare pastas.

Noodles Alfredo take more time to make than plain buttered noodles, but the difference in flavor is worth the effort.

NOODLES ALFREDO

- 4 to 5 cups chicken broth or 5 cups water mixed with 5 bouillon cubes
 - 1 8-oz. package medium width egg noodles
 - ¼ cup butter
 - Salt and pepper to taste
 - 2/3 cup half and half
 - ¾ cup grated parmesan cheese
- Shipped parsley
- Cook the noodles in boiling broth or bouillon water. When 'al dente' drain. (Reserve broth or bouillon water for soups and gravies.)
- Melt butter in a large pan, add noodles and toss gently to coat the noodles. Add cream and continue cooking over moderate heat, tossing until the cream is completely absorbed.
- Remove from heat, sprinkle with parmesan cheese, and continue tossing until all the noodles are coated. Place in serving dish and garnish with shipped parsley. Serve immediately.

Makes 4 to 6 servings

If Noodles Alfredo are served as an entree along with a salad and vegetables, the recipe would yield 2-3 servings.

You can impress your family and friends with this quick and easy way of adding variety to your evening meal.

BUTTERED GREEN NOODLES

- 1 8-oz. package green noodles
 - 2 tablespoons olive oil
 - 1 clove garlic, slivered
 - ½ cup grated parmesan cheese
 - 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- Cook green noodles according to label directions, adding 2 tablespoons salad oil or olive oil and a clove of garlic to the boiling water. Cook until tender (approximately 12 minutes) and drain very well. Serve on a large shallow platter.

Toss noodles with butter until all the butter has melted. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese and toss lightly again. Serve immediately.

Makes 6 servings.

Spinach Noodles combines both a vegetable and a pasta.

SPINACH NOODLES

- 1 pound medium egg noodles
 - 1 package frozen chopped spinach
 - ½ cup frozen chopped onions
 - ¼ cup butter
 - 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 - 2 egg yolks
- Cook noodles in an ample supply of salted boiling water. Remove when done, rinse with hot water and drain. In a separate sauce pan cook spinach according to directions on package. In a skillet saute onions in 1 tablespoon of butter until softened but not browned. Add these to cooked spinach. Now melt remaining 3 tablespoons of butter over low heat. In a small cup or dish combine egg yolks with lemon juice, heating well with a whisk or fork. Add melted butter to the egg mixture and in a double boiler cook until mixture thickens. Combine noodles and spinach with egg mixture. Serve immediately.

Winter Weather Calls For Hearty Meat Dishes

Veals Logs: A Winning Entree

Any winter sports group — whether it is comprised of teenagers or members of the "Over 60 Club" — will welcome a little of the realm of the gourmet class after vigorous outdoor exercises.

So, invite all of your favorite enthusiasts over and treat them to Veal Logs Blue, an entree that is sure to rank in the gourmet class.

Even though the entire season is busy, busy, busy for the average homemaker, you'll have an adventure in cooking and eating in this delightful combination of veal and blue cheese.

To accompany the veal logs, serve a crispy green salad, crunchy French bread and a carafe of hearty Burgundy wine (for the over 21 crowd).

This gourmet edition of Veal Logs Blue will surely be the crowning touch to your sportsmen's gathering. You'll be crowned the "hostess with the mostest" for good taste and talent.

¾ cup fresh bread crumbs
1 egg, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons milk
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup chopped onions
2 tablespoons salad oil
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup, undiluted
½ cup milk
¼ cup blue cheese (about 1¼ ounces crumbled)

Parsley sprigs

Combine veal with bread crumbs, egg, milk, parsley, mustard, salt and pepper. Add chopped onions. Shape into 8 logs. Brown logs in hot salad oil. Remove from pan and set aside. In same pan, blend soup, milk. Return veal logs to pan and simmer, covered, for about 20 minutes. Add cheese and simmer, while stirring, until cheese is melted. Garnish with parsley sprigs.

Makes 4 servings.

Spanish Olives Accent Company Pot Roast

The cuisine of southern France and of Spain have much in common, due in part to their similar climate and supply of food stuffs. Their favorite dishes are apt to be robust in flavor and quite colorful with vividly contrasting reds and greens. Most dishes are redolent with garlic and tomatoes. Another favorite ingredient is Spain's pimento-stuffed green olives. The slightly salty tang of this fruit is in keeping with the heady temp of the Mediterranean's culinary arts.

A typical and delicious example of this cooking and one that's easily adapted to your next company meal or Sunday dinner is a Pot Roast Provencal. The surface of the pot roast (use a solid piece of meat such as an eye round of beef) is stuffed with whole olives and slivers of garlic. Stick a sharply pointed knife into the meat every inch or so, then wiggle it around to make a hole. Put an olive and a sliver or two of garlic into each hole. The meat is then browned, braised with tomatoes, more olives and seasonings. Keep the cooked pot roast warm on a serving platter while you make the gravy. Serve with a crisp green salad and French bread. After all this, dessert should be a light one such as fresh fruit.

POT ROAST PROVENCAL

5 pounds of eye round of beef, tied 12 to 14 whole pimento-stuffed olives
3 to 4 large cloves garlic, slivered
1 medium onion, sliced
1 rib celery, cut into chunks
1 large bay leaf
4 whole cloves
1 tablespoon sugar
1 teaspoon monosodium glutamate
¼ teaspoon each: summer savory, peppercorns, salt
½ cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives
1½ cups dry red wine
2 tablespoons olive or salad oil
1½ pounds pared new potatoes
4 carrots, cut into 2-inch sticks
1 cup diced tomatoes

Water

1 tablespoon flour
2 tablespoons cold water

Working with the fat side up, make small but deep incisions over the top of the beef. Insert 1 olive and a sliver or two of garlic in each cut. Place in large bowl; add onion, celery, bay leaf, cloves, sugar, monosodium glutamate, savory, peppercorns, salt, any remaining garlic and the sliced olives. Pour wine over all; marinate overnight, turning occasionally. Remove beef and reserve marinade. In Dutch oven, brown meat slowly in oil; pour off any excess fat. Add reserved marinating ingredients to beef.

Cover tightly and simmer 3 to 3½ hours. Add potatoes, carrots and tomatoes the last 30 minutes. Cover and continue simmering until meat and vegetables are tender. Remove meat to serving platter. Using a slotted spoon, place vegetables and olives around pot roast. Strain gravy and measure; add enough water to make 2 cups. Return to Dutch oven; bring to boil. Blend flour with 2 tablespoons water and quickly stir into boiling gravy; boil 1 minute, stirring constantly. Serve with beef.

Makes 6 to 8 servings.

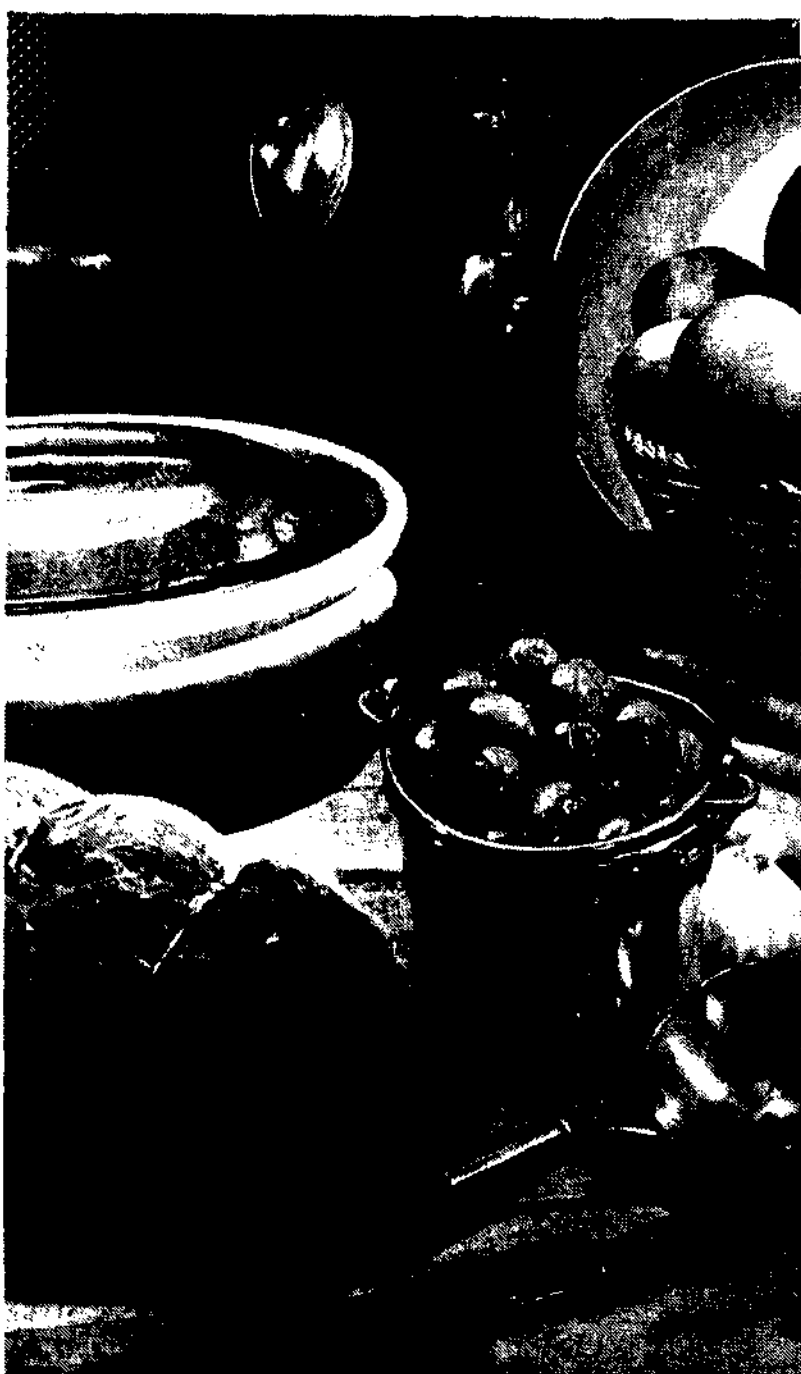

PORK CHOPS MARSALA

¼ cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
4 shoulder or loin pork chops, about ¾-inch thick

1 clove garlic, halved
3 tablespoons olive or salad oil
½ cup water
½ cup Marsala wine
½ cup sliced pimento-stuffed olives

2 tablespoons chopped parsley
Combine flour, salt and pepper; rub chops with garlic and dredge lightly in flour mixture. Brown well in hot oil in skillet. Drain off excess fat. Pour water over meat; reduce heat and cover. Let simmer 30 minutes. Add wine and olives and continue cooking 30 minutes longer, or until pork chops are tender. Sprinkle parsley on top.

Makes 4 servings.

Easy On The Budget

Make Meat Loaf A Feast

No need for economical meals to be dull — nor to skimp on nutrition. It's natural to turn to ground beef after budget-bending holiday feasting, for the inexpensive ground cuts give you as much nutrition as the more expensive ones. And when you combine them with the fruit and vegetable color and nutrition of canned cling peaches and tomato sauce you've a really great main dish going for you. Surround it with shoestring potatoes and serve with a green salad.

CUP O' GOLD MEAT LOAVES

4 canned cling peach halves
¼ cup peach syrup
1 pound ground beef
½ cup fresh bread crumbs
¼ cup chopped onion
½ teaspoon salt
1 egg
1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons vinegar
1 tablespoon prepared mustard
1 teaspoon Worcestershire

Drain peach halves and measure peach syrup. Mix beef, crumbs, onion, salt, egg and ¼ cup tomato sauce until well blended. Shape into 4 small round loaves with a cavity in top of each. Fill cavities with peach halves cup-sides up. Place in shallow baking pan. Combine in small saucepan remaining tomato sauce, vinegar, mustard, Worcestershire and peach syrup; bring to a boil. Pour over peaches and meat. Bake in 375-degree oven 35 to 45 minutes.

Makes 4 servings.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuck hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists had a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg, construction workers ewre at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Study Next Step Toward Interchange

A four-community survey of residential traffic patterns is the next step necessary in building a case to convince the Illinois Tollway Commission that an interchange is needed at Roselle Road.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plans commission chairman, said he will contact officials from Schaumburg, Palatine and Inverness and arrange a meeting to discuss the survey.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg officials are seeking a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission on establishing an interchange at Roselle Road onto the Tollway.

REGAN SAID yesterday he expects the survey and other necessary information to be gathered by the end of May. "We should be ready to go before the tollway commission by June," he said.

John Lucas, director of planning and development at Harper Junior College has pledged a study of the students at Harper for part of the survey.

He has suggested that one of every 12 households between Palatine Road, the southern end of Schaumburg Township, Meacham Road and Freeman-Spring-insguth Road be contacted in the survey. This would be about 1,000 households in the four community area.

Harper has also offered its services and facilities for research and meetings.

The exit-entrance ramps to tollways are approved by the state commission if they will provide enough revenue to meet the costs of construction. This is what a survey of households could help prove, Regan said.

A CLOVERLEAF interchange is wanted at Roselle Road because local planners expect traffic freeze ups at the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps in the near future.

The Rte. 53 ramp traffic is expected to worsen considerably as industrial and commercial growth continues in northeast Schaumburg.

The Roselle interchange would relieve traffic at these two ramps.

Development Is Removed From Plan

A 113-story building and surrounding dramatic residential and commercial development is scheduled for removal from Schaumburg's development plans within several weeks.

Tuesday night, Mayor Robert O. Atcher read a letter being sent to attorneys for Lee N. Romano, originator and planner for the project which was proposed for construction at Route 53 and Higgins Road.

Atcher's letter noted that since the 565-acre project was approved and zoned for that purpose in September, 1968, and that construction planned to begin the following spring has not taken place, the development is not proceeding as outlined.

Since more than two years have elapsed since approval of Romano's Schaumburg Planets Corp. proposal was authorized and building permits have not been obtained nor has any move been undertaken to start the project, village officials plan to repeal action taken several years ago.

Following adoption of an ordinance, the land will revert to its original R-1 zoning from the B-2 status now held.

Atcher's letter, being sent to Donald Ferris, of MacDermott Will and Emory, the Chicago law firm representing Romano at the time the proposal was introduced in 1968, also explains that similar action has recently taken place concerning other projects planned for Schaumburg that failed to materialize.

Action Deferred On Entry Into Transi-Plan

Action allowing Schaumburg to join in Project Transi-Plan, a mass transit district formation program sponsored by The Milwaukee Road, was deferred pending further study despite the Jan. 31 cut-off date for joining the group.

The proposal has been outlined several times in recent months for the village board by Thomas Ploss, attorney for the railroad and director of Project Transi-Plan. Trustees have learned that failure to join the proposed mass transit district may prohibit location of a station in the village.

Trustee Raymond Kessell, chairman of a committee established to investigate feasibility of the villages participation in the program expressed concern over the entire proposal this week.

Outlining his objections to being rushed into making a decision to join Transi-Plan, Kessell noted the village had been asked months ago to send The Milwaukee Road a letter of intent regarding the project, but the letter had not been sent because additional study was deemed necessary.

"What concerns me is the threat made when Ploss was at our last meeting regarding no station in Schaumburg if we do not join, as well as the apparent internal problems of the Milwaukee Road," he said.

KESSELL ALSO claims that while the project is called Transi-Plan, there is actually no plan specifically mentioned for the district's formation and called attention to the fact that statements in promotional literature on the program indicate that funds could be used for other things such as bus transportation.

"I am not convinced thoroughly that the Milwaukee Road needs federal subsidy and I also wonder if Transi-Plan is not being proposed just to get federal funds when private monies could be used," Kessell continued.

Mayor Robert O. Atcher noted that the Northwest Municipal Conference is beginning a study of total transportation needs of its conference area and speculated that perhaps if Schaumburg were to join a smaller district such as the Transi-Plan proposal it might be at a disadvantage.

As of this week all communities along the edge of the road's western commuter line, with the exception of Franklin Park, have joined the plan.

Board members are also concerned with the mass transit district proposal since it could, following referendum, levy taxes, although Ploss and other officials of the railroad claim this will not happen.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perkling economy.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather

A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 90.

These temperatures from around the country:

	High	Low
Atlanta	60	25
Buffalo	36	6
Des Moines	15	-1
Houston	75	51
Miami Beach	83	53
Minneapolis	4	-16
New York	44	18
Palm Springs	88	62
Phoenix	78	43
Seattle	52	44

The Market

The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

Meadows Woman Gets Theft Charge

A Rolling Meadows woman was arrested by Schaumburg Village Police Tuesday on a warrant issued Thursday charging her with theft of $3,570.48 from Schaumburg State Bank, using bad checks.

Charged is Mrs. Joan A. Dunne, 27, of 4708 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows. Bond, originally set at $9,000 by Circuit Judge George Zimmerman, was reduced in a bond hearing yesterday in Mount Prospect before Judge Edwin Martay. It was dropped to $2,500, and Mrs. Dunne posted 10 per cent. Her court date is Feb. 23 in Niles.

THE BANK contacted police at 11:20 a.m. Thursday, through its attorney, Thomas Kearn.

Kearn said Mrs. Dunne had come into the bank Oct. 23, opening a savings account and depositing $436.14. Nov. 3 she returned with a check for $6,101.19, drawn on the bank of Rolling Meadows, he said. She deposited part of the check and requested $1,500 returned in cash.

Nov. 9 she returned again, said Kearn, with another check drawn against the Rolling Meadows bank. She requested cash of $1,710.48 from the $2,910.40 check, depositing the rest. In a fourth visit, Nov. 19, said Kearn, she cashed a $360 check drawn on the Rolling Meadows bank.

Last week the Bank of Rolling Meadows notified Schaumburg State Bank Mrs. Dunne had closed her account with them previous to writing the checks. They had tried to contact her for clarification, they said, but were not successful.

Former Head Of Dist. 211 To Be Cited

G. A. McElroy, former superintendent of High School Dist. 211, will attend the district school board meeting tonight — his first since retiring as superintendent last summer.

McElroy will be honored for his 39 years of service to the district. A portrait of him, to be hung in the G. A. McElroy Administration Building on Roselle Road, will also be unveiled.

After McElroy's appearance, the board will discuss three items concerning a fifth high school to be built on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Ken Unteet, of Berger, Kelley, Unteet and Scaggs, architects for the school, will explain recent revisions in the school's design. The district's fifth high school will have movable classroom walls to allow for changes in class size. Construction on the school is scheduled to begin late this spring.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will also hear Robert Lyons, a teacher at James B. Conant High School and a Hoffman Estates resident, speak on naming the fifth school "Hoffman Estates High School."

The first bond sale to pay for construction of School No. 5 will also be considered. The board is expected to accept a bid on $1.25 million in bonds opened today in Chicago. The bonds will be used to purchase 20 additional acres for the Wise Road school site in Schaumburg, pay architectural fees and costs of beginning construction on School No. 5.

The board is expected to pass a resolution to hold school board elections April 10. Petitions for becoming a candidate in the election will then be available tomorrow in the business manager's office, 1750 S. Roselle Rd.

Other items to be discussed include setting a date for beginning salary negotiations with teachers, granting a utility easement on the Winston Park school site in Palatine, and revising the building rental policy.

2 WAYS TO CHARGE

4 Bedroom Unit Plea A 'Surprise'

Request for approval of construction of two four-bedroom apartments apparently took Schaumburg Mayor Robert O. Atcher and village trustees by surprise Tuesday.

Board members deferred action on the proposal pending receipt of an opinion from Village Atty. Jack M. Siegel, although the proposal had been recommended for approval by Harry Mam-mach, a representative of the village plan commission.

The proposal, submitted for plan commission review and recommendation to the village board, would allow Levitt & Sons to market test what is described as "a California-style approach to apartment living."

Representatives of the building firm are seeking permission to construct nine units of this type to be built in clusters and rows on a 1.428 acre site in the Sheffield Village planned unit development.

THE AREA would consist of two four-bedroom units, three three-bedroom apartments and four two-bedroom units and would be located in the northern section of the development where town-houses are presently being constructed.

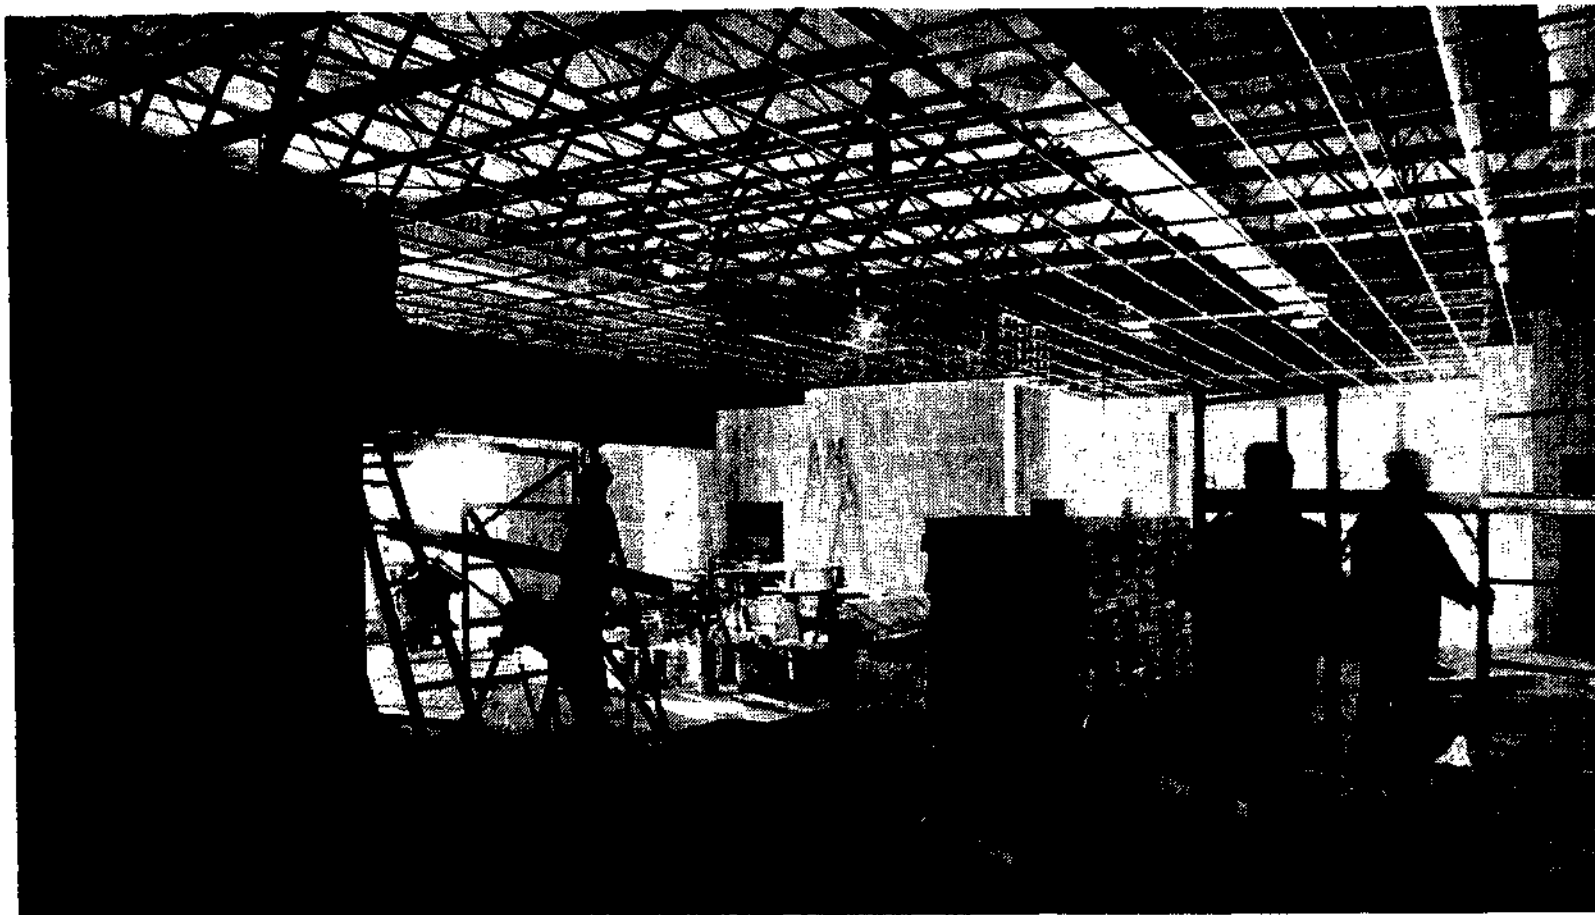

Rentals for the proposed development have not been established, although the firm plans to set costs following village board approval of the plan revision.

Members of the Levitt & Sons firm contend that the planned unit development ordinance which controls the development of Sheffield Village places their four-bedroom planned units in the same category as three-bedroom apartments.

The ordinance limits three-bedroom unit construction to a maximum of 15 per cent of the development, although Atcher and the trustees feel that four-bedroom units are not covered in either the ordinance or pre-annexation agreement on the Levitt owned land.

Action is expected at the Feb. 9 village board meeting and by then trustees expect to be furnished with copies of the proposal as outlined to the plan commission during a special meeting immediately prior to Tuesday night's board meeting.

In addition to Siegel's requested opinion, trustees have also asked for copies of the pre-annexation agreement for examination.

CONSTRUCTION OF the First State Bank of Irving Park road and Kingsbury drive is expected to open early in April. The 7,000 square foot brick structure will house 10 teller stations and three drive in windows.

Hospital Groundbreaking Rites Set

Ground breaking ceremonies for the new six story 200 bed St. Joseph Hospital on the west side of Elgin are scheduled for 2 p.m. Feb. 13.

The hospital is to be located on a 33 acre site bounded by Lin-Lor Lane, Air-lite Street, and Larkin Ave.

According to H. Allan Dahl, administrator, contracts have been awarded and hospital officials are committed to construct a $13,077,017.42 six story hospital.

However, only the first four floors will be completed. The top two stories, floors five and six will not be completed. Only exterior walls floors and roofing will be built.

Completion of interior work would cost an additional $1 million but would add 200 beds to the hospital for a total of 300 beds.

They have until Sept. 1, 1971 to accept the bid alternates for finishing floors five and six.

The advisory board recommended and approved that the additional floors be finished and the board will sponsor a fund raising campaign in the near future to finance the additional construction.

Chairman Robert Holt, said "The possibility of acquiring the additional 100 beds at a cost of $10,000 per bed, when construction of the basic 200 beds is costing over $65,000 per bed, is one that rarely comes to the community."

Robert E. Hoffer, member of the board said "The fund drive is a challenge and one that I am sure will receive the enthusiastic support from our entire area."

"I am confident that the leaders of our community and neighboring communities will join wholeheartedly with members of the advisory board in working to bring these much needed hospital rooms to our city," he added.

The following contractors' bids were accepted: Power Construction, Inc., Oak Park, general contractor; John J. Callan Co., Chicago, plumbing; Bert C. Young, Bellwood, heating and air conditioning; Warren's Heating, Inc., Elgin, air distribution; McWilliams Electric Co., Inc., Naperville, electrical; Servco Equipment Co., St. Louis Missouri, food service equipment; Geneva Industries, Geneva, metal casework; General Cabinet Manufacturing Co., Chicago, wood cabinet work; Powers Regulator Co., Peoria, pneumatic tubes, and Otis Elevator Co., Milwaukee, Wisc., elevators.

Architects for the project are Berners, Schober and Klip of Green Bay, Wisc.

Occupancy of the new hospital is anticipated 30 months after beginning of construction.

Discussion Set On Community Council

The formation of a Community Council, to bring the village of Hanover Park together, not in the future, but now, will be discussed at 8 p.m. tonight at Ahlstrand Fieldhouse under sponsorship of the Hanover Park Womens Club.

The club is conducting a study and its membership has pledged its support of the formation of a community council.

Mrs. Dennis McKinney, chairman and her fifteen member committee met with village officials to discuss the project and won their complete approval.

Tonight's meeting was called so the representatives of over 40 village organizations can express their views, she said.

"The council would have representation from many groups and the members would join together to work more efficiently through better communications and work more closely in a common cause for the improvement of the community," the chairman said.

Those attending the meeting will discuss the feasibility of forming a community council and learn what benefits it has for the community.

Cub Scouts Plan Blue, Gold Dinner

Cub Scouts Blue and Gold Dinner, has been scheduled for Feb. 17 according to Cub Scout Pack 285 officials in Hanover Park.

Cubs and their fathers will gather for a 7:30 p.m. dinner in the Villa Olivia Country Club on Rte. 20 in Bartlett.

Pack 285 celebrated its seventh anniversary in "Charter Night" ceremonies at the monthly meeting Jan. 20.

A copy of the pack's charter was formally presented to Mrs. Connie Zepeda, president of the Hanover Highlands PTA, which sponsors the cub scout unit.

Dick Troha took over as pack committee chairman, succeeding Frank Della Valle Jr. who held that position.

Frank Popp was elected new cubmaster, and Jim Wissman succeeds Ken Doven as assistant cubmaster.

Donald Wagner and Michael Karman were welcomed into the pack as bobcats, and Wagner was appointed as Webelos leader for Den 24.

Set Design Standards On Construction

Future utility systems and roadways being constructed in Schaumburg must meet village design standards and ordinances, and in order to insure that requirements are met, construction inspections will be mandatory.

According to a letter sent last week to all local consultants, contractors and developers by Mayor Robert O. Atcher, village officials must be notified prior to construction in order to arrange for such inspections.

Effective Feb. 1, the village will charge an additional one and one-half per cent which will serve as a construction inspection fee for public improvements.

CURBS, GUTTERS, streets, storm sewers, sewer and water lines, wells reservoirs, lift stations, parkways, trees, street lights and other structures and appurtenances which become property for public maintenance and improvement fall into this category, Atcher's letter explains.

The letter also served to introduce Hugh Cahill as village engineer for the building department and Joseph Zgonina as village engineer for the public works department.

Cahill is responsible for reviewing all building plans and issuing permits for construction and his offices are located at the village hall.

Zgonina, hired several weeks ago, is responsible for review of all projects related to municipal engineering services including utilities, streets and highways, planning and public health.

He is headquartered at the village public works building at 714 S. Plum Grove Rd.

Village Budget Okay Expected

An ordinance establishing Schaumburg's 1971 appropriation ordinance, at $5,654,416 is expected to be approved at the Feb. 9 meeting of the village board.

According to Trustee Gordon Mullins, chairman of the village finance committee, the new appropriation represents an approximate 15 per cent increase over last year.

Total general corporate fund appropriation is $3,548,110 and funds being earmarked for special purposes are expected to approximate $2,106,305.

Mullins also noted that budget preparation is expected to be finalized within the next several weeks and this material should be presented to trustees by the time of appropriation approval.

HE NOTED, however, that estimated figures were furnished by all department heads prior to Jan. 1 and they are working with tentative budget allocations presently.

In commenting on the ordinance, Mayor Robert O. Atcher stressed Village Atty. Jack Siegel's often repeated opinion concerning appropriations.

"Mr. Siegel tells us over and over that appropriations must contain total figures for everything but also these are ceilings and will, therefore, be much greater than the actual budget," Atcher explained.

The Seatmakers Make Commuting More 'Well-Padded'

When Edward Buker Sr. started making railway car seats in 1927, you could travel from Arlington Heights to downtown Chicago in 43 minutes on the Chicago & North Western Ry. Today, it takes 47 minutes.

While commuter service hasn't speeded up, seats are more comfortable, in fact, the newer coach seats are downright plush — thanks to people like Buker.

Buker started his company with six employees in a loft at the corner of 1st Avenue and Lake Street in Maywood. One of his first big customers was Greyhound Bus Co., for whom he built the old reed-type seats that have long since disappeared.

Buker's firm, headed now by his son Edward Jr., took the name of Coach and Car Equipment Corp. shortly after it was started.

One of the things that the company is proud of is the fact that although the entire plant was destroyed by fire in January of 1948, it was back in production again by April of the same year. The firm was then in Bridgeport on Quinn Street in Chicago.

Today the firm is in Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village at 1951 Arthur Ave. and is completing its fourth year of operation in that location. The original number of employees — six — has expanded to 175, one of whom was one of the first six. He is Nick Tallirico, now employed as a sample maker.

THE FIRM HAS made coach seats for many of the famous trains during the heyday of railroads. Among the trains which carried passengers on the company's seats were the New York Central's Pacemaker, the Pennsylvania Railroad's Trail Blazer, and the Illinois Central's City of Miami, and more recently for the Department of Transport — the Metroliner — running from New York to Washington.

It has made most, if not all, the seats used by Chicago's commuting railroads and will make the seats for the new Illinois Central fleet.

Although the company's principal produce is railway car seats, it also makes seats for Army vehicles and tractor seats for Ford IHC — AC — and Caterpillar vehicles. Some of the latter, made with sponge rubber upholstery and bright blue plastic covers, even have arm rests and look more like executive desk chairs than tractor seats.

A number of the employees who work in the 71,000-square-foot plant are "reverse commuters" living in Chicago and driving to and from the Elk Grove Village plant.

In order to make traveling easier for the employees, the company has rather unusual working hours. The workday begins at 6:30 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Edward Buker Jr., president of the firm since his father's death in 1948, is a railroad buff and one of his prized possessions is a railway car seat which was in use in the 1870's.

Buker is also an avid model railroad builder. One of the gondola-type cars used on the larger types of model railways sits in a prominent place in the outer office of the firm. It measures almost three feet in length and has every piece of equipment that a full size car has.

"This seat," Buker said, referring to the 1870 model, "was in a train that averaged somewhere between 20 and 25 miles per hour. The Northeast Corridor train for which we have furnished seats will travel in three hours the distance which those trains took a full 24 hours to cover."

Buker also said that the Northeast Corridor train would cost $21.6 million. "In 1870 you could build a whole railroad for that amount."

Saturday Postal Windows Close

Window service in the Roselle and Bartlett Post Offices, and the Hoffman Estates Branch Office will be discontinued on Saturdays beginning Feb. 20. Contract Post Offices, such as the one in Schaumburg Village Hall, will continue to follow normal schedules.

William F. Stenzel, manager of mail operations services for the Chicago region, announced the elimination of Saturday window service is part of a change the Post Office is making to accommodate its patrons' mailing habits.

Home delivery service will not be affected, he said, and persons wishing to buy stamps from vending machines in post office lobbies or to get their mail from lock boxes still will be able to do so. Such services as buying stamps at the windows and mailing packages will not be available.

The change is effective at all Post Offices in Northern Illinois. It has been in operation in the state south of Springfield since the first of the year. Previously, window service was available until noon.

Industrial Park Land Sales Over $1 Million

Four recent land sales in the Schaumburg Industrial Park have totaled in excess of $1 million.

The announcement was made by Richard R. LaReno, president of the Industrial Development Engineering Associates, a division of Arthur Rubloff & Co., developer of the park. Reliance Life Insurance Co. of Illinois has purchased six additional acres adjoining the existing 15,000 square foot office building.

The additional land will be used to add a 10,000 square foot building at 1300 N. Meacham Rd. Reliance Life is an affiliate of the U.S. Life Corporation of New York.

The latest acquisition brings a total of 11 acres of land which the insurance company now owns in the 240-acre industrial park.

LaReno ALSO announced that Ford Leasing Development has acquired six acres of land where the new Lincoln-Mercury sales and service at the northeast corner of State Parkway and Golf Road has been built.

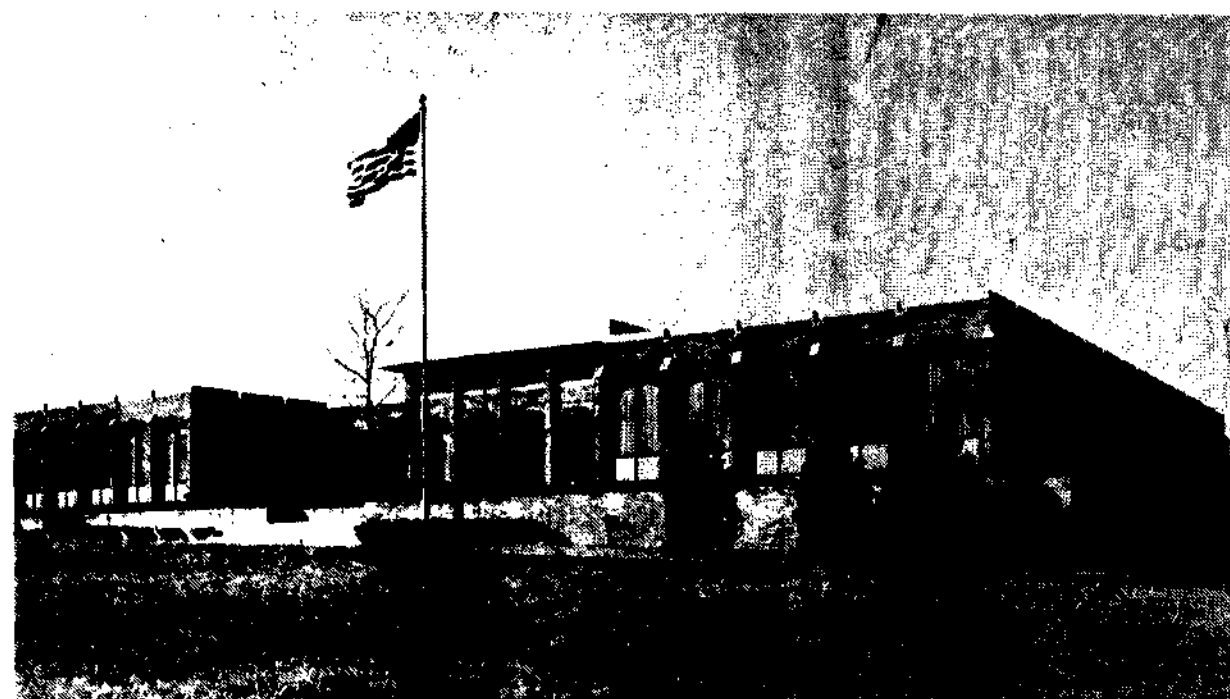

LaReno served as broker in two transactions for construction of other new automobile showroom and service facilities.

The first was for 5.25 acres of land fronting on Golf Road which was acquired by Larry Faul Oldsmobile, Inc.

The second of these transactions involved the sale of nearly five acres to K. G. Anderson Construction, Inc., which is building a facility for Gaines Plymouth-Chrysler automobile agency.

Schaumburg Industrial Park is a joint development by Arthur Rubloff & Co., and the State Mutual Life Assurance Company of America.

The transactions reflect the planned diversification of commercial, distribution and production facilities which are creating a well-balanced development, LaReno observed.

RELIANCE LIFE has acquired six additional acres of land in the Schaumburg Industrial Park for adding 10,000 square feet to the building shown above. The added acreage will also provide extensive parking and spacious landscaped grounds.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the article-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuck hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

In PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 30,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Board Opposes Plan To Change State Zone Code

Representatives of the Village of Wheeling will oppose possible state legislation that would give the state power over the zoning of property within a mile of a major state highway intersection.

Because Wheeling is divided by three major state highways, village officials say that passage of the proposal could mean state involvement in many village zoning decisions.

Village trustees Monday directed Village Planner Thompson Dyke and village Atty. Paul Hamer to attend hearings today and Feb. 9. The village was notified of the hearings in a letter from State Rep. Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

AT AN EARLIER meeting village board members adopted a resolution opposing any takeover of local zoning powers by state government.

Schlickman is chairman of the Illinois Zoning Laws Study Commission which is considering the proposed state zoning power change.

The state control over local zoning is part of a preliminary draft of an Illinois Land Resources Code being considered by Schlickman's commission. The group still must prepare a final draft of that proposal before it goes to the legislature.

In his letter to village officials Schlickman invited the local representatives to the hearings, but assured them that municipalities were already adequately represented at the hearings.

IN HIS LETTER Schlickman explained that the commission "won't deny the hard-earned home rule" to local municipalities.

Non-Cooperation By State, County Hit By Village

Wheeling has had problems getting cooperation from Cook County officials, according to Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon and Trustee Ira Bird.

After the board decided Monday to seek an open hearing on alleged zoning violations at Pal-Waukee Airport, Bird said the county government was "unresponsive" to Wheeling's problems.

"There's no reason to believe they won't permit illegal operations to continue (at the airport)," he said.

Scanlon said that in his 15 years as an elected official he has learned "that if the Village of Wheeling is to be heard it must be represented at all meetings regardless of distance or cost."

Scanlon prefaced his remarks by saying that the county might respond to the request for the airport hearings.

But he added, "where the county is involved we have done everything in our power to get cooperation and we haven't been getting it."

During other meetings Wheeling officials have commented about unfavorable rezoning decisions in which village objections were apparently ignored by county officials.

REMEMBER 1967? This is how it looked four years ago today as residents dug out of the 23 inches of snow that fell on the Chicago area on Jan. 26 and 27, 1967. This January has brought no comparable snowfall, but for many the subzero temperatures and high winds — and auto engines that refuse to start — are worse than the snows of four years ago.

Two Seats Open In Dist. 23

Caucus To Interview Candidates

The screening committee of the School Dist. 23 Caucus is now accepting appointments to interview school board candidates.

Two posts on the school board will be vacant in April. The school board members now holding these seats, Melvin Lacey and Bruce Wallace, have announced they will run for re-election.

The caucus will interview Lacey and Wallace in addition to any other school board candidate seeking caucus endorsement. It is the responsibility of the caucus to endorse candidates after they have been interviewed by the caucus screening committee.

An organizational meeting was held by the caucus earlier this week to select members for the screening committee and to set up guidelines for the interviews. The caucus is comprised of delegates from various civic organizations in the district.

According to Frank Adrano, caucus chairman, the caucus delegates voted to endorse only one candidate for each of the two school board positions. Three prospective candidates for each of the two school board posts will be presented to the caucus by the screening committee for endorsement consideration.

ADRANO SAID the caucus will name the two candidates it has endorsed by the end of February. A school board candidate does not have to be endorsed by the caucus to run in the April 10 election.

If a school board candidate wishes to be interviewed by the caucus he should contact Charles Panzer at 537-3849. To be eligible for the school board candidacy, a resident must have lived in the district for at least 30 days, in the county for 90 days and in the state for one year. The resident must also be at least 21 years old.

Petitions for school board candidates will soon be available at the district administration office at 1309 N. Rand Rd. The petitions are now available at the home of Henry Valley, school board attorney, at 109 Hillside Dr.

Feb. 23 is the first day school board may file candidates at the administration office. The last day of filing is March 19. The state requires that the signatures of at least 50 voters in the district be on the petition.

VFW Auxiliary Paper Drive On

The Wheeling VFW Auxiliary is holding a paper drive through Feb. 1. Papers can be left at a box at the Sears store at Dundee and Elmhurst Roads.

Mrs. Rose Schmidt, publicity chairman for the auxiliary, asked that the papers be tied in bundles.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $900,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

Vice President Spiro Agnew declared it is time to begin moving centralized government in Washington out to the grass roots. Referring to Washington, he said the federal government "has been in fat city" too long.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather

A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 80.

These temperatures from around the country:

	High	Low
Atlanta	60	25
Buffalo	38	6
Des Moines	15	-1
Houston	75	51
Miami Beach	83	53
Minneapolis	4	-16
New York	44	18
Palm Springs	88	62
Phoenix	78	43
Seattle	52	44

The Market

The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

Veteran Board Member To Retire

by TOM WELLMAN

John Haas, a 14-year veteran of service to three school boards, has announced his retirement from the Harper College board of trustees.

In a letter addressed to Harper president Robert Lahti, Haas, completing his second three-year term, stated that increased business obligations would force him to miss a number of meetings.

"Under the circumstances, I have decided that the College would be better served if I did not run for reelection this spring," he stated.

Haas, who is 56, told the Herald that he felt he "couldn't do the right kind of job" if his law practice kept him away from board meetings. Thus, he decided not to seek reelection.

Haas, a Prospect Heights resident, was first elected to the Harper board in 1965, and was elected as board chairman, a post he held for three years. In 1968, he won reelection. He is currently chairman of the committee on revising the conduct code and is a member of the negotiating committee.

"JOHN HAS been one of the most unselfish persons in the service of public education in the northwest suburbs that I know," commented Harper president Robert Lahti.

"He has always been one who drew people together," said Lahti. "He has always been a mediator and one who caused people to work together... he's a team builder."

James Hamill, current board president, said when Haas was first elected from a slate in 1965, he drew Hamill and Milton Hansen, who ran independently, into a smoothly working board.

"People are deferential to his knowledge and wisdom. His views have weighed more than any other board members," Hamill said.

Hamill added that until Lawrence Moats and Joseph Morton were elected to the board in 1969 and 1970 did Haas act as a conciliatory force between board members.

HAAS GAINED his first experience on the Elementary Dist. 23 board in 1957 to 1960, when he served as president.

In 1961, he was appointed to the High School Dist. 214 board, and was named secretary. In 1962 he was elected to the board and was then named board president.

Haas has resided in Prospect Heights for 23 years. He and his wife, Helene, have four children.

A graduate of Wayne State University in Detroit, Haas has practiced law in Michigan, Washington, D.C., and in Chicago. He has a law office at 115 S. Emerson in Mount Prospect.

Haas' withdrawal from consideration for reelection guarantees that at least one seat will be open on the board. Incumbent board members Milton Hansen and Hamill have not announced if they will seek reelection.

Haas is well known in Prospect Heights, where he serves as attorney for the library district and the park district.

The Seatmakers Make Commuting More 'Well-Padded'

When Edward Buker Sr., started making railway car seats in 1927, you could travel from Arlington Heights to downtown Chicago in 43 minutes on the Chicago & North Western Ry. Today, it takes 47 minutes.

While commuter service hasn't speeded up, seats are more comfortable. In fact, the newer coach seats are downright plush — thanks to people like Buker.

Buker started his company with six employees in a loft at the corner of 1st Avenue and Lake Street in Maywood. One of his first big customers was Greyhound Bus Co., for whom he built the old reed-type seats that have long since disappeared.

Buker's firm, headed now by his son Edward Jr., took the name of Coach and Car Equipment Corp. shortly after it was started.

One of the things that the company is proud of is the fact that although the entire plant was destroyed by fire in January of 1948, it was back in production again by April of the same year. The firm was then in Bridgeport on Quinn Street in Chicago.

Today the firm is in Centex Industrial Park in Elk Grove Village at 1951 Arthur Ave. and is completing its fourth year of operation in that location. The original number of employees — six — has expanded to 175, one of whom was one of the first six. He is Nick Tallirico, now employed as a sample maker.

THE FIRM HAS made coach seats for many of the famous trains during the heyday of railways. Among the trains which carried passengers on the company's seats were the New York Central's Pacemaker, the Pennsylvania Railroad's Trail Blazer, and the Illinois Central's City of Miami, and more recently for the Department of Transport — the Metroliner — running from New York to Washington.

It has made most, if not all, the seats used by Chicago's commuting railroads and will make the seats for the new Illinois Central fleet.

Although the company's principal produce is railway car seats, it also makes seats for Army vehicles and tractor seats for Ford IHC — AC — and Caterpillar vehicles. Some of the latter, made with sponge rubber upholstery and bright blue plastic covers, even have arm rests and look more like executive desk chairs than tractor seats.

A number of the employees who work in the 71,000-square-foot plant are "reverse commuters" living in Chicago and driving to and from the Elk Grove Village plant.

In order to make traveling easier for the employees, the company has rather unusual working hours. The workday begins at 6:30 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Edward Buker Jr., president of the firm since his father's death in 1948, is a railroad buff and one of his prized possessions is a railway car seat which was in use in the 1870's.

Buker is also an avid model railroad builder. One of the gondola-type cars used on the larger types of model railways sits in a prominent place in the outer office of the firm. It measures almost three feet in length and has every piece of equipment that a full size car has.

"This seat," Buker said, referring to the 1870 model, "was in a train that averaged somewhere between 20 and 25 miles per hour. The Northeast Corridor train for which we have furnished seats will travel in three hours the distance which those trains took a full 24 hours to cover."

Buker also said that the Northeast Corridor train would cost $21.6 million. "In 1870 you could build a whole railroad for that amount."

Residents Urged To Donate Blood

Wheeling Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon has encouraged local residents to give blood as part of national blood donor month this month.

Scanlon said that area residents can still donate blood even if they were unable to participate last weekend in the Wheeling Jaycees' Cooperative Blood Replacement program.

Scanlon said that blood banks are "in dire need of blood" this month.

"I encourage anyone who can give to do so," he said.

"No one really knows what it means to be in need of blood until financially and personally you have the experience," he said.

Scanlon said local residents should contact members of the Jaycees about donating.

Duplex Rezoning Decision Delayed

A decision on a rezoning proposal for a duplex was postponed for approximately 45 days by the Wheeling Village Board.

Board members agreed Monday to delay action on the rezoning petition for the property at 231 S. Wheeling Ave., owned by Roland and Wanda Heckenbach.

William J. Ryan, the Heckenbachs' attorney, had asked for time to complete appraisals of the property.

Ryan told village trustees he wanted to enter evidence showing that the property would lose value if the rezoning were not granted.

THE REZONING would allow the house to be used as a duplex rather than a single family home.

The attorney told village officials the property owners would agree that no more stories would be built onto the building.

Village zoning board members had recommended that the rezoning request be denied because it might set a precedent for apartment and duplex zoning in the single family home area.

However, Trustee Ira Bird said, "This property can be viewed differently than spot zoning. The village has known of its use and has condoned it. To me the village has stopped it."

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon pointed out that residents of the area had signed a petition asking that rezoning be granted.

Bruhn said he wanted to know if in an

Reports On Purchasing Asked

Wheeling village trustees asked for reports on purchasing a crime laboratory course and insurance.

Trustee Ronald Bruhn asked Monday for a report from Village Atty. Paul Hamer on the possibility of an emergency purchasing procedure for the village.

Bruhn said he wanted to know if in an emergency the village could waive competitive bidding on large purchases such as $10,000. Currently competitive bids are required for all purchases costing more than $1,500.

Bruhn said he was thinking of such things as police cars and fire department cars in making his request for the report.

Bruhn also asked for a report from Police Chief M. O. Horcher on a Northern Illinois Police Crime Lab course recently completed by Wheeling Police Sgt. Thomas Conte and Patrolman William Hoos.

Trustee Michael Valenza requested a report from acting village manager George Passolt on village insurance covering civil defense workers and volunteer firemen.

Zoning Board Continues Case

The board continued the hearing until 7 p.m. that evening because the owner of the property at Jeffery and Milwaukee Avenues failed to attend the original hearing Tuesday night.

Public hearings scheduled by the zoning board for Feb. 16 will include a 7 p.m. hearing on a 40-acre site south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church and School on Wheeling Road.

The site which is owned by Arnold Liebling, is expected to be annexed to the village on Feb. 8. The owner has requested rezoning from single-family home zoning (which is automatically assigned to property annexed to the village) to multiple-family development zoning for apartments or townhouses.

Also on Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. the board will consider a petition to allow a gas station on the corner of Strong Street and Wolf Road.

At 8 p.m. that evening hearings on updating the village's zoning map will be held.

School, Park Units To Hold Joint Meet

A joint meeting of the Wheeling Park District and School Dist. 22 boards will be held Feb. 4.

Items to be discussed at the meeting include school employment of security police and the renewal of the school park agreement.

Cuban Family May Arrive In 4 Weeks

A Cuban refugee which Elk Grove High School students planned to relocate in the village by Christmas may now arrive in less than four weeks.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor at the school in charge of the project to relocate the family, said that a plea for help from Illinois Sen. Charles Percy several weeks ago resulted in clearance of the family this week.

The family was delayed as a result of procedure changes in the Labor Department, Mrs. Garcia had reported earlier.

Mrs. Garcia said yesterday that she had talked to Percy's office and was told a letter clearing the family had already been sent to the American Consulate in Madrid.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and their two teenage children, have been stranded in Madrid for two years waiting for relocation to the United States.

Decision Made On Park Building Use

Wheeling's Park District Commissioners last week decided not to amend park ordinances about use of buildings by political or other groups.

Park board members had discussed eliminating all political meetings earlier in the month.

Commissioner Gene Sackett proposed an amendment to park ordinances banning "any person or persons whose philosophy endorses overthrow or rebellious acts toward any governmental agency of this country."

Park Atty. Roger Bjorvik told the board an existing park ordinance banning groups which present a "clear and present danger" would allow exclusion of any radical groups the park board feared.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parking, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuck hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Willow Grove School To Open On Wednesday

The final moving-in activities at the new Willow Grove School in Buffalo Grove will be completed this weekend in preparation for the first day of classes at the school on Wednesday.

Its opening will bring an end to double shifts in Dist. 96.

William Hitzeman, superintendent of Dist. 96, said that much of the school furniture provided by the Illinois School Building Commission (ISBC) is already in the building and in the process of being assembled. The furniture includes such things as student desks, chairs, filing cabinets and library shelving.

Hitzeman said that some 7,000 library books and some additional furniture must be moved from Kildeer School in Long Grove to Willow Grove this weekend.

"WITH A WING and a prayer, we'll finish," he said.

All work on the building, except for a few minor details, has been completed.

Gold-colored carpeting, for the school was installed last week. It was the last major project remaining to be completed at the school, and the move-in to the school was delayed until it could be installed.

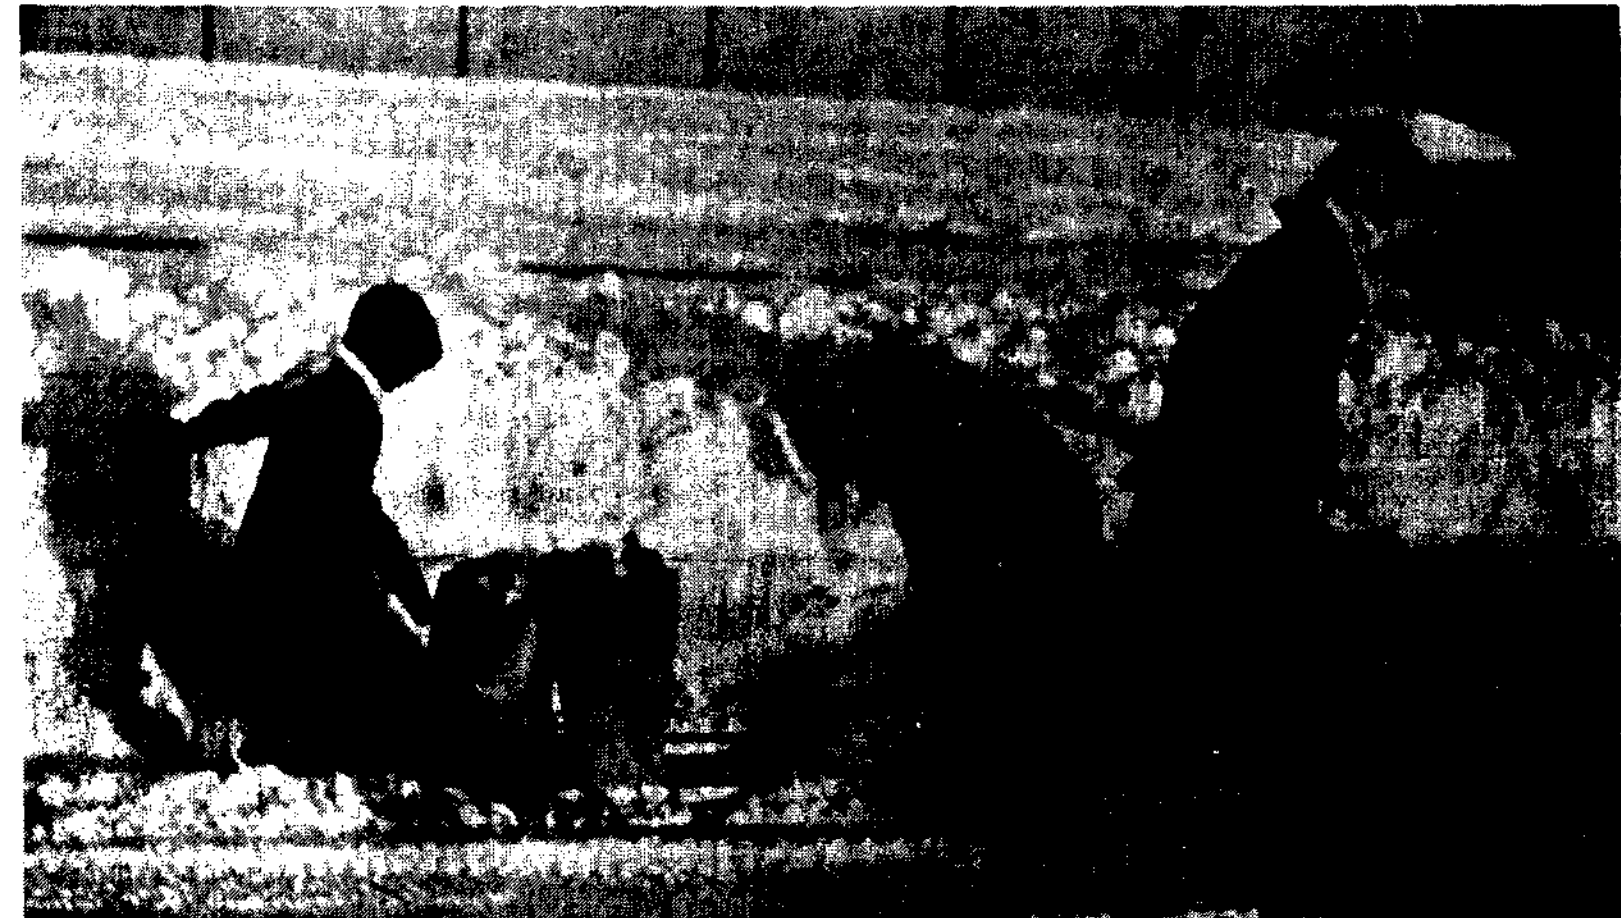

Hitzeman termed the new building "A beautiful building for young children."

"The community can be very proud of the new school. It's a very attractive building, painted in bright colors — reds and blues and oranges. No one will fall asleep in it."

The new school is designed for a team-teaching program. All classroom walls may be folded back, to enable the classrooms to open into larger rooms. Several classes of students can thus meet together in the larger rooms and receive instruction from several different teachers working together as a team.

HITZEMAN SAID that formal dedication ceremonies for the new building will be held in the spring. An informal open house will also be held, probably in February or March, he added.

All children in kindergarten through fifth grade in Dist. 96 will attend Willow Grove; junior high school students will remain at Kildeer School.

REMEMBER 1967? This is how it looked four years ago today as residents dug out of the 23 inches of snow that fell on the Chicago area on Jan. 26 and 27, 1967. This January has brought no comparable snowfall, but for many the subzero temperatures and high winds — and auto engines that refuse to start — are worse than the snows of four years ago.

Jazz Concert Set At Stevenson High

The University of Illinois Jazz Band will present a concert at 8 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Adlai Stevenson High School auditorium.

The special program is being sponsored by the Stevenson symphonic band. Admission is $2.25. Tickets should be purchased in advance at the school.

The 25-member group completed their second tour of Europe, including the Soviet Union, last year. The band went on a similar tour of Europe, sponsored by the U.S. State Department, in 1968.

The band has also participated in many music festivals throughout the United States, including festivals at Newport, R.I., St. Louis, Mo., and New Orleans, La.

The jazz band was organized in 1960 by John Garvey, professor of music at the University of Illinois, who is still the director of the band.

Homeowners' Group Elects 1971 Officers

The Ballantrae Homeowners Association elected new officers for 1971 at their monthly meeting Monday night.

James Kowieski was elected president, William Kinkade, vice president; June Haasler, secretary; and Joan Koehler, treasurer.

Kowieski said the group is currently discussing plans to hold a candidates night for the village election to allow all candidates to present their platform to the 100 family organization.

He added that the homeowners' association will not endorse any candidate but will hold the forum to allow people to become acquainted with candidates.

Fire Aid Pact Would Lower Insurance

Buffalo Grove Fire Chief Wayne Winter said yesterday the village's fire insurance rating would improve if the Long Grove Fire Department would sign a mutual aid agreement.

An insurance rating drop would probably be accompanied by a lowering in the amount homeowners pay for fire insurance, Winter said.

Winter charged the Long Grove department is "penalizing the whole village" by its delay in reaching a decision.

Winter said the village's current class 8 rating is because fire protection in the Lake County portion of the village isn't as good as the protection in Cook County.

All parts of the village north of Checker Road are served by the Long Grove Fire Department. The section of the village south of the road is protected by the Buffalo Grove Fire Department.

An official of the Illinois Inspection and Rating Bureau, said in a letter to Winter the fire protection in Lake County is "considerably poorer" than in Cook County. The fire rating is used by insurance companies to compute the amount a homeowner must pay in fire insurance premiums.

Since the village is rated as a whole, Cook County homeowners are paying higher premiums than they would if the rating were done on an individual fire department basis, according to Winter.

In the letter giving the class 8 rating, Martin Austin of the rating bureau said

"a dual department response would be acceptable" and result in an improved rating.

Winter said he drafted and sent to Long Grove fire officials a mutual aid agreement stating that Buffalo Grove would respond to all Long Grove calls within the village limits.

Winter said the Long Grove department is studying the proposal, but hasn't approved it.

"If they approve the agreement, we would automatically have a class 7 rating and would try to get a class 6 in the spring," Winter said.

He said insurance premiums would drop when a class 6 rating is reached. Wheeling now has a class 6 rating.

Veteran Board Member To Retire

by TOM WELLMAN

John Haas, a 34-year veteran of service to three school boards, has announced his retirement from the Harper College board of trustees.

In a letter addressed to Harper president Robert Lahti, Haas, completing his second three-year term, stated that increased business obligations would force him to miss a number of meetings.

"Under the circumstances, I have decided that the College would be better served if I did not run for reelection this spring," he stated.

Haas, who is 56, told the Herald that he felt he "couldn't do the right kind of job" if his law practice kept him away from board meetings. Thus, he decided not to seek reelection.

Haas, a Prospect Heights resident, was first elected to the Harper board in 1965, and was elected as board chairman, a post he held for three years. In 1968, he won reelection. He is currently chairman of the committee on revising the conduct code and is a member of the negotiating committee.

In 1961, he was appointed to the High School Dist. 214 board, and was named secretary. In 1962 he was elected to the board and was then named board president.

Haas has resided in Prospect Heights for 23 years. He and his wife, Helene, have four children.

A graduate of Wayne State University in Detroit, Haas has practiced law in Michigan, Washington, D.C., and in Chicago. He has a law office at 115 S. Emerson in Mount Prospect.

Haas' withdrawal from consideration for reelection guarantees that at least one seat will be open on the board. Incumbent board members Milton Hansen and Hamill have not announced if they will seek reelection.

Haas is well known in Prospect Heights, where he serves as attorney for the library district and the park district.

Scanlon said that blood banks are "in dire need of blood" this month.

"I encourage anyone who can give to do so," he said.

"No one really knows what it means to be in need of blood until financially and personally you have the experience," he said.

Scanlon said local residents should contact members of the Jaycees about donating.

Duplex Rezoning Decision Delayed

A decision on a rezoning proposal for a duplex was postponed for approximately 45 days by the Wheeling Village Board.

Board members agreed Monday to delay action on the rezoning petition for the property at 231 S. Wheeling Ave., owned by Roland and Wanda Heckenbach.

William J. Ryan, the Heckenbach's attorney, had asked for time to complete appraisals of the property.

Ryan told village trustees he wanted to enter evidence showing that the property would lose value if the rezoning were not granted.

THE REZONING would allow the house to be used as a duplex rather than a single family home.

The attorney told village officials the property owners would agree that no more stories would be built onto the building.

Village zoning board members had recommended that the rezoning request be denied because it might set a precedent for apartment and duplex zoning in the single family home area.

However, Trustee Ira Bird said, "This property can be viewed differently than spot zoning. The village has known of its use and never stopped it. To me the village has condoned it."

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon pointed out that residents of the area had signed a petition asking that rezoning be granted.

Bruhn said he wanted to know if in an

Cuban Family May Arrive In 4 Weeks

A Cuban refugee which Elk Grove High School students planned to relocate in the village by Christmas may now arrive in less than four weeks.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor at the school in charge of the project to relocate the family, said that a plea for help from Illinois Sen. Charles Percy several weeks ago resulted in clearance of the family this week.

The family was delayed as a result of procedure changes in the Labor Department, Mrs. Garcia had reported earlier.

Mrs. Garcia said yesterday that she had talked to Percy's office and was told a letter clearing the family had already been sent to the American Consulate in Madrid.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and their two teenage children, have been stranded in Madrid for two years waiting for relocation to the United States.

Decision Made On Park Building Use

Wheeling's Park District Commissioners last week decided not to amend park ordinances about use of buildings by political or other groups.

Park board members had discussed eliminating all political meetings earlier in the month.

Commissioner Gene Sackett proposed an amendment to park ordinances banning "any person or persons whose philosophy endorses overthrow or rebellious acts toward any governmental agency of this country."

Park Atty. Roger Bjorvik told the board an existing park ordinance banning groups which present a "clear and present danger" would allow exclusion of any radical groups the park board feared.

The Elk Grove High School students began a project late last fall to raise money for the family and find the father a job. The family is expected to live in an apartment near the high school, Mrs. Garcia said.

Zoning Board Continues Case

The board continued the hearing until 7

emergency the village could waive competitive bidding on large purchases such as $10,000. Currently competitive bids are required for all purchases costing more than $1,500.

Bruhn said he was thinking of such things as police cars and fire department cars in making his request for the report.

Bruhn also asked for a report from Police Chief M. O. Horcher on a Northern Illinois Police Crime Lab course recently completed by Wheeling Police Sgt. Thomas Conte and Patrolman William Hoos.

Trustee Michael Valenza requested a report from acting village manager George Passolt on village insurance covering civil defense workers and volunteer firemen.

Alcott Students Study Other States

Travel booklets on various states are being made by fourth graders at Louisa May Alcott School in Buffalo Grove.

Mrs. Sue Schwartz, teacher of the class, said the students each picked one state to study. They compiled information on various aspects of the state, including climate, industry, and types of transportation.

Mrs. Schwartz said the exercise was beneficial to the students because "Most of them had never looked up information before and this helped them to learn how to do this. They found pictures and made charts on their state. The main topic they considered was, 'Did the people do the same types of things that we do here?'"

Mrs. Schwartz said that the students are now giving oral reports on what they have learned and have displayed their booklets in the classroom.

The booklets were made in connection with a social studies unit.

p.m. that evening because the owner of the property at Jeffery and Milwaukee Avenues failed to attend the original hearing Tuesday night.

Public hearings scheduled by the zoning board for Feb. 16 will include a 7 p.m. hearing on a 40-acre site south of St. Alphonsus Catholic Church and School on Wheeling Road.

The site which is owned by Arnold Liebling, is expected to be annexed to the village on Feb. 8. The owner has requested rezoning from single-family home zoning (which is automatically assigned to property annexed to the village) to multiple-family development zoning for apartments or townhouses.

Also on Feb. 16 at 7:30 p.m. the board will consider a petition to allow a gas station on the corner of Strong Street and Wolf Road.

At 8 p.m. that evening hearings on updating the village's zoning map will be held.

School, Park Units To Hold Joint Meet

A joint meeting of the Wheeling Park District and School Dist. 22 boards will be held Feb. 4.

Items to be discussed at the meeting include school employment of security police and the renewal of the school park agreement.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuck hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair. Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurei Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Village Officials Still Considering Cable Television

Cable television, which would allow local broadcasting, is still being considered by Palatine officials, but is far from becoming a reality.

Earlier this month, the village administration was asked by a prospective franchiser to attend a demonstration of the service they had to offer.

Twice before, Palatine has been considered by cable television operators as a potential market for their product, said Village Mgr. Berton G. Braun.

As in the past, a representative of Scientific Communications, Inc. was turned down.

Braun said the village is not ready to consider cable television. "This doesn't mean we're closing the door on the possibility, but we're not prepared to make a policy recommendation at this time."

CABLE TELEVISION began in the 1950s in secluded rural areas which were located too far from overhead power transmitters to pick up network signals.

Basically, cable television operates by connecting coaxial cables to one's television set so the signals are direct.

Cable television operators claim their systems provide clearer reception and more channels.

The franchiser usually charges an installation fee and a monthly rate thereafter for the telephone line-like hookup to a television set.

Braun notified the village board of the request from Scientific Communications, Inc., and with their consent, declined the offer for a demonstration.

Post Office To Be Closed Saturdays

Beginning Saturday, Feb. 20, all window service at U.S. Post Offices in northern Illinois will be closed on Saturdays. Home delivery service, however, will not be affected.

Persons wishing to buy stamps from vending machines in the post office lobby and customers wishing to get their mail from lock boxes will still be able to do so.

William F. Stenzel, manager of mail operations services for the Chicago region, said the elimination of Saturday window service is part of a change the post office is making to accommodate the mailing habits of its postal customers.

"People don't usually get their car fixed on Saturday and our Saturday business has been very light. We're trying to create a standard and put manpower where it is needed. This might result in expanding our Friday night work," he said.

This change has been in operation in Illinois below Springfield since the first of the year.

Previously, window service on Saturdays was available until noon.

"WE DON'T WANT to grant a franchise and a year later regret it," Braun said.

In 1965 the Illinois General Assembly gave local municipalities permission to license cable television franchisers. Braun said new legislation is expected to be introduced soon, however, which calls for the state, or Illinois Commerce Commission, to grant cable television franchises.

For this reason, Braun said, "cable television is far from an exact science and we'd rather wait until policy concerning it is clearer."

Braun and other village officials have been doing research on cable television, franchise arrangements and other related concerns and have found that even the Federal Communications Commission is too vague on the issue for the village board to make a decision at this point.

Braun said there are other reasons why Palatine is not ready to seriously consider cable television.

"Among the priorities of the times, cable television just isn't needed," he said.

REMEMBER 1967? This is how it looked four years ago today as residents dug out of the 23 inches of snow that fell on the Chicago area on Jan. 26 and 27, 1967. This January has brought no comparable snowfall, but for many the subzero temperatures and high winds — and auto engines that refuse to start — are worse than the snows of four years ago.

Chamber Of Commerce Head Eriksen Resigns

Kenneth P. Eriksen has resigned as the first, full-time paid executive director of the Palatine Chamber of Commerce.

The announcement came last night at the Chamber's annual installation dinner dance at Howard Johnson's by outgoing president Al Fuksza.

High-ranking chamber officials refused comment on the reasons for Eriksen's unexpected withdrawal, and Eriksen was not available for comment.

Fuksza did say this is the first year the Chamber will operate on a strict budget, and that the 1971 budget does not allow for a full-time executive director.

WHEN ERIKSEN assumed the post on Sept. 30 last year, he was to receive a $15,000 annual salary plus a $2,000 car allowance and various commissions.

New candidates for the position of a part-time director will be screened and interviewed shortly.

Sen. John A. Graham, R-Barrington, will speak at tonight's meeting of the Palatine Township Regular Republican Organization.

The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. in the community room of the Palatine Savings and Loan.

"This is our intention. We need a director, but on a part-time basis," Fuksza said.

Eriksen, the 27-year-old owner of Eriksen Insurance Co., first served as the chamber's part-time director from Nov. 1968 to September of 1970, when he took on the job in a full-time capacity and served until last weekend when he resigned.

Eriksen's appointment by the Chamber's executive board caused several disputes which temporarily split Chamber members.

GUS HOLZRICHTER, board member, claimed Eriksen was hired illegally because his salary was not based on the collection of dues, but on proceeds from services the Chamber offers.

Holzrichter's charges came prior to a general membership meeting held late in September, when the board also failed to get the needed two-thirds majority vote from the membership to allow Eriksen's position as executive director to be officially written into Chamber bylaws.

Eriksen has been affiliated with the Chamber since opening his insurance company at 119 E. Palatine Rd., in 1967.

Since that time he has won the local Jaycee's Man of the Year Award and become president of the local Kiwanis Club, in addition to heading the Chamber.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year' cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

Vice President Spiro Agnew declared it is time to begin moving centralized government in Washington out to the grass roots. Referring to Washington, he said the federal government "has been in fat city" too long.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather

A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 80.

These temperatures from around the country:

	High	Low
Atlanta	60	25
Buffalo	38	6
Des Moines	15	-1
Houston	75	51
Miami Beach	83	53
Minneapolis	4	-16
New York	44	18
Palm Springs	88	62
Phoenix	78	43
Seattle	52	44

The Market

The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

Public Ignorant Of Referendum?

by JIM HODL

In about 30 days, Palatine Township residents will be going to the polls to vote on the mental health referendum.

If the people are as educated about the matter then as they are now, it will be a very light turnout on Feb. 27.

Each Friday, the Herald prepares a Speakout column which includes quotations from residents about issues affecting them. Last week, the question was about the Feb. 27 mental health referendum.

After making a half a dozen calls, there were six people who confided that they didn't know what the referendum was about or when it was.

THIS WAS DESPITE all the articles the Herald has published since Dec. 28 concerning the referendum, what it would mean to the public and what the four townships involved were doing to bring the referendum to the people.

Finally, we interviewed an elderly gentleman from Palatine who said he knew what the referendum was about. He said it was terrible that the village board of trustees was trying to ramrod this referendum through without the people finding out about it.

Contrary to his belief, the village board has nothing to do with the referendum. The township board also has little to do with the referendum except to schedule the date it will be held.

The Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council has the job of promoting the referendum and bringing the news of the glories of a combined mental health program to the people.

SO FAR, we have heard from Ken Dougan, hired to do the publicity for the referendum by the council, that a big promotion is coming. So far, this big promotion has not come. Only a few minor promotions have come.

It appears many Palatine Township residents are ignorant of the referendum. Even one official on the Palatine Park Board expressed surprise at a recent meeting when he was told that there was going to be a mental health referendum.

A better promotion should be coming for the referendum. People should be informed by pamphlets and other means of communication. The Herald will surely help, but the promoters of the referendum shouldn't count on the newspaper to do all the promoting. We will also be covering the referendum's opposition.

The people should be told what combining 12 local mental health agencies will mean for them and their children. They should also be told why they must pay another 10 cents on $100 in taxes to support the Northwest Council.

ROLLING MEADOWS residents would like to know what this referendum would do to them, when they already pay a city mental health tax.

Of the people who have heard of the referendum, the word is going out that the reason the referendum was called for by the council only 40 days before it was to be held was because they didn't want everyone to find out about it.

One public official said, off the record, that this is the only way the referendum can pass. The council will rally their supporters to the polls while the opposition won't have time to group.

Unofficially, the council has indicated that they want the referendum on Feb. 27 because they can carry it then while they couldn't in June.

WHILE THE PROGRAM the council has proposed, has its merits there are still too many unanswered questions and too many people who have yet to hear of this referendum.

Surely the referendum's promoters can educate more people by Feb. 27. If the referendum vote is to be a true gauge of public feeling, everyone should be informed about it.

If the Northwest Council doesn't have time to educate everyone about the upcoming referendum, it only proves the inferences being made by a few people that the new tax is being rushed past an unknowing public.

Blue Bird Wing-Ding Set Feb. 3

All Palatine girls who attend first grade and their mothers are invited to attend a Wing-Ding and learn about the Camp Fire Girl program.

Blue Bird Wing-Ding parties will be held Feb. 3 and 4 for girls going to various schools.

Girls who attend Sanborn, Hunting Ridge, Paddock, St. Theresa, Immanuel Lutheran, Marion Jordan, Plum Grove or Pleasant Hill schools are invited to attend the Wing-Ding on Feb. 3 in the Paddock School cafeteria. The party will be held from 7 to 8 p.m.

Hostesses of this Wing-Ding will be the third grade Blue Bird girls of Dorothy Dougherty, the fourth grade Camp Fire Girls of Gerry Rogers, and the fourth grade Camp Fire Girls of Joan Swanson.

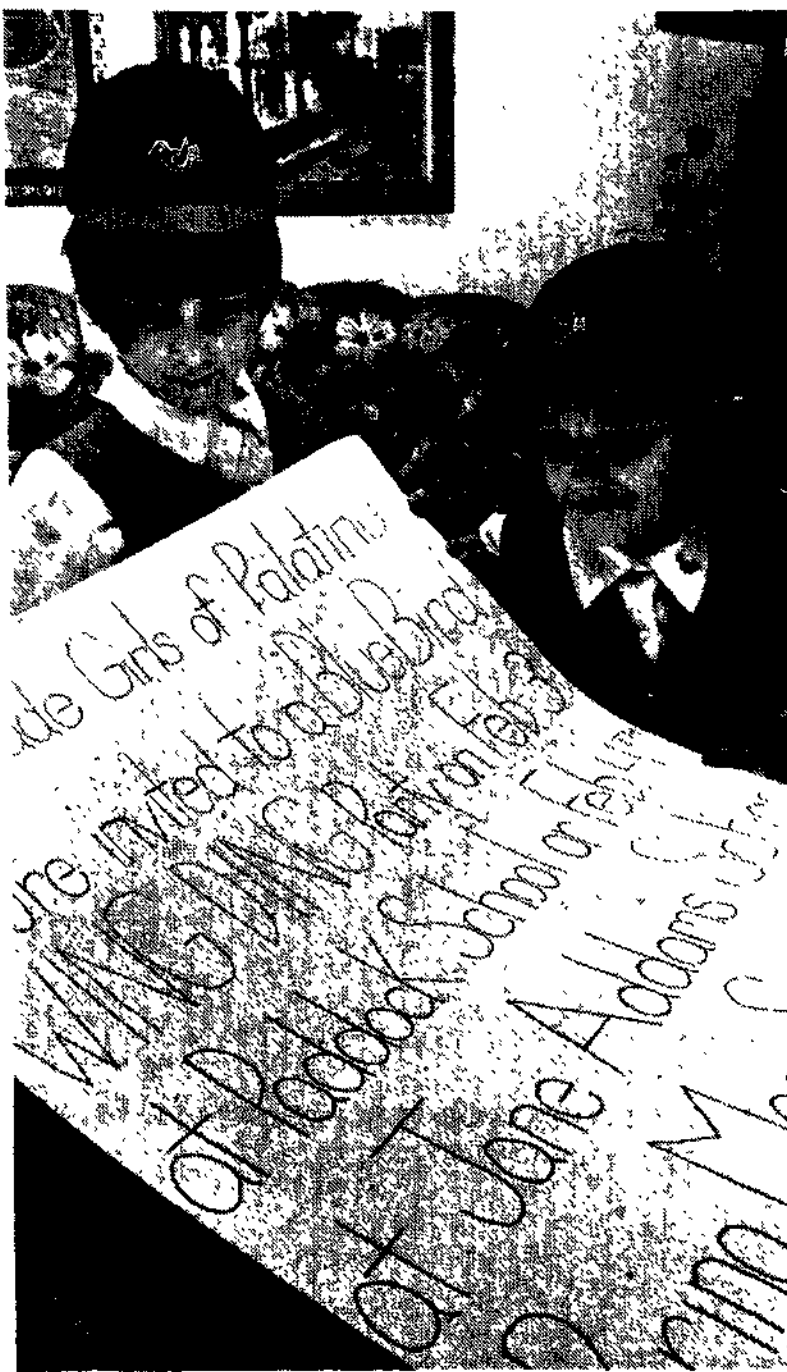

Girls who attend Lake Louise, Jane Addams, Virginia Lake and Winston Churchill Schools are invited to the Wing-Ding to be held Feb. 4 in the Jane Addams School gymnasium. This party will also be held from 7 to 8 p.m.

Hostesses of this Wing-Ding will be the third grade Blue Bird girls of Gloria Biondi and the fourth grade Camp Fire Girls of Nancy Wirth.

First graders who attend a Wing-Ding will be entertained by the hostesses with games and songs. Refreshments will be served too.

Emphasis of both parties will be on what Blue Bird groups do.

People who would like to learn more about the Camp Fire Girls Program but cannot attend a Wing-Ding are asked to call Nancy Wirth at 359-3571.

A RATHER LARGE invitation for first grade girls to attend one of two Wing Ding parties was drawn up recently by a group of Blue Bird girls.

Presenting this invitation are Blue Birds Michele Fallahee and Nancy Nowakowski.

Tires Are Stolen

Ed Merritt of 206 N. Brockway St., Palatine, parked his car outside his apartment building Sunday night and woke up yesterday morning to find the front two tires had been stolen.

He told police the tires, and damage which was done to his car by the thief amounted to a loss of some $160. Police said they are investigating.

Veteran Board Member To Retire

by TOM WELLMAN

John Haas, a 14-year veteran of service to three school boards, has announced his retirement from the Harper College board of trustees.

In a letter addressed to Harper president Robert Lahti, Haas, completing his second three-year term, stated that increased business obligations would force him to miss a number of meetings.

"Under the circumstances, I have decided that the College would be better served if I did not run for reelection this spring," he stated.

Haas, who is 56, told the Herald that he felt he "couldn't do the right kind of job" if his law practice kept him away from board meetings. Thus, he decided not to seek reelection.

Haas, a Prospect Heights resident, was first elected to the Harper board in 1965, and was elected as board chairman, a post he held for three years. In 1968, he won reelection. He is currently chairman of the committee on revising the conduct code and is a member of the negotiating committee.

"JOHN HAS been one of the most unselfish persons in the service of public education in the northwest suburbs that I know," commented Harper president Robert Lahti.

"He has always been one who drew people together," said Lahti. "He has always been a mediator and one who caused people to work together... he's a team builder."

James Hamill, current board president, said when Haas was first elected from a slate in 1965, he drew Hamill and Milton Hansen, who ran independently, into a smoothly working board.

"People are deferential to his knowledge and wisdom. His views have weighed more than any other board members," Hamill said.

Hamill added not until Lawrence Moats and Joseph Morton were elected to the board in 1969 and 1970 did Haas act as a conciliatory force between board members.

HAAS GAINED his first experience on the Elementary Dist. 23 board from 1957 to 1960, when he served as president.

In 1961, he was appointed to the High School Dist. 214 board, and was named secretary. In 1962 he was elected to the board and was then named board president.

Haas has resided in Prospect Heights for 23 years. He and his wife, Helene, have four children.

Study Next Step Toward Interchange

A four-community survey of residential traffic patterns is the next step necessary in building a case to convince the Illinois Tollway Commission that an interchange is needed at Roselle Road.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plans commission chairman, said he will contact officials from Schaumburg, Palatine and Inverness and arrange a meeting to discuss the survey.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg officials are seeking a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission on establishing an interchange at Roselle Road onto the Tollway.

REGAN SAID yesterday he expects the survey and other necessary information to be gathered by the end of May. "We should be ready to go before the tollway commission by June," he said.

John Lucas, director of planning and development at Harper Junior College has pledged a study of the students at Harper for part of the survey.

He has suggested that one of every 12 households between Palatine Road, the southern end of Schaumburg Township, Meacham Road and Freeman-Spring-insburgh Road be contacted in the survey. This would be about 1,000 households in the four community area.

Harper has also offered its services and facilities for research and meetings.

The exit-entrance ramps to tollways are approved by the state commission if they will provide enough revenue to meet the costs of construction. This is what a survey of households could help prove, Regan said.

A CLOVERLEAF interchange is wanted at Roselle Road because local planners expect traffic freeze ups at the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps in the near future.

The Rte. 53 ramp traffic is expected to worsen considerably as industrial and commercial growth continues in north-east Schaumburg.

The Roselle interchange would relieve traffic at these two ramps.

McElroy To Be Honored

G A McElroy, former superintendent of High School Dist. 211, will attend the district school board meeting tonight — his first since retiring as superintendent last summer.

McElroy will be honored for his 39 years of service to the district. A portrait of him, to be hung in the G. A. McElroy Administration Building on Roselle Road, will also be unveiled.

After McElroy's appearance, the board will discuss three items concerning a fifth high school to be built on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Ken Unteed, of Berger, Kelley, Unteed and Scaggs, architects for the school, will explain recent revisions in the school's design. The district's fifth high school will have movable classroom walls to allow for changes in class size. Construction on the school is scheduled to begin late this spring.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will also hear Robert Lyons, a teacher at James B. Conant High School and a Hoffman Estates resident, speak on naming the fifth school "Hoffman Estates High School."

The first bond sale to pay for construction of School No. 5 will also be considered. The board is expected to accept a bid on $12.25 million in bonds opened today in Chicago. The bonds will be used to purchase 20 additional acres for the Wise Road school site in Schaumburg, pay architectural fees and costs of beginning construction on School No. 5.

The board is expected to pass a resolution to hold school board elections April 10. Petitions for becoming a candidate in the election will then be available tomorrow in the business manager's office, 1750 S. Roselle Rd.

Other items to be discussed include setting a date for beginning salary negotiations with teachers, granting a utility easement on the Winston Park school site in Palatine, and revising the building rental policy.

Meadows Woman Gets Theft Charge

A Rolling Meadows woman was arrested by Schaumburg Village Police Tuesday on a warrant issued Thursday charging her with theft of $3,570.48 from Schaumburg State Bank, using bad checks.

Charged is Mrs. Joan A. Dunne, 27, of 4706 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows. Bond, originally set at $9,000 by Circuit Judge George Zimmerman, was reduced in a bond hearing yesterday in Mount Prospect before Judge Edwin Martay. It was dropped to $2,500, and Mrs. Dunne posted 10 per cent. Her court date is Feb. 23 in Niles.

THE BANK contacted police at 11:20 a.m. Thursday, through its attorney, Thomas Kearn.

Kearn said Mrs. Dunne had come into the bank Oct. 23, opening a savings account and depositing $436.14. Nov. 3 she returned with a check for $6,101.19, drawn on the bank of Rolling Meadows, he said. She deposited part of the check and requested $1,500 returned in cash.

Nov. 9 she returned again, said Kearn, with another check drawn against the Rolling Meadows bank. She requested cash of $1,710.48 from the $2,910.40 check, depositing the rest. In a fourth visit, Nov. 19, said Kearn, she cashed a $360 check drawn on the Rolling Meadows bank.

Last week the Bank of Rolling Meadows notified Schaumburg State Bank Mrs. Dunne had closed her account with them previous to writing the checks. They had tried to contact her for clarification, they said, but were not successful.

Craft Projects To Be Displayed

A davenport made by a Palatine Township High School student in his first quarter wood craft class will be among the many industrial arts projects that will be on display at tonight's meeting of the V.I.P.'s (Very Important Parents).

To be held in the Palatine High School cafeteria at 8 p.m., the meeting will feature projects of the wood craft, metal craft, building trades and drafting classes.

Instructors of these courses will be on hand to add explanations about what their students produced.

All parents, whether a V.I.P. or a non-member, and their neighbors are invited to attend this meeting.

Refreshments of coffee and cookies will be served.

V.I.P.'s also announce that their next paper drive will be held on March 6. Palatine residents are asked to save old newspapers for the drive and bring them to a trailer that will be parked on Wood Street next to the school's tennis courts.

Those wishing their papers picked up should call 358-1252.

THE UNEXPECTED vacation for local youngsters and their parents happened just four years ago when two feet of snow blanketed the area. Without classroom activities, there was still a chance for exercise in digging away the mounds of surprise white stuff after the weatherman had predicted an accumulation of only one inch.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chunk hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

TODAY: Partly cloudy, continued cold chance of snow flurries, high in upper teens.

TOMORROW: Not much change.

Siren Contract Put Off By Debate Between Firms

Rolling Meadows City Council postponed awarding the contract for the civil defense storm warning siren system at Tuesday's meeting, after a heated debate between representatives of firms who had bid on the sirens.

After an hour long debate by the representatives concerning the quality of each other's products, Merrill Wuerch, city civil defense director, asked that a resolution for the purchase of the equipment be removed from the agenda.

"Because of some of the things brought up tonight," Wuerch asked that the decision be postponed.

The civil defense committee recommended last week that the city council accept the bid made by Veto Sales and Service, Arlington Heights, who is distributor for Biersach and Niedermeyer sirens.

THE DEBATE BEGAN, during the portion of the meeting allocated to the public for comments. The representative of Federal Sign and Signal Co., who said he had apparently lost the bid, asked that the council reconsider the quality of equipment involved. He said that the Federal equipment should be purchased by the city, and had several pamphlets that he passed out to the council to substantiate his claims.

The Federal representative spoke for a half hour on the desirability of the Federal products and pointed out that the Federal bid was $6,000 lower than the competitive bid, that he said apparently was going to be accepted. He also said that 95 per cent of outdoor siren equipment in the country was made by his firm.

The vice president and sales manager of Biersach and Niedermeyer told the council of the desirability of their product. The Biersach and Niedermeyer sirens are made of fiberglass.

Owner of Veto Sales and Service answered the accusation that he was not registered in the State of Illinois as a distributor. He said that the firm was registered.

A Motorola representative also spoke briefly and said that Biersach and Niedermeyer had not met the city's specifications for the siren system in their bid.

The board listened to the debate, and asked a number of questions of all the firms. Wuerch then announced that the contract would not be awarded at the meeting.

The entire outdoor warning siren system will be financed through a $15,000 grant from the state and matching funds from the city government, making the project a total cost of $30,000. Veneziano said installation of the equipment should be completed before tornado seasons begin this spring.

REMEMBER 1967? This is how it looked four years ago today as residents dug out of the 23 inches of snow that fell on the Chicago area on Jan. 26 and 27, 1967. This January has brought no comparable snowfall, but for many the subzero temperatures and high winds — and auto engines that refuse to start — are worse than the snows of four years ago.

Post Office To Be Closed Saturdays

Beginning Saturday, Feb. 20, all window service at U.S. Post Offices in northern Illinois will be closed on Saturdays. Home delivery service, however, will not be affected.

Persons wishing to buy stamps from vending machines in the post office lobby and customers wishing to get their mail from lock boxes will still be able to do so.

William F. Stenzel, manager of mail operations services for the Chicago region, said the elimination of Saturday window service is part of a change the post office is making to accommodate the mailing habits of its postal customers.

"People don't usually get their car fixed on Saturday and our Saturday business has been very light. We're trying to create a standard and put manpower where it is needed. This might result in expanding our Friday night work," he said.

This change has been in operation in Illinois below Springfield since the first of the year.

Previously, window service on Saturdays was available until noon.

First Independent Files For City Council Seat

The first independent candidate has announced he will seek election in the Rolling Meadows city election this year.

Charles Boyer, 2410 Flicker Ln., told the Herald Wednesday that he will seek election from ward one and "challenge the miniature machine in the Meadows."

Boyer said that he has been urged by many persons to seek office. "The people want to be represented better," he said.

He said he would like to see more security for the apartments in Rolling Meadows. He also said sidewalks in his ward need repairs.

The Citizens Action Party has endorsed Thomas Scanlan and Merrill Wuerch for the two aldermen positions open in ward one in the April 20 election.

Nine city positions will be open in the April election including the mayor, city treasurer and city clerk. Six aldermen positions are also open.

Mayor, city treasurer and city clerk candidates need a minimum of 136 signatures of Rolling Meadows residents on a petition to file for office. Aldermen need between 20 and 58, depending on the ward that they seek election. Petitions may be picked up at the city clerk's office in city hall.

Cracker Barrel

It is rumored that Rolling Meadows Fire Chief Thomas Fogarty and the American LaFrance salesman who sold the snorkel to the city aren't on speaking terms. The snorkel had a leaky boom and improperly sealed compartments. Fogarty wanted the snorkel fixed; the salesman wanted his money for the snorkel. It suddenly disappeared and rumor had it that the company had repossessed the snorkel. Everything may be all right soon though, as the fire district will pay all but $5,000 and then the snorkel will be repaired.

IF AT FIRST you don't succeed, try, try, again. This was apparently the motto of the Federal Sign and Signal Co., representative at the city council meeting Tuesday. He appeared before the council to tell the city they were making a mistake in not buying his siren.

The city had received a recommendation to purchase a competitor's sirens. After pointing out why he felt his sirens were superior, the council recessed.

During the recess, the Federal representative could be heard saying: "Well, I guess we lost that one." But when the council returned, he found that he hadn't lost yet. The council postponed buying the sirens, until further study is made.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $800,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

Vice President Spiro Agnew declared it is time to begin moving centralized government in Washington out to the grass roots. Referring to Washington, he said the federal government "has been in fat city" too long.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather

A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 90.

These temperatures from around the country:

	High	Low
Atlanta	60	25
Buffalo	38	6
Des Moines	15	-1
Houston	75	51
Miami Beach	83	53
Minneapolis	4	-16
New York	44	18
Palm Springs	88	62
Phoenix	78	43
Seattle	52	44

The Market

The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow-Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

Public Ignorant Of Referendum?

by JIM HODL

In about 30 days, Palatine Township residents will be going to the polls to vote on the mental health referendum.

If the people are as educated about the matter then as they are now, it will be a very light turnout on Feb. 27.

Each Friday, the Herald prepares a Speakout column which includes quotations from residents about issues affecting them. Last week, the question was about the Feb. 27 mental health referendum.

After making a half a dozen calls, there were six people who confided that they didn't know what the referendum was about or when it was.

THIS WAS DESPITE all the articles the Herald has published since Dec. 28 concerning the referendum, what it would mean to the public and what the four townships involved were doing to bring the referendum to the people.

Finally, we interviewed an elderly gentleman from Palatine who said he knew what the referendum was about. He said it was terrible that the village board of trustees was trying to ramrod this referendum through without the people finding out about it.

Contrary to his belief, the village board has nothing to do with the referendum. The township board also has little to do with the referendum except to schedule the date it will be held.

The Northwest Mental Health and Retardation Council has the job of promoting the referendum and bringing the news of the glories of a combined mental health program to the people.

SO FAR, we have heard from Ken Dougan, hired to do the publicity for the referendum by the council, that a big promotion is coming. So far, this big promotion has not come. Only a few minor promotions have come.

It appears many Palatine Township residents are ignorant of the referendum. Even one official on the Palatine Park Board expressed surprise at a recent meeting when he was told that there was going to be a mental health referendum.

A better promotion should be coming for the referendum. People should be informed by pamphlets and other means of communication. The Herald will surely help, but the promoters of the referendum shouldn't count on the newspaper to do all the promoting. We will also be covering the referendum's opposition.

James

The people should be told what combining 12 local mental health agencies will mean for them and their children. They should also be told why they must pay another 10 cents on $100 in taxes to support the Northwest Council.

ROLLING MEADOWS residents would like to know what this referendum would do to them, when they already pay a city mental health tax.

Of the people who have heard of the referendum, the word is going out that the reason the referendum was called for by the council only 40 days before it was to be held was because they didn't want everyone to find out about it.

One public official said, off the record, that this is the only way the referendum can pass. The council will rally their supporters to the polls while the opposition won't have time to group.

Unofficially, the council has indicated that they want the referendum on Feb. 27 because they can carry it then while they couldn't in June.

WHILE THE PROGRAM the council has proposed, has its merits there are still too many unanswered questions and too many people who have yet to hear of this referendum.

Surely the referendum's promoters can educate more people by Feb. 27. If the referendum vote is to be a true gauge of public feeling, everyone should be informed about it.

If the Northwest Council doesn't have time to educate everyone about the upcoming referendum, it only proves the inferences being made by a few people that the new tax is being rushed past an unknowing public.

Hostesses of this Wing-Ding will be the third grade Blue Bird girls of Gloria Biondi and the fourth grade Camp Fire Girls of Nancy Wirth.

First graders who attend a Wing-Ding will be entertained by the hostesses with games and songs. Refreshments will be served too.

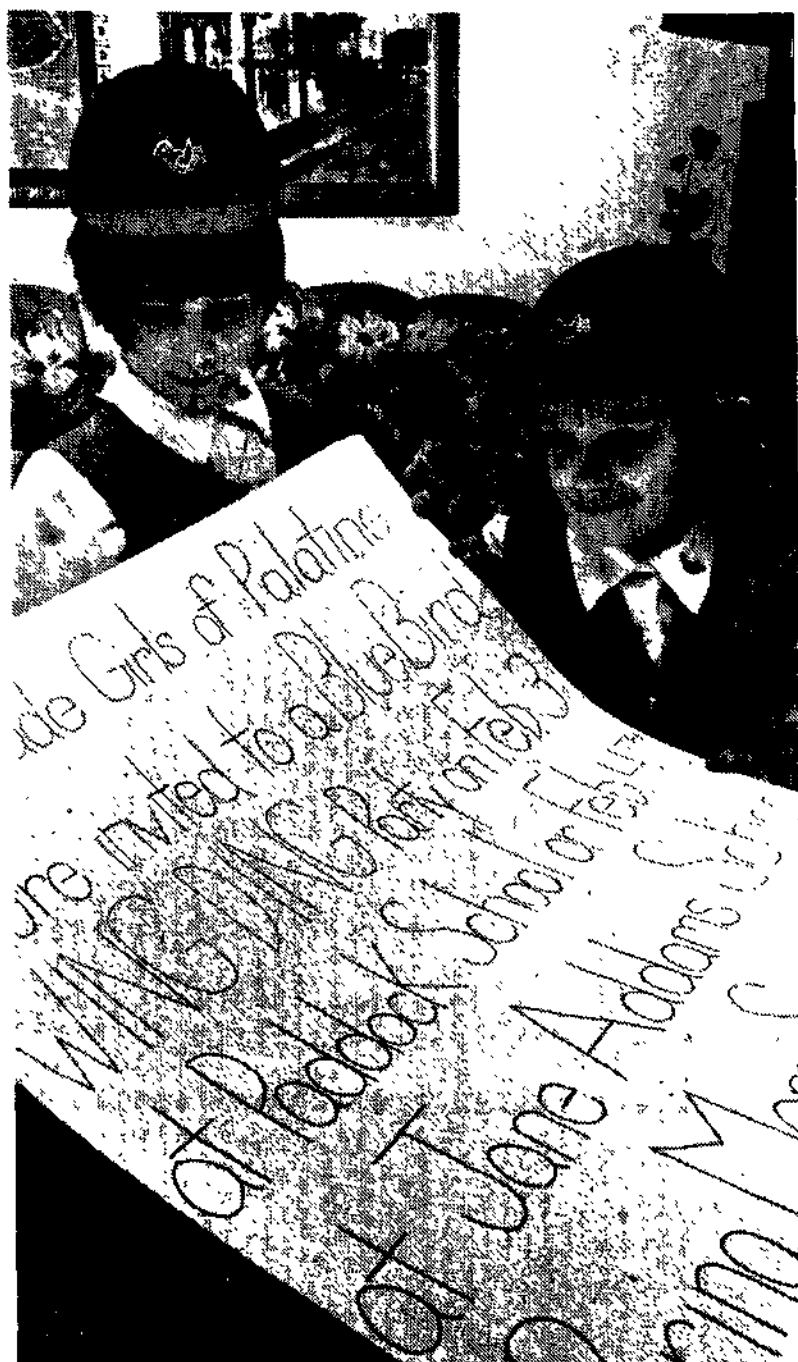

Emphasis of both parties will be on what Blue Bird groups do.

People who would like to learn more about the Camp Fire Girls Program but cannot attend a Wing-Ding are asked to call Nancy Wirth at 359-3571.

Tires Are Stolen

Ed Merritt of 206 N. Brockway St., Palatine, parked his car outside his apartment building Sunday night and woke up yesterday morning to find the front two tires had been stolen.

He told police the tires, and damage which was done to his car by the thief amounted to a loss of some $160. Police said they are investigating.

A RATHER LARGE invitation for first grade girls to attend one of two Wing Ding parties was drawn up recently by a group of Blue Bird girls.

Presenting this invitation are Blue Birds Michele Fallahee and Nancy Nowakowski.

Study Next Step Toward Interchange

A four-community survey of residential traffic patterns is the next step necessary in building a case to convince the Illinois Tollway Commission that an interchange is needed at Roselle Road.

Richard Regan, Hoffman Estates plans commission chairman, said he will contact officials from Schaumburg, Palatine and Inverness and arrange a meeting to discuss the survey.

Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg officials are seeking a hearing before the Illinois Tollway Commission on establishing an interchange at Roselle Road onto the Tollway.

REGAN SAID yesterday he expects the survey and other necessary information to be gathered by the end of May. "We should be ready to go before the tollway commission by June," he said.

John Lucas, director of planning and development at Harper Junior College has pledged a study of the students at Harper for part of the survey.

He has suggested that one of every 12 households between Palatine Road, the southern end of Schaumburg Township, Meacham Road and Freeman-Springing Road be contacted in the survey. This would be about 1,000 households in the four community areas.

Harper has also offered its services and facilities for research and meetings.

The exit-entrance ramps to tollways are approved by the state commission if they will provide enough revenue to meet the costs of construction. This is what a survey of households could help prove, Regan said.

A CLOVERLEAF interchange is wanted at Roselle Road because local planners expect traffic freeze ups at the Barrington Road and Rte. 53 ramps in the near future.

The Rte. 53 ramp traffic is expected to worsen considerably as industrial and commercial growth continues in northeast Schaumburg.

The Roselle interchange would relieve traffic at these two ramps.

by TOM WELLMAN

John Haas, a 14-year veteran of service to three school boards, has announced his retirement from the Harper College board of trustees.

In a letter addressed to Harper president Robert Lahti, Haas, completing his second three-year term, stated that increased business obligations would force him to miss a number of meetings.

"Under the circumstances, I have decided that the College would be better served if I did not run for reelection this spring," he stated.

Haas, who is 56, told the Herald that he felt he "couldn't do the right kind of job" if his law practice kept him away from board meetings. Thus, he decided not to seek reelection.

Haas, a Prospect Heights resident, was first elected to the Harper board in 1965, and was elected as board chairman, a post he held for three years. In 1968, he won reelection. He is currently chairman of the committee on revising the conduct code and is a member of the negotiating committee.

"JOHN HAS been one of the most unselfish persons in the service of public education in the northwest suburbs that I know," commented Harper president Robert Lahti.

"He has always been one who drew people together," said Lahti. "He has always been a mediator and one who caused people to work together... he's a team builder."

James Hamill, current board president, said when Haas was first elected from a slate in 1965, he drew Hamill and Milton Hansen, who ran independently, into a smoothly working board.

"People are deferential to his knowledge and wisdom. His views have weighed more than any other board members," Hamill said.

Hamill added not until Lawrence Moats and Joseph Morton were elected to the board in 1969 and 1970 did Haas act as a conciliatory force between board members.

HAAS GAINED his first experience on the Elementary Dist. 23 board from 1957 to 1960, when he served as president.

In 1961, he was appointed to the High School Dist. 214 board, and was named secretary. In 1962 he was elected to the board and was then named board president.

Haas has resided in Prospect Heights for 23 years. He and his wife, Helene, have four children.

A graduate of Wayne State University in Detroit, Haas has practiced law in Michigan, Washington, D.C., and in Chicago. He has a law office at 115 S. Emerson in Mount Prospect.

Haas' withdrawal from consideration for reelection guarantees that at least one seat will be open on the board. Incumbent board members Milton Hansen and Hamill have not announced if they will seek reelection.

Haas is well known in Prospect Heights, where he serves as attorney for the library district and the park district.

McElroy To Be Honored

G. A. McElroy, former superintendent of High School Dist. 211, will attend the district school board meeting tonight — his first since retiring as superintendent last summer.

McElroy will be honored for his 39 years of service to the district. A portrait of him, to be hung in the G. A. McElroy Administration Building on Roselle Road, will also be unveiled.

After McElroy's appearance, the board will discuss three items concerning a fifth high school to be built on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Ken Unteed, of Berger, Kelley, Unteed and Scaggs, architects for the school, will explain recent revisions in the school's design. The district's fifth high school will have movable classroom walls to allow for changes in class size. Construction on the school is scheduled to begin late this spring.

THE SCHOOL BOARD will also hear Robert Lyons, a teacher at James B. Conant High School and a Hoffman Estates resident, speak on naming the fifth school "Hoffman Estates High School."

The first bond sale to pay for construction of School No. 5 will also be considered. The board is expected to accept a bid on $1.25 million in bonds opened today in Chicago. The bonds will be used to purchase 20 additional acres for the Wise Road school site in Schaumburg, pay architectural fees and costs of beginning construction on School No. 5.

The board is expected to pass a resolution to hold school board elections April 10. Petitions for becoming a candidate in the election will then be available tomorrow in the business manager's office, 1750 S. Roselle Rd.

Other items to be discussed include setting a date for beginning salary negotiations with teachers, granting a utility easement on the Winston Park school site in Palatine, and revising the building rental policy.

Meadows Woman Gets Theft Charge

A Rolling Meadows woman was arrested by Schaumburg Village Police Tuesday on a warrant issued Thursday charging her with theft of $3,570.48 from Schaumburg State Bank, using bad checks.

Charged is Mrs. Joan A. Dunne, 27, of 4706 Arbor Dr., Rolling Meadows. Bond, originally set at $9,000 by Circuit Judge George Zimmerman, was reduced in a bond hearing yesterday in Mount Prospect before Judge Edwin Martay. It was dropped to $2,500, and Mrs. Dunne posted 10 per cent. Her court date is Feb. 23 in Niles.

THE BANK contacted police at 11:20 a.m. Thursday, through its attorney, Thomas Kearns.

Kearns said Mrs. Dunne had come into the bank Oct. 23, opening a savings account and depositing $436.14. Nov. 3 she returned with a check for $6,101.19, drawn on the bank of Rolling Meadows, he said. She deposited part of the check and requested $1,500 returned in cash.

Nov. 9 she returned again, said Kearns, with another check drawn against the Rolling Meadows bank. She requested cash of $1,710.48 from the $2,910.40 check, depositing the rest. In a fourth visit, Nov. 19, said Kearns, she cashed a $380 check drawn on the Rolling Meadows bank.

Last week the Bank of Rolling Meadows notified Schaumburg State Bank Mrs. Dunne had closed her account with them previous to writing the checks. They had tried to contact her for clarification, they said, but were not successful.

Craft Projects
To Be Displayed

A davenport made by a Palatine Township High School student in his first quarter wood craft class will be among the many industrial arts projects that will be on display at tonight's meeting of the V.I.P.'s (Very Important Parents).

To be held in the Palatine High School cafeteria at 8 p.m., the meeting will feature projects of the wood craft, metal craft, building trades and drafting classes.

Instructors of these courses will be on hand to add explanations about what their students produced.

All parents, whether a V.I.P. or a non-member, and their neighbors are invited to attend this meeting.

Refreshments of coffee and cookies will be served.

V.I.P.'s also announce that their next paper drive will be held on March 6. Palatine residents are asked to save old newspapers for the drive and bring them to a trailer that will be parked on Wood Street next to the school's tennis courts.

Those wishing their papers picked up should call 358-1252.

THE UNEXPECTED vacation for local youngsters and their parents happened just four years ago when two feet of snow blanketed the area. Without classroom activities, there was still a chance for exercise in digging away the mounds of surprise white stuff after the weatherman had predicted an accumulation of only one inch.

OK Given For Use Of Maple Fieldhouse

Members of the Palatine Park Board agreed to let Palatine Township use the Maple Park Fieldhouse as a polling place during the Feb. 27 mental health referendum.

The fieldhouse is an official polling place in voting district 39. A letter received by the board from Town Clerk Margaret Chapman requested use of the building on the day the township is planning to hold the referendum that would establish a mental health tax.

Palatine Township's Board of Auditors have not yet set the referendum for Feb. 27, but they are expected to Monday evening.

To date, town clerks in the four townships that will hold the referendum are setting up the election whether they have approved of the Feb. 27 date or not, in order to have the election machinery ready when they do.

Polls will be open in the Maple Park Fieldhouse on Feb. 27 from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The park district will be paid $25 for use of the building on the day of the referendum.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chock hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg, construction workers ewre at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Incorporation Vs. Annexation Issue Splits Council

Members of the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations are hoping the organization will not be further split by the incorporation-annexation issue.

The council represents all of the homeowner associations in Prospect Heights and a portion of unincorporated Mount Prospect.

The question of whether the community should incorporate as a new municipality or be annexed to an existing municipality has divided the council in half.

Annexation Gets Residents' OK

Annexation to Mount Prospect was given a "go ahead" by 86 per cent of the members of the Castle Heights Association attending a general meeting Tuesday.

Approximately 100 people attended the meeting to discuss the annexation and incorporation. Art Brescia, president of the association board, gave a presentation to the residents supporting annexation.

Association members at the meeting authorized the board to use association funds to take steps toward annexation. Further support was given to annexation by association members in a door-to-door ballot vote. Fact sheets discussing the issue, and the ballots were distributed to the 335 homes in the association's area. Of the 239 ballots returned, 78 per cent favored annexation, and 18 per cent favored incorporation.

Residents voted at the general meeting to move toward annexation to Mount Prospect after two hours of discussion. The residents' main concern was whether they would have representation in the municipality. Brescia explained it is the responsibility of the municipality to represent all of its residents. He said the residents would also have a voice through their homeowner association.

The "old town" area west of Wolf Road, represented by the Prospect Heights Improvement Association (PHIA), advocates incorporation of its area. However the "new town" area, made up of seven homeowner associations, is leaning toward annexation.

At a meeting, Monday, council members said they hope polls to be taken in the "new town" community will indicate that all seven homeowners groups there favor annexation to Mount Prospect, thus ending any more division.

RESIDENTS HAVE been polled once on the incorporation-annexation issue by the Prospect Heights Jaycees and are again being polled by the council. A Jaycee survey showed that in "old town" 38 per cent favor incorporation and 25 per cent favor annexation. In "new town," 41 per cent favor annexation and 23 per cent favor incorporation. Fewer than 1,000 people responded to the Jaycee survey.

The council has asked each member association to distribute fact sheets on the annexation-incorporation issue. Residents' reactions to the fact sheet will be polled by each association either over the phone or by ballot.

The council has also asked each association to hold a general meeting before Feb. 15. The fact sheet will be discussed at the meetings and residents will be asked to vote again on the issue.

Polls taken at two general meetings of "new town" associations show a plurality of residents favor annexation. The other five "new town" associations have scheduled meetings early in February.

The results of all the polls will be compiled by the council, which plans to take steps toward whichever alternative a plurality of residents choose.

AT A MEETING Monday, one council member pointed out that annexation will be feasible only if each association is either adjacent to another association that favors annexation or adjacent to municipal boundaries. In essence a chain must be formed by the associations petitioning

Two Seats Open In Dist. 23

Caucus To Interview Candidates

The screening committee of the School Dist. 23 Caucus is now accepting appointments to interview school board candidates.

Two posts on the school board will be vacant in April. The school board members now holding these seats, Melvin Lacey and Bruce Wallace, have announced they will run for re-election.

The caucus will interview Lacey and Wallace in addition to any other school board candidate seeking caucus endorsement. It is the responsibility of the caucus to endorse candidates after they have been interviewed by the caucus screening committee.

An organizational meeting was held by the caucus earlier this week to select members for the screening committee and to set up guidelines for the interviews. The caucus is comprised of delegates from various civic organizations in the district.

According to Frank Adrano, caucus chairman, the caucus delegates voted to endorse only one candidate for each of the two school board positions. Three prospective candidates for each of the two school board posts will be presented to the caucus by the screening committee for endorsement consideration.

ADRANO SAID the caucus will name the two candidates it has endorsed by the end of February. A school board candidate does not have to be endorsed by the caucus to run in the April 10 election.

If a school board candidate wishes to be interviewed by the caucus he should contact Charles Panzer at 537-8849. To be eligible for the school board candidacy, a resident must have lived in the district for at least 30 days, in the county for 90 days and in the state for one year. The resident must also be at least 21 years old.

Petitions for school board candidates will soon be available at the district administration office at 1309 N. Rand Rd. The petitions are now available at the home of Henry Vallely, school board attorney, at 109 Hillside Dr.

Feb. 23 is the first day school board may file candidates at the administration office. The last day of filing is March 19. The state requires that the signatures of at least 50 voters in the district be on the petition.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $300,000 cash hoard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perkling economy.

Vice President Spiro Agnew declared it is time to begin moving centralized government in Washington out to the grass roots. Referring to Washington, he said the federal government "has been in fat city" too long.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

The Weather

A huge and bitter winter storm swept into New York and New England, with a combination of foot-deep snow and 65-mile an hour winds paralyzing vast regions. The same system left harsh cold and snow drifts up to 15 feet deep in the Midwest, and brought new freeze warnings to the deep South. California was a sharp contrast, with temperatures pushing up near 90.

These temperatures from around the country:

	High	Low
Atlanta	60	25
Buffalo	36	6
Des Moines	15	-1
Houston	75	51
Miami Beach	83	53
Minneapolis	4	-16
New York	44	18
Palm Springs	88	62
Phoenix	78	43
Seattle	52	44

The Market

The first upward trend on the New York Stock Exchange broke for the first time in 10 days. Trading remained heavy — some 20,000,000 shares — but the Dow Jones Industrial average dropped more than six points. Of the 1,681 issues traded, 972 showed a drop.

Delegates To Attend State Hearing

Representatives of the Village of Wheeling will oppose possible state legislation that would give the state power over the zoning of property within a mile of a major state highway intersection. Because Wheeling is divided by three major state highways, village officials say that passage of the proposal could mean state involvement in many village zoning decisions.

Village trustees Monday directed Village Planner Thompson Dyke and village Atty. Paul Hamer to attend hearings today and Feb. 9. The village was notified of the hearings in a letter from State Rep Eugene Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights.

AT AN EARLIER meeting village board members adopted a resolution opposing any takeover of local zoning powers by state government.

Schlickman is chairman of the Illinois Zoning Laws Study Commission which is considering the proposed state zoning power change.

The state control over local zoning is part of a preliminary draft of an Illinois Land Resources Code being considered by Schlickman's commission. The group still must prepare a final draft of it that proposal before it goes to the legislature. In his letter to village officials Schlickman invited the local representatives to the hearings, but assured them that municipalities were already adequately represented at the hearings.

IN HIS LETTER Schlickman explained that the commission "won't deny the hard-earned home rule" to local municipalities.

"However, I am sure you appreciate the state does have a vital concern in certain limited critical areas," Schlickman said.

Wheeling Trustee Ira Bird Monday said "I don't have the same faith as Schlickman; municipalities aren't always represented adequately."

Village Pres. Ted C. Scanlon agreed with Bird saying the village should send Dyke and Hamer to the meetings to pursue village opposition to the changed law.

to annex, beginning with the association that borders municipal boundaries.

"We will only be spinning our wheels if the 'new town' associations don't go together," said a council member.

"We won't know if all of the 'new town' associations will go together until after Feb. 15," said Marie Caylor, council secretary. "And we can't force any association to join the majority. We can only hope that we all hang together."

The council president, Art Brescia, took an informal poll of the association representatives at the meeting to test the feelings of the associations' boards. All of the associations were represented at the meeting except the River Trails group.

The association representatives said the boards of the Euclid Lake, Castle Heights and Parkview associations favor annexation. Dale Chapman, president of the Rainbow Ridge Association, said the majority of his block captains also favor annexation.

Representatives from the Woodview and Wolf Mandel associations said their boards are undecided. Council members at the meeting speculated that the River Trails association favors annexation because "it is the closest association to the Village of Mount Prospect."

PAUL TAIT, PRESIDENT of the Parkview group, pointed out that the final decision rests with the residents. "No matter what the association boards decide, the final decision will be made at the time of a referendum."

A referendum on annexation to a municipality will probably be set after that municipality conducts a feasibility study. According to Mrs. Caylor the study could be completed within a month after petitions are presented to the municipality.

Mrs. Caylor predicted that the petitions could be presented to a municipality by Mar. 1. At the meeting, the council members agreed that each association should begin circulating a petition as soon as the association members indicate what direction they want to take.

"We could conceivably be annexed to a municipality within six months," said Mrs. Caylor.

Robert Chudick, of 404 S. Hatlen, Mount Prospect, recently received his bachelor of arts degree in education from Wayne State College, Wayne, Neb.

Asks More Funds For Suburbs

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The chief judge of the circuit court Monday called on county budget officials to give a better financial break to suburbs that provide courtroom facilities.

Judge John S. Boyle, appearing before the county board's finance committee in hearings on a record corporate budget of $119.6 million, urged commissioners to boost from $55,000 to $60,000 the amount proposed for municipalities in each of the five suburban court districts that regularly make courtroom space available to the circuit court.

The proposed 1971 appropriations request as presented by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne budgeted $20,000 less than the $75,000 Boyle originally requested. Before the budget was formally presented last week, Boyle reportedly asked Dunne to provide at least $60,000.

BUDGET OFFICIALS said Dunne raised the amount from last year's budget by $5,000 as a compromise to Boyle's request.

But during the committee session, Boyle said he still wanted $60,000 for each district because of rising costs suburban communities must pay in providing courtroom space.

Park Dist. Slates Second Ski Party

The Mount Prospect Park District will sponsor a second ski party for teenagers Feb. 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Villa Olivia Country Club near Bartlett.

Youngsters between the ages of 13 and 19 are eligible to attend the party. Skiers must register in person at the park district office, 600 S. See-Gwon Ave., Mount Prospect. No phone registrations will be taken.

Registration will be taken on a first come, first served basis and limited to 118 persons. The deadline for registering is 4 p.m. Friday, Feb. 5.

The fee for the party is $4 for those with their own equipment and $7 for those without their own equipment. The fee covers transportation, slope fee and equipment rental.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuk hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

Seek State Funds For Local Road Improvements

An application for funding of road improvements on Maine Street from Evergreen Avenue to Central Road in Mount Prospect has recently been submitted to the Illinois Division of Highways.

Village officials are asking the state to redesign key intersections in the downtown business district in an effort to improve traffic control and safety.

The cost of improving four intersections on Main Street from Evergreen Avenue to Central Road is estimated at about $189,000, according to village officials.

The project includes improved signals and left-turn bays at the intersection of Main, Evergreen, Prospect and Northwest Highway on both sides of the Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks and at the intersection of Main Street and Central Road.

Plans also call for widening Main Street to allow for the addition of left-turn bays at Busse Avenue.

THE VILLAGE BOARD and safety commission met earlier this month to discuss these improvements, which were outlined in a traffic study conducted last year by the engineering firm of Crawford, Bunte and Roden. The St. Louis firm was hired by the village to survey major intersections throughout town and recommend ways to solve some of the traffic problems in the Village.

The safety commission reviewed the traffic study and asked the village board to schedule immediate improvements for these key intersections in the downtown business district.

Village officials submitted an application for funding of the Main Street projects when they learned state funds were available this fiscal year. George March, a former engineer with the state highway department, has been contracted by the village to prepare the preliminary plans and studies needed by the state.

March, who left the state highway department Jan. 1, is currently in business for himself. According to village officials, March will prepare the plans and the state will finance and install the improvements if the project is approved.

Village officials said yesterday they have not heard from the state highway department yet.

IMPROVEMENTS FOR the intersection of Main, Evergreen, Prospect and Northwest Hwy. on both sides of the railway tracks will also depend on how the traffic problem on Evergreen Avenue is resolved.

Crawford, Bunte and Roden recommended Evergreen Avenue be changed to one-way westbound which would eliminate a "bottleneck" at the intersection south of the railway tracks.

Disagreements among village trustees, safety commissioners and businessmen in the area over redesigning Evergreen Avenue prompted village officials to postpone a decision until they could meet with merchants whose businesses may be affected by the change. A meeting has been scheduled for Feb. 10 in the municipal building.

$42 Million Multi-Complex Decision Expected In February

A recommendation on the proposed annexation and zoning of a $42 million office, apartment and recreation center is expected from the Mount Prospect Plan Commission and Zoning Board of Appeals next month.

Plans for a multimillion-dollar development with the "magnitude of New York's Rockefeller Center" were unrolled Tuesday before a joint session of the plan commission and zoning board of appeals.

Besides village officials, only about a dozen people attended the public hearing on the proposed annexation and zoning of the center's 52-acre site at Algonquin and Elmhurst roads.

William Alter of Alter Realty Co. of Chicago, a subsidiary of Realty Company of America (REALCOA), is seeking annexation and commercial zoning with a special use for multiple-family residential development.

The parcel is currently unincorporated, and zoning for the development was approved by the Cook County Board in December. Alter told members of the plan commission and zoning board of appeals that although the project can be developed in the county, he prefers annexation to Mount Prospect.

"I THINK Mount Prospect could be an asset to us, and on the other hand, we have something to offer to Mount Prospect. From our point of view, the village could provide us with water, fire and police protection and a lower fire rating for insurance. We, in turn, will develop a project which could be a trademark for the village. This southern section is the gateway to Mount Prospect," Alter said.

Plans call for the construction of several office buildings ranging from eight to 16 stories; three 12-story and two 10-story apartment buildings with a maximum of 1,200 units; theaters, restaurants, hotel and an 80-acre, double-deck, underground parking lot for more than 6,000 cars. Parking for an additional 500 cars will also be available throughout the complex.

The plans also call for the development of year-round recreation with about 68 per cent of the parcel preserved for open space. Recreation will include a par-three golf course and putting green, tennis courts, skating rink, indoor and outdoor swimming pools, bowling alleys and a movie theater as well as a legitimate theater.

A 350-room hotel with convention facilities such as banquet rooms, exhibition halls and meeting rooms with an arcade of small shops is also included in the plans. The addition of a sports arean and such institutions s churches and schools will also be included.

Robert Babbitt, a Chicago architect, told members of the plan commission and zoning board of appeals that the apartment buildings will be constructed according to demand. "There's a possibility we'll have more office buildings and less apartments than we've indicated on these plans. Development will depend on the market and the demand for office space and housing.

The village board asked for the joint hearing Tuesday in an effort to avoid delays in considering the proposal. A public hearing before the village board will be held sometime in March following a recommendation from the plan commission and zoning board of appeals.

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

Annexation Will 'Up Property Value'

The meeting last week among members of the Euclid-Lake Homeowners Association at which they voted 49 to one to have their area annexed to Mount Prospect followed a presentation on the merits of annexation by Marie Caylor, Euclid-Lake president. The area in question is north of Euclid Avenue and east of Wolf Road.

Her presentation is similar to what she wrote for a fact sheet on the annexation-incorporation issue. Her presentation on annexation and one on incorporation are included in the fact sheet that has been published by the Northwest Suburban Council of Associations to its member homeowners groups.

Following are excerpts from Mrs. Caylor's presentation:

"ANNEXATION WILL give us an opportunity to belong to an area already established with a comprehensive plan which will enhance our property values," said Mrs. Caylor.

Annexation, she said, would involve less expense for the "new town" area of Prospect Heights (that part of the unincorporated community east of Wolf Road) than incorporation. "A new municipality would have to have a tax base. The city fathers would probably eye the open land (in the community) for developments as neighboring municipalities are now."

Annexation, on the other hand, could mean a tax decrease said Mrs. Caylor. Many taxes such as those for school districts, park districts, the Cook County forest preserve district and the Metropolitan Sanitary District would remain the same.

The fee now charged by the Citizen's Utility Co. would probably remain the same said Mrs. Caylor. "If we annex, the municipality would have to buy out the utility company. Our utility fee is now quite higher than that of neighboring villages. I have been told that the village could tax us at our present rate and keep the balance to buy out the company. It could take eight to 10 years."

The expenses that would be dropped after annexation include the fire district tax and the scavenger service fee, said Mrs. Caylor. "In addition we would save on insurance premiums because our fire protection classification would drop."

"The total savings would be approximately $67 per year for a home assessed at $10,000. Our added expense would be a municipal tax in Mount Prospect which is $59.80 per year for a home assessed at $10,000. In the end we may come out $7 ahead.

"ANNEXATION TO AN already organized and financially solvent municipality is desirable since residents can be aware in advance of the tax cost, and services.

"Annexation would eliminate the cost of incorporation, including court costs; as well as costs after incorporation for developing and maintaining a village or city at a high level of service and management.

"Since the amount of revenue to be derived from sales and other tax rebates or government subsidies under incorporation are unknown factors, such estimates erroneously anticipated could create budgetary hazards for the newly incorporated city."

Mrs. Caylor said annexation offers more security because the village involved would pay for a feasibility study before the annexation request would be put to a vote in a referendum. She said she had been told by various village officials that the study could be completed in one month.

The study would be made after residents have filed a petition with the village, and the village has held a hearing. "Upon completion of the study and receiving village approval, a final referendum vote among residents of the area to be annexed will be necessary," said Mrs. Caylor.

Asks More Funds For Suburbs

by DAVE CRIPPEN

The chief judge of the circuit court Monday called on county budget officials to give a better financial break to suburbs that provide courtroom facilities.

Judge John S. Boyle, appearing before the county board's finance committee in hearings on a record corporate budget of $119.6 million, urged commissioners to boost from $55,000 to $60,000 the amount proposed for municipalities in each of the five suburban court districts that regularly make courtroom space available to the circuit court.

The proposed 1971 appropriations request as presented by County Board Pres. George W. Dunne budgeted $20,000 less than the $75,000 Boyle originally requested. Before the budget was formally presented last week, Boyle reportedly asked Dunne to provide at least $60,000.

BUDGET OFFICIALS said Dunne raised the amount from last year's budget by $5,000 as a compromise to Boyle's request.

But during the committee session, Boyle said he still wanted $60,000 for each district because of rising costs suburban communities must pay in providing courtroom space.

We're beginning to wear out our welcome," commented Boyle. He noted the suburbs has amplified the importance of court activities in the outlying areas.

IN RESPONSE TO an apparent lack of enthusiasm over the proposal from Committee Chairman Jerome Huppert, Boyle remarked, "I know you're reluctant to pay out money to the suburban areas."

Huppert said more than once that the practice of holding court in outlying areas was a "nice service" for the suburbs. However, he expressed alarm that 63.4 per cent of the county's proposed corporate budget was devoted to the courts and law enforcement.

Boyle suggested asking suburbs to provide courtroom space at their own expense was tantamount to requiring the City of Chicago to build the county courts building.

"Legally this is an obligation of the county," he said.

Following the session, Boyle noted the funds for reimbursement were not the only money suburban communities received. He said that last year $3.5 million went to suburbs in the five districts under an agreement whereby the county only collects court costs and fines are distributed to communities.

BOYLE WAS AMONG a number of officials representing 10 county officials who brought their budget requests before the committee yesterday. All but one requested increases over last year's appropriations.

Not joining the chorus for more money was the Board of Election Commissioners which, because of no elections this year, submitted a request for $363,492 less than its appropriation last year.

This was the only bright spot in the first committee session. Among those asking for more money were the county recorder, public defender, judiciary and sheriff's office.

The sheriff's office and the eight agencies under its control asked for increases totalling $4.4 million over last year's appropriation.

The hearings with various department heads will resume today and continue until Wednesday noon when a special meeting of the county board will review committee findings.

Cold Wave Causes Minor Problems In NW Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chuck hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

In PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair.

Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Merle Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children

Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg construction workers were at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved in the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Cold

TODAY: Partly cloudy, continued cold chance of snow flurries, high in upper teens.

TOMORROW: Not much change.

Election 'Stars' Cast, 'Director' Is Still Sought

by SANDRA BROWNING

The stars for the drama known as elections for the Arlington Heights Village Board have been announced and the stars are presently trying to find a director for the play.

In one leading role, there is the four-man slate picked Sunday by the Arlington Heights Caucus. The other leading role is held by a slate of four candidates announced Tuesday night and called the Village Party.

Both slates are presently seeking campaign managers to help get their individual slates elected on April 6.

The role of the challengers to the Caucus slate is being played by the Village party composed of four village residents who have lived in Arlington Heights for an average of 14.75 years and have records of service on local boards and commissions.

Candidates on the Village Party slate include Charles O. Bennett, 1516 E. Mayfair Rd.; Ralph Clarbour, 333 S. Belmont Ave.; Alice Harms, 930 N. Mitchell Ave.; and James T. Ryan, 2614 N. Windsor Dr. Mrs. Harms will be running for the two-year term while the other three will be running for four-year terms.

Bennett and Ryan are presently members of the village board and were nominated Sunday by the Candidate Recom-

Caucus Slate Not Surprised By Opposition

Village Caucus candidates for the Arlington Heights Board of Trustees were to meet last night to plan campaign strategy and discuss a manager to direct that campaign.

Petitions formally nominating the four-man slate selected at the general Caucus session Sunday were filed yesterday with the village clerk, following announcement that they will be opposed by four independents.

Kenneth Banet, the number-two vote getter in the Caucus election, said yesterday that announcement of the opposition ticket was a surprise since there normally has been a surprise to Caucus candidates, though I did not anticipate it on any particular issue," he said.

Banet, 30, is a C.P.A. for a large Chicago accounting firm.

The other Caucus candidates were unavailable for comment yesterday. They are attorney Eugene L. Griffin, 38, who led the Caucus voting; John J. Collins, 43, president of Bakery Improvement, Inc.; and Theodore H. Salinsky, 43, vice president for administration of Powers Regulator Co.

John L. White, chairman of the Caucus, said of the opposition ticket, "there has historically been some opposition to the Caucus slate and I think it could well mean that it will be a good healthy campaign."

SOMETIMES THE ACTIVITY at the youth center in the basement of Olympic Park is just talk. Maurita Smith points out an item to Mona McClellan and Jim Anderson who are reading a school newspaper. The center is sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District.

Flavor Of Arlington Past In 'Prairieville' Book

The large and small events that make up the history of Arlington Heights and the surrounding area have been compiled in a book by long-time resident Daisy Paddock Daniels, "Prairieville, U.S.A."

A prepublication sale of the book, which will be printed this fall, will begin next Monday. Prepublication price will be $5. The book will be sold at the First Arlington National Bank, The Bank and Trust Company of Arlington Heights, The Northwest Trust and Savings Bank, the Arlington Heights Memorial Library and Randhurst.

The sale will continue through Saturday. All proceeds will go to the Arlington Heights Historical Society.

For the rest of this week, the Herald will present a series of small stories which help give the book the flavor of Arlington Heights' past:

If North Dunton Avenue still seems bumpy, it is because the foundation was well laid in 1916. That year streets in Arlington Heights were paved for the first time. The cement was mixed near where the Jewel store is today and horse-drawn carts transported the surfacing mixture to the site to be paved. However, by the time the carts reached North Dunton the cement had already partially set and had to be put down in lumps.

Youth Center Guidelines To Be Presented

Guidelines for operation of the Olympic Park youth center will be presented to the Arlington Heights Park District board Feb. 9, according to Ronald Dodd, superintendent of recreation for the district.

The center, in the basement of the park building at 660 N. Ridge Ave., has operated after school and three evenings a week without formal guidelines since October.

Among recommendations will be a ban on smoking in the center, Dodd said. No smoking signs were posted in the recreation facility recently and Dodd said they were ordered by the fire department. Capt. John Hayden of the Arlington Heights Fire Department said however that smoking areas in park district buildings are under jurisdiction of the district and that the signs were requested by Dodd.

The request was attributed to problems with cigarette butts and burn marks on the floor.

The preparation of guidelines for the center have been a long-standing issue with the Park Board. The issue of how the center was going to be operated was raised during a park board meeting last spring.

LYNN MEYER, representing the Arlington Heights Youth Council, asked the Park Board what plans there were for the center. The entire complex of Olympic Park was nearing completion at the time and opened officially in June.

Meyer's questioning prompted meetings held by park district staff members in local high schools to recruit teenagers to serve on an advisory board to run the youth center.

The steering committee for the center sponsored a few dances and other activities during the summer.

No formal guidelines or rules were drawn up by the steering committee, the park district administration nor the Park Board.

The youth center was formally opened for regular use in October. Basically, the center operates on a drop-in basis. The center draws about 20 to 40 teenagers on nights when it is open. When special events are planned by the steering committee and park personnel, the attendance jumps to between 200 and 600 teenagers.

Futurities

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements will meet at 8 p.m. today in the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

The Harper College Board will meet at 8 p.m. today at the college's campus, Roselle and Algonquin roads, Palatine.

The Dist. 21 Board of Education will meet at 8 p.m. today at the district's administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

This Morning In Brief

The State

Election 'Stars' Cast, Seek Director

slate by the voters at the meeting.

INCUMBENT BENNETT has served on the village board for four years, since winning his post as a Caucus endorsed candidate in the 1967 election. Bennett and his wife, Marsha, have two children and they have lived in the village for 15 years. He is employed as vice president of public relations for the Audit Bureau of Circulation.

Before being elected to the village board, Bennett served on the Arlington Heights Plan Commission for six years and the Dist. 25 Board of Education for six years. He is a past president of the Eastwood Community Association.

Bennett has also served as vice president of the Community Chest of Arlington Heights; a board member, secretary and coach of Arlington Heights Boys Baseball; and a board member of the Northwest Suburban YMCA. He has also been active in Boy Scouting.

Clarbour is presently the village's appointed representative to the DAMP Commission. The commission is charged with studying water problems in Des Plaines, Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect and Palatine.

RECENTLY ELECTED as the vice president of the Arlington Heights Chamber of Commerce, Clarbour has also served as the chamber's treasurer. He is the president of Arlington Structural Steel in Arlington Heights.

Clarbour served on the Caucus Candidate Recommendation Committee this year and two years ago. He had been active in the Boy Scouts organization and said that members of his family have a total of 49 years of Boy Scouting history. He has four children.

Asked if he was an active member of any homeowners' organization, Clarbour stated, "I was in town before they had homeowners associations." He has lived in the village for 23 years.

Clarbour has served as an area chairman for the local United Fund and as either an officer or a director of various trade associations.

Mrs. Harms, presently a member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission, said she would be resigning from her part-time job today. She worked in the Arlington Heights Village Clerk's office.

A RESIDENT OF the village since 1956, she is the wife of William Harms. They have three children, ages 10 through 16.

Before she was appointed to the plan commission, Mrs. Harms was a member of the village Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA). Previous to her appointment to ZBA, Mrs. Harms was actively involved in the Park Manor Homeowners' Association which had a "fight with village hall" for about five years.

Ryan was appointed to the village board a year ago after serving as a member of the Arlington Heights Plan Commission for three years. He has three children and has lived in the village for six years.

A partner in the law firm of Morgan, Lanoff, Cook and Madigan, Ryan has served as president of the Arlington Vista Homeowners Association. He had also been a director in the Arlington Heights Jaycees and has served as businessman's chairman for the March of Dimes.

Ryan is active in the Wheeling Township Republican Organization. He was an unsuccessful candidate for the high school Dist. 214 Board of Education in the 1969 election. He was nominated for the Caucus slate in 1967 by the Candidate Recommendation Committee but was not endorsed for the slate by voters attending the slating meeting.

The Seatmakers Make Commuting More 'Well-Padded'

When Edward Buker Sr. started making railway car seats in 1927, you could travel from Arlington Heights to downtown Chicago in 43 minutes on the Chicago & North Western Ry. Today, it takes 47 minutes.

While commuter service hasn't speeded up, seats are more comfortable. In fact, the newer coach seats are downright plush — thanks to people like Buker.

AHEAD Group To Give Service

The AHEAD Committee will present an ecumenical worship service at 8 p.m. Sunday at St. John's United Church of Christ, 308 N. Evergreen Ave., celebrating the Octave of Christian Unity in Arlington Heights.

The celebration is entitled, "The Drama of Man, Creation, Destruction and Hope." It has been prepared by and will be presented by the worship committee of the Lutheran Church of the Cross.

Described as a "multi-media" celebration, it will include readings, litanies and prayers, music, art, film slides and colored lights. The worship committee prepared the slides, wrote the commentary and hymns and composed the litanies.

TWO EAGLE SCOUTS FROM Arlington Heights will receive their awards Sunday, Feb. 7, the first day of Boy Scout Week. They are Dave Bertz, 15, left, and Joe Schroeder, 15, shown with Scoutmaster Elmer Turner. Both are members of Troop 166. They will receive their Eagle badges at a court of honor at St. James School.

Dave, a sophomore at Arlington High School, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bertz, 833 N. Haddow Ave. Joe, a freshman at St. Viator High School, is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Frank Schroeder, 309 E. Euclid Ave. Both boys hold the Ad Altari Dei award, highest for Catholic Scouts.

Two Seats Open In Dist. 23

Caucus To Interview Candidates

The screening committee of the School Dist. 23 Caucus is now accepting appointments to interview school board candidates.

Two posts on the school board will be vacant in April. The school board members now holding these seats, Melvin Lace and Bruce Wallace, have announced they will run for re-election.

The caucus will interview Lace and Wallace in addition to any other school board candidate seeking caucus endorsement. It is the responsibility of the caucus to endorse candidates after they have been interviewed by the caucus screening committee.

An organizational meeting was held by the caucus earlier this week to select members for the screening committee and to set up guidelines for the interviews. The caucus is comprised of delegates from various civic organizations in the district.

'Saturday Night Out' Slated Feb. 6

The first "Saturday Night Out On The Town," sponsored by the Arlington Heights Park District, will include a trip to Second City in Chicago's Old Town, Feb. 6.

Participants in the program will leave from Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave., at 7 p.m. and will travel to Chicago by bus, returning to the park about 12:30 p.m.

The evening will include viewing a performance of "Picasso's Mustache" at Second City, described as a contemporary theater of satire. The performance includes a series of sketches and "blackouts."

Following the performance, participants will be allowed free time to visit various shops, night spots and other places of interest in Old Town.

THE FEE FOR the evening will be $6, including the cost of the bus transportation and theater tickets. The program is open to couples or individuals. Residents may register in the park district's administrative offices in Olympic Park.

For more information about the program, contact Bette English at 394-0047. Mrs. English is the park district's center director at Camelot Park, Brighton Place and Suffolk Drive.

Mrs. English said that other "Saturday Night Out On The Town" are being planned and will be announced later. These plans include possible night trips to see plays and musical performances.

— the Metroliner — running from New York to Washington.

It has made most, if not all, the seats used by Chicago's commuting railroads and will make the seats for the new Illinois Central fleet.

Although the company's principal produce is railway car seats, it also makes seats for Army vehicles and tractor seats for Ford IHC — AC — and Caterpillar vehicles. Some of the latter, made with sponge rubber upholstery and bright blue plastic covers, even have arm rests and look more like executive desk chairs than tractor seats.

A number of the employees who work in the 71,000-square-foot plant are "reverse commuters" living in Chicago and driving to and from the Elk Grove Village plant.

In order to make traveling easier for the employees, the company has rather unusual working hours. The workday begins at 6:30 a.m. and ends at 3 p.m.

Edward Buker Jr., president of the firm since his father's death in 1948, is a railroad buff and one of his prized possessions is a railway car seat which was in use in the 1870's.

Buker is also an avid model railroad builder. One of the gondola-type cars used on the larger types of model railways sits in a prominent place in the outer office of the firm. It measures almost three feet in length and has every Petitions for school board candidates will soon be available at the district administration office at 1309 N. Rand Rd. The petitions are now available at the home of Henry Vallely, school board attorney, at 109 Hillside Dr.

Cuban Family May Arrive In 4 Weeks

A Cuban refugee which Elk Grove High School students planned to relocate in the village by Christmas may now arrive in less than four weeks.

Mrs. Ann Garcia, Spanish instructor at the school in charge of the project to relocate the family, said that a plea for help from Illinois Sen. Charles Percy several weeks ago resulted in clearance of the family this week.

The family was delayed as a result of procedure changes in the Labor Department, Mrs. Garcia had reported earlier.

Mrs. Garcia said yesterday that she had talked to Percy's office and was told a letter clearing the family had already been sent to the American Consulate in Madrid.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. Miguel Angel Ulloa Torres and their two teenage children, have been stranded in Madrid for two years waiting for relocation to the United States.

The Elk Grove High School students began a project late last fall to raise money for the family and find the father a job. The family is expected to live in an apartment near the high school, Mrs. Garcia said.

piece of equipment that a full size car has.

"This seat," Buker said, referring to the 1870 model, "was in a train that averaged somewhere between 20 and 25 miles per hour. The Northeast Corridor train for which we have furnished seats will travel in three hours the distance which those trains took a full 24 hours to cover."

Buker also said that the Northeast Corridor train would cost $21.6 million. "In 1870 you could build a whole railroad for that amount."

Donald Ferrin, Den 2, placed second and Tom Vrenious, Webelos Den 2, was third.

Engraved trophies will be presented to the winners at the pack's Blue and Gold Dinner to be held Friday, February 12, at the Arlington Heights Elks Lodge, 2323 N. Wilke Rd. Den champions and first runners-up will be awarded ribbons.

THE WINNING entrants were:

Jim Gilland and Mark Lathan, Den 1; Perrin and Greg Hamilton, Den 2; Jim Bannon and Mike Thiel, Den 3; Joey Burke and Neil McWhorter, Den 4; Eric Cappel and Jeff Lueck, Den 5; Pingle and JQm Riba, Den 6; Ron Vitales and Paul Burch, Den 7; Matthew Holzinger and Mark Bedingfield, Den 8 and Donald Larson and Dick Royster, Den 9.

Webelos winners were:
Jim Mayne and Billy Mitchell, Den 1; Vrenious and Sean McCann, Den 2; and Mark Denton and Matt Reidy, Den 4.

Cubmaster Al Kozakiewicz and Jerry Bannon, assistant cubmaster, officiated at the event with the assistance of judges Jack Novak and Ray Williams. Ray Neuhauer served as starter. The guided track, designed and built by Ben Williams, was assembled for the race by Bill Lucke, Bill Sanders and Al Kozakiewicz.

Achievement awards were presented prior to the race. Randy Pearson received his wolf badge. Neil McWhorter received his wolf badge with a gold arrow. Bobby Eaton received a silver arrow on his wolf badge. Robby Clutter was awarded his bear badge. John Breeden received a one-year service pin.

The attendance flag was won by We below Den 1.

State High Court Clears Way For Treatment Plant

The Illinois Supreme Court has cleared the way for construction of a Metropolitan Sanitary District sewage treatment plant on the west side of Des Plaines.

In a decision announced this week, the court struck down an appellate ruling in favor of the city, which challenged the MSD's plans to disregard city zoning regulations and build the sewage plant on a 106-acre site at the southeast corner of Oakton Street and Elmhurst Road.

City Atty. Robert DiLeonardi yesterday said he will not comment on the decision until next week's city council meeting, but indicated that he may urge the council to authorize a request for a rehearing before the high court.

An MSD official yesterday said the sanitary district will now hire a consultant to design the plant, which will be completed in about four years "if everything goes well."

MAYOR HERBERT H. BEHREL said he is waiting for advice from DiLeonardi before taking a stand on the decision, which city officials received yesterday by mail from the clerk of the supreme court.

"I was always taught that when decisions come out from the supreme court, you obey them. What else can you do?" Behrel said.

Both aldermen from the west side ward where the plant would be located expressed concern over the decision and said the city should continue efforts to fight the sanitary district. Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) said he will urge city council to try to block federal funds that would be used to construct the sewage plant.

The supreme court decision is seen as a threat to the zoning powers of cities and villages, leaving them vulnerable to the dictates of area-wide agencies with the power to condemn property, such as the MSD.

Although he would not comment yesterday on the impact of the ruling, DiLeonardi, in his brief before the high court, said allowing the MSD to disregard local zoning would set a precedent "that could destroy the plans, progress and morale" of citizens throughout the state.

IF SEWAGE PLANTS can be located contrary to the wishes of local planning agencies, "all of the many hundreds of thousands of dollars spent annually by Illinois cities and villages, including substantial sums by the City of Des Plaines, for comprehensive planning of land use would be wasted," DiLeonardi argued.

He said a decision in favor of the MSD would result in "wrongful confiscation" of the rights of neighboring property owners who have relied on the city to enforce its zoning ordinance and would allow the MSD to condemn land and build plants and sludge beds even in downtown areas of cities such as Chicago or Evanston.

DiLeonardi yesterday said the decision only puts a narrow limit on the application of city zoning rules, and the city still has legal remedies available if the plant creates a nuisance such as air pollution.

It is "an open question" whether city building codes would apply to the proposed treatment plant, DiLeonardi said.

According to Forrest Neil, acting chief engineer for the MSD, the plant will be "one of the most modern in the nation" when it is completed. He estimated that it will take four years to design and build the facility "if everything goes well."

"The plant we're proposing is a water reclamation plant that would provide what is known as tertiary treatment," said Neil. The plant will meet all federal water quality standards and will discharge effluent into Higgins-Willow Creek, he said.

There will be no fumes or odors caused by the plant, Neil said. Properly designed treatment plants don't give off any odors unless they are overloaded or malfunctioning, he said.

WHEN IT WAS proposed in 1966, the plant's capacity was estimated at 96 million gallons a day and was to cost $33 million. Neil said the MSD plans to use federal funds to construct the facility.

The MSD purchased the Oakton-Elmhurst site outright without condemnation and was sued by the city in 1966 after announcing its intention to build the treatment plant there. The sanitary district did not apply for a change in zoning of the property, whose present classification does not allow sewage plants.

In November, 1968, Circuit Court Judge John Lupe ruled in favor of Des Plaines, upholding the city's contention that the sanitary district is subject to zoning rules.

In April, 1969, the Illinois Appellate Court upheld Judge Lupe's decision and last summer the MSD carried its case to the Illinois Supreme Court.

In its ruling announced this week, the high court said "to find that the condemnation power of the (MSD) is subject to the restrictions of local municipal zoning ordinances would be to relegate the authority of the district to that of a private landowner and would thereby frustrate the purpose" of the MSD.

In a dissenting opinion, Justice Joseph Goldenhersh said the effect of the decision will be to allow the MSD to use its powers of condemnation "in total disregard of the zoning ordinances of the city of Des Plaines."

Youths To 'Care' At O'Hare

Members of the youth group of the First Congregational Church of Des Plaines will be visiting O'Hare International Airport Friday night to show people they care.

The teenagers will talk to travelers, pass out cookies and try to relieve the boredom of waiting and the loneliness of people far away from their homes.

The purpose of the excursion, is to give the Des Plaines young people a chance to relate to others, and to have fun while doing it, according to the Rev. Dave Russell, youth minister at the church, located at Graceland and Marion.

Rev. Russell said that when the group visited O'Hare last year, the response was enthusiastic. Some travelers had been stranded for up to 18 hours, and they appreciated talking to the teenagers, he said. Airport employees also seemed to enjoy the teenagers.

The only negative response came from a traveler who feared the cookies had been spiked with drugs, Rev. Russell said.

Girls in the group of 25 to 35 youths, will make chocolate chip cookies, he said.

Michaels Vows Fight

Ald. Robert Michaels (8th) yesterday vowed to lead a city council fight against the Metropolitan Sanitary District (MSD) sewage treatment plant proposed for his west side ward.

"I'm extremely upset about it but there are still some things that we can do," Michaels said of the Illinois Supreme Court decision this week that gave the MSD a green light on the sewage plant.

Michaels said the City of Highland Park recently has been able to halt expansion of a North Shore Sanitary District sewage treatment plant by convincing federal officials that the plant would cause additional pollution.

The federal government decided to withhold needed funds for that plant, effectively blocking expansion plans, he said.

"That's going to be my next maneuver, to convince the city council to go along those lines," Michaels said of the tactics employed by Highland Park.

Michaels' 8th Ward colleague, Ald. Edward Shillington, said he is "very disturbed that the city lost this case after winning all the way up to the supreme court."

"I'm sorry that it lost and I believe we should have a rehearing before the supreme court. If I have anything to say about it, I will make a motion on the city council floor to go ahead and make an appeal," said Shillington, who said he has voted to fight the MSD at every step in the four-year-old dispute.

Shillington said he supports a proposal that would give the Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission (NIPC) power to hold hearings and issue opinions on proposed locations of facilities such as sewage treatment plants in the six-county area under NIPC's jurisdiction.

He said a General Assembly bill that he urged State Rep. Eugene Schlickman (R-Arlington Heights) to submit last year, which would have given municipalities veto power over treatment plants within their boundaries, never got out of committee.

According to Michaels, the supreme court ruling will allow the MSD to build treatment plants wherever it wishes, even next to a school or hospital. "Apparently, there are no restraints at all and this is completely unfounded," he said.

"As a municipality, we are entitled to establish zoning requirements. It just doesn't make sense," said Michaels. "I'm extremely distressed but there are some other things we can do to block them from the City of Des Plaines."

'Biological Foul' Was Caged Pollution

by LEON SHURE

There were, on the faculty team, five players — one, two three, four and five. The donkeys at the semi-annual Maine West High School donkey basketball game Tuesday night were Honey Pot, Thunderball, Snuffy, Kilroy, Beetle Bomb, Super Stupid, Rigor Mortis and Elvis.

At 7:33 p.m. the student coach for the school's letterman athletic club, Gary Blum, explained the game strategy to the Herald/Day. "We gotta keep the ball away from Mr. Lawyer," Lawyer is a Maine West science teacher, and a mean man with a basketball, according to Blum.

At 7:34, Irvin Geisler, coach for the faculty, told the Herald/Day his strategy. "We're going to play to win," he said.

AT 7:35, ELVIS, player-coach for the donkeys, told the Herald/Day, "It's a matter of direction."

At 7:37, Lulu Mae Tulbot, three-year-old from the western end of Des Plaines, explained basketball to a Herald/Day reporter.

"Through the miracle of precision perception, and the laws of gravity, the ball waits through unknown number of molecules towards the circular goal."

The play by play:

The official from the Buckeye Donkey Ball Co. of Columbus, Ohio ("From Coast to Coast, Our Donkeys are the Most.") throws the ball in the general direction of center court.

Student Dan Moss falls off his donkey. Norman Ladd, math teacher, gently prodding the grey-brown body of Beetle Bomb donkey, rides in the wrong direction.

Moss passes to Bill Thielen, Thielen passes to Tinkers, then Tinkers passes to Evers, who relays to Chance, who plays to Kevin Terry, who relays to Chet Walker who throws to Chris Willis.

Pitzele, wrestling coach; Robert Riek, dean of boys at Maine West; and Brent Michaels, physical education instructor.

The official from the Buckeye Co. declares a "biological foul." Play stops, while Irvin Geisler goes for a broom. A pungent odor begins to pervade the stadium.

Lawyer misses again. Moss falls off his donkey. The odor is worse. Knute Rockne invents the forward pass. Johnny Weismuller sets an all time Olympic record. Lawyer misses again. Moss falls off his donkey, followed by everybody else falling off their donkeys.

Final score, faculty 16, students, 12.

"We couldn't keep the ball away from Lawyer," Blum said.

"We played to win," said Coach Geisler.

"The ticket money goes to purchase athletic equipment," said Elvis, the donkey.

"It's a matter of skill and logic," said Lulu Mae.

This Morning In Brief

The State

A grand jury in Springfield will begin an investigation next Tuesday of the Paul Powell case. Sangamon County State's Atty. Richard Hollis promised a thorough and complete probe into the circumstances of the $800,000 cash heard left behind by the late secretary of state.

The War

Defense Sec. Melvin Laird told Congress that American ground combat troops will not be used in Cambodia. In Vietnam, the lunar new year cease fire — which was violated at least 37 times — ended with allied troops moving back into offensive action.

The Nation

Americans may face another jump in consumer prices, according to figures released by the Labor Department. The figures showed a sharp rise in farm produce prices in January, which usually means almost immediate boosts in in-store charges. Better news came from the Commerce Department, which said it found evidence of a perking economy.

Vice President Spiro Agnew declared it is time to begin moving centralized government in Washington out to the grass roots. Referring to Washington, he said the federal government "has been in fat city" too long.

The World

East German guards — carrying out a Russian threat — slowed down auto and truck traffic headed into Berlin through East Germany. The action came in protest to visits to Berlin by West German leaders and lawmakers.

Israeli foreign minister Abba Eban said his country would oppose the presence of Russians in any Middle East peacekeeping force. He also said no such force would be a good substitute for a settlement giving Israel secure new boundaries.

The U.S. Embassy in Moscow filed its third protest in three weeks against harassment of Americans in the Russian capital. In the latest incident, several Russians — said to be secret police agents — roughed up an American newsman and a Russian news contact.

A correction for last Tuesday's column: Paper ballots which have been incorrectly marked CAN be exchanged for new ballots in a political election. Judges will void the old and give you a new one to fill out if you ask. Also, you can change your mind ten times over when voting by machine just by pushing back the lever you pulled and choosing another. Once you've given the big lever a yank (that's the one that opens the curtain) your ballot is recorded and no corrections can be made.

Are you an alien in the United States or do you know someone who is? Every alien who is in the United States on the first day of January of each year shall, within 30 days following the date, report his address to the Commissioner, Immigration and Naturalization Service. Any alien who is temporarily absent from the United States during the reporting period shall report his address within 10 days of his return.

The necessary forms are available at the Des Plaines Post Offices.

Mable Valastnik of the Des Plaines Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW wrote me a letter about letters. "All the members of the VFW and its Ladies Auxiliary have been requested to personally write regarding our prisoners of war. It's a national VFW effort," she wrote.

Everyone, not only post and auxiliary members, is asked to write. The idea, Mable emphasized, is to keep on writing constantly until we get through to them.

"Them" also includes all of the legislators in Washington.

POW letters should cover the following points: That the names of all prisoners be released. That there be humane treatment for all held. That there be a swift return home of all prisoners starting now with the sick and disabled.

The letters should be addressed to Xuan Thuy, Delegation of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, 8, Avenue General Leclerc, 94 Choisey-le-Roi, Paris, France. Postage is 20 cents.

Personal Comment: Form letters to this effect have been printed in many papers in the Chicago area. Readers have been asked simply to sign their names and mail them. As effective as this may be, I feel a personally written letter would carry far more impact. It will take a little longer but will also show you care a little more.

Program To Aid Jr. High Students

by LEON SHURE

A program is being offered, for junior high students, at the United Methodist Church, Graceland and Prairie, to help them with their problems — and to let them have some fun, too, according to Ronald Brink, director of the junior high youth program.

Junior high students, aged 12 through 14, are especially worried about their social lives. Some are immature and are unwilling to take responsibility for their actions, Brink said.

The church program tries to provide leadership experience, counseling by adults, recreational programs, and special discussion programs.

Two of these special discussions concerned drug addiction and sex education, Brink said.

Members of the youth group heard a lecture by a former drug addict. The hour and a half session included a discussion of the problems of addiction and the former addict's criminal record.

Brink said the group members reacted enthusiastically to the presentation, and many asked questions.

A discussion on sex education was presented by the Rev. Dave Chaney, of the United Methodist Church, Northern Illinois Conference.

nois Conference

This two-day conference for the group members and their parents covered the social and moral aspects of sex, not just the biological facts, Brink said.

He feels that the lectures exposed "some fallacies and fantasies, and hopefully, opened some communication lines between parents and their children."

Recreational activities include roller skating and bowling, Brink said. The group also uses the ping-pong table and other games available at the church.

The group meets for two hours every other Friday night.

Coming events will include fund raising activities, Brink said. These funds will be contributed to the church funds. Last year, about $80 was earned through youth group activities.

Officers of the group include Elsa Panhke, president, David Hissong and Alison Hamilton.

Adult counselors include Mrs. Joann Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Haselbring.

Brink, of 153 Selwyn, Buffalo Grove, has been a United Methodist church member for two years. He and his wife, Nancy, have a 13 month old son, Stephen.

From Out Of The Past . . .

by LEON SHURE

In 1930, economic depression gripped Europe and America. Herbert Clark Hoover was president, and Jim Searcy's Model A Ford was brand-spanking new.

In 1938, Jim's car came to Des Plaines, under its own power, with its exhaust system tied together with baling wire.

Today, Searcy, of 2090 Chase, a 24-year-old professional photographer, looks back on his long trip from Versailles, Mo. to Des Plaines with his Model A.

"When I was 13 years old, I put a new gasket into that car, and on the trip here, I began to wonder if I'd really known what I was doing."

Besides a slightly leaky radiator, the pipes in his car's exhaust system seemed to want their independence. Finally, he poked a hole through the pipes and lashed them to the car body with some baling wire.

SINCE THEN, Searcy's car has made one official visit to Des Plaines residents.

It was on display during a recent Memorial Day parade.

A few weeks ago, Searcy was driving his car through Des Plaines, and a friend of his was following in Searcy's 1936 Plymouth. "A lot of people thought we were starting our own parade."

Jim's car is a 1930 Four Door Deluxe Model A, four-cylinder engine, and it has a green body with black fenders and roof. Its interior is a kind of "dirty tan" color, Searcy said, but it shines, and it runs and it gets 30 miles per gallon.

The car's original owner was Bertie Huff, of Versailles. Huff was a friend of Jim's maternal grandfather, Marion Otten, a dentist. Otten built a special garage and Searcy began to work on the car when he was 13 years old.

It was easy to get service for the car, because Searcy's family was friendly with car dealers, and one top mechanic had been taking care of Fords all the way back to the Model T days.

JIM, WHO HAS lived in Des Plaines since 1964, has replaced the car's worn brakes ("it still has the original mechanical type brakes — all four wheels can be locked.") and he has reupholstered the interior. He converted the car's headlight to sealed beams.

It's not that hard to get new parts for the old machine. Most auto parts dealers can supply parts in a day or two, he said.

Right now, Jim's car is being fixed in Niles for a cracked piston and a scored cylinder.

But if you see a sleek black and green car flashing past your camera, that's just Jim's car moving into middle-age.

MFM To Celebrate 10th Anniversary

Mills, Fife and MacDonald, Inc. is holding an open house for its clients and suppliers to celebrate the advertising agency's tenth anniversary and recent move to new quarters.

The open house is planned for Friday, from 4 to 8 p.m. at the agency's new offices at 2500 Devon Ave., Des Plaines.

The agency, which has grown from a two-man operation with $85,000 in billings to seven people and $1.5 million in billings in ten years, specializes in industrial advertising, but also handles consumer and institutional advertising.

Travel Film Tonight

Turkey today, the modern nation forged from a tumultuous past, is portrayed in Neil Douglas' travel film, to be shown tonight in the Maine West Community Lecture series. The program will be held at 8 p.m. in the auditorium of Maine West High School, Wolf and Oakton, Des Plaines.

Tickets are $1 each at the door.

Cold Wave Causes Only Minor Problems In Suburbs

The bitter cold which swept into the Chicago area Tuesday has caused only minor problems in the Northwest suburbs.

Residents tried ignoring the subzero temperatures by dressing warmer, but were reminded of the arctic-like conditions when they had some trouble starting their cars Wednesday morning.

In Des Plaines the weather was blamed for a water main break in front of 271 Good Ave. Repairs to the 6-inch main, which caused some flooding in the street and parkway, were made in three hours, according to Jerry Matula of the city water department.

The severe cold was also blamed for causing asphalt chucks hole patches to pop out of roadways in several parts of that city.

At Pal-Waukee Airport, south of Wheeling, high winds flipped over two small private planes Tuesday night. Airport officials said damage to the two planes, a Piper Tri-Pacer and a 172 Cessna, was estimated at between $5,000 to $6,000. Winds recorded at the airport reached between 55 and 60 miles an hour when the planes were damaged.

IN PALATINE, police reported that someone stole $150 in furnace repair parts from the Circle Aire Co.

In Rolling Meadows the public library was closed Wednesday because both furnaces in the building were out of repair. Area school districts reported no marked student absenteeism as a result of the weather.

Children walking to school felt the cold snap more than others and motorists have a heart after all, when the mercury dips below zero, according to Mrs. Marie Scholinsky, a crossing guard at Laurel Hill Elementary School in Hanover Park. She said traffic stopped for children Wednesday, instead of children stopping for traffic. She credits the cold weather for the special consideration.

A service station attendant in Hoffman Estates said service calls for stalled cars and dead batteries haven't increased yet. He said problems arise when the temperature drops to 10 below or colder.

At Woodfield Mall in Schaumburg, construction workers ewre at their jobs Wednesday, inside.

A CONSTRUCTION crew foreman said the outside work has been completed and the 600 men who work there were indoors.

Also in Schaumburg, it was reported that school buses were running according to schedule, although they took longer to warm up.

The official temperature at O'Hare Airport was 3 below early Wednesday, but rose to 8 above by 2 p.m., with winds from the west at 12 miles an hour.

In Mount Prospect, an official of the park district said during extremely cold weather the ice at the various rinks was in top condition, but reported few residents have moved the cold so far to take advantage of it. He said the rinks are most heavily used when the temperature is around the freezing mark.

There was a power failure reported at Fairview Elementary School in Mount Prospect at 9 a.m. Wednesday, but it was fixed in 30 minutes and did not affect the normal school routine.

A spokesman for the Commonwealth Edison Co. said there has not been an increase in service calls as a result of the weather, but added that underground wire crews were experiencing more difficulty than usual because of ground freeze. Unlike the gas company, he said, their heaviest season is during the summer months.

AND THE Northern Illinois Gas Co. (NIG) reported a new high in the demand for natural gas. The demand during the 24-hour period ending noon Wednesday was for 2.85 billion cubic feet for the entire northern Illinois area, which extends south to Bloomington. The previous high had been 2.79 billion, set Jan. 7 of this year.

The gas company credited both the cold weather and expansion of its customer list for the record. Last year 30,000 customers were added to the list and they bought facilities in Rockford which serve 80,000 homes. An average day, they said, would bring a demand for 2.05 billion cubic feet of gas.

A spokesman for NIG said the wind-chill factor not only affects people, but buildings as well, especially poorly insulated ones.

Hospital To Open Toxicology Lab

Forest Hospital in Des Plaines will open a toxicology laboratory, the first in this area, next week.

Morris Squire, administrator of the private psychiatric hospital, said the laboratory is being established to provide the community with specialized testing services for both legal and illegal drugs.

"At the present time," Squire said, "there are very few facilities in the state of Illinois which offer this type of analysis and these few are mainly intended for law enforcement and similar agencies.

"As a result," he said, "with the state and community facing an increasing problem of drug misuse and abuse, there are pitifully few facilities for such diagnostic studies. That is why we are establishing this special laboratory at Forest Hospital."

DR. ROBERT SIMON, director of medical services for the hospital and director of the hospital's drug abuse program, will be in charge of the laboratory.

Consultant to the new laboratory is Dr. Frank Fiorese, chief toxicologist, Illinois Department of Public Health and the chief chemist will be Mary Wisdom.

The toxicology laboratory will be available to all authorized persons who wish to utilize its services. These include hospitals, clinics, physicians, police departments, school officials and industry.

Simon said the laboratory will be able to analyze, to a varying extent, the more than 2,000 drugs available to the population in the United States, in more than 10,000 combinations.

Several types of analyses will be available. One for a specific drug, another for the detection of any and all foreign substances and a third type will be used for mass screening for the presence of certain drugs, such as narcotics, barbiturates or amphetamines.

Cook County School Officials Discuss State Aid

Sixty school superintendents and presidents of boards of education from 49 Cook County school systems met at Maine South High School in Park Ridge recently for a planning session to seek legislation that will eliminate existing inequities in state aid to local school districts.

Ten additional school systems, through their administrators, indicated their interest in participating in a joint effort to adjust the state aid formula in order to insure equal financial assistance for both dual and unit school districts. The present qualifying rate for state aid discriminates against dual districts and penalizes such school districts for failure to organize as unit districts.

The meeting at Maine South was held

Jan. 18, at the invitation of Richard R. Short, superintendent of schools for Maine Township High School Dist. 207. Its purpose was to continue efforts initiated at the annual session of the Illinois Association of School Boards at the Sherman House in November by several hundred board of education members and school administrators to seek legislation to equalize state support for school districts. Short, as temporary chairman for Cook County, is providing leadership in this state-wide effort.

In unit districts, both elementary and high schools function under one board of education; in dual districts elementary and high schools operate under separate boards. Maine Township schools operate under the dual district system, as do all but two of the 146 school districts in Cook County. The City of Chicago and Elmwood Park are the only Cook County districts operating as unit districts.

THE DISCRIMINATORY state aid formula was adopted twenty-five years ago as a financial incentive to encourage the consolidation into unit districts of the state's 11,955 separate school systems, many with unequal property assessments and student populations. By 1969 the number of school districts had been reduced to 1,233, with 75 per cent of them being operated as unit districts.

George Gilluly, deputy superintendent of schools, educational service region, was present at the meeting and outlined facts regarding financial disparity in state aid given to dual versus unit districts. In Illinois each district must spend at least $520 a year for each pupil.

The amount paid by the taxpayers is determined by a complex mathematical formula involving 50 cents per $100 assessed valuation in dual districts (actually, a total of $1.80 per $100 assessed valuation for both elementary and high schools); and $1.08 per $100 assessed valuation in the unit districts. This means that state aid for each child in similar districts is $75 to $100 less in dual districts than in unit districts.

"This is a high penalty for a school district to pay for failure to become a unit district," Gilluly said. "However, I think we must face the fact that it will be an uphill fight to effect legislative change. Better than 60 per cent of the legislators come from unit districts."

According to Short, the dual districts in Cook County provide very effective, high quality educational programs. He pointed out that these districts are being discriminated against for something over which they have no control.

"TO ORGANIZE AS unit districts," he said, "each would have to establish common boundaries between their elementary and high school districts. Because of legal limitations, such as village and township structures and overlapping elementary and high school areas, this is virtually impossible for most of our suburban communities."

"Many of the dual districts in Cook County are now so large that to form unit districts of the territory underlying some of them would yield a student population of 40,000 to 50,000 students," Short added.

Paul M. Schilling, superintendent of school dist. 102, LaGrange Park, also addressed the group, giving a review of the efforts under way in the Illinois Association of School Boards to change the existing state aid legislation. Schilling is legislative chairman for the Northern Illinois Superintendents' round table.

Guidance Unit Meeting Held

High school guidance personnel from the northern Illinois area met at the Ralph J. Frost Administration Center of Maine Township High School Dist. 207 in Park Ridge recently to formulate plans for the American Personnel Guidance Association's (APGA) national convention to be held in Chicago in 1972.

The convention attracted more than 14,000 guidance personnel.

The meeting was called by Gary Walz, president-elect of the APGA, for the purpose of setting up key committees, appointing committee chairmen, planning for adequate representation of minority groups, and deciding on the kind of program format needed to meet expectations in the '70s.

Those in attendance at the meeting were Steven Horvath, assistant superintendent of schools, Cook County; Miss Joan Jordan, director of guidance services, Chicago Public Schools; Frank Miller, professor of education, Northwestern University; David Whiteside, director of pupil personnel services and special education, High School Dist. 214; Mrs. Florence Wilkinson, Illinois Employment Commission; Mrs. Mary Lawlor, coordinator for guidance services, Chicago Public Schools; Jerry Cairns, director of guidance, Palatine High School; William Gwynn, guidance consultant, Chicago Public Schools-Willis Dugan, executive director, APGA; Walz, professor of education, University of Michigan, and president-elect of APGA; Gene Hunter, business manager, APGA; and Merlin W. Schultz, coordinator, pupil personnel services, Dist. 207.

Fireman Injured Fighting Blaze

A Des Plaines fireman was hurt yesterday afternoon while fighting a fire in the home of Roger Olson, 864 Thacker St., Des Plaines.

According to Fire Capt. Lawrence Crosby, fireman Robert Schaffer broke his leg when he fell after getting caught in a fire hose.

Schaffer is in good condition at Holy Family Hospital.

Crosby said the fire, which caused an estimated $2,750 damage, started when insulation in the basement caught on fire. He said a plumber hired by Olson to work on frozen pipes was working on the copper tubing when the fire started.

Crosby said the fire traveled through the walls up to the house's attic. He added that most of the damage was done to the building's side walls and a portion of the roof.

$400 Generator Stolen

An electric generator valued at $400 was reported stolen sometime last week from a construction site at 1200 S. Wolf Rd., Des Plaines, according to Des Plaines police.

Officials of Kil-Bar Electric Co., 4545 N. Elston, Chicago, told police Monday that the generator, which had been chained to a steel column in a warehouse under construction at 1200 S. Wolf, was discovered missing last Friday.

Article Is Published

Mrs. Barbara Tuch, art coordinator of East Maine School Dist. 63, has had an article published in the January issue of Arts and Activities magazine.

Mrs. Tuch has shown how art can be coordinated with science and language arts in the classroom. The article, "What Do You See?", shows how anyone can learn to really understand what he sees.

Four district 63 children, Dean Fisher, Pascal Colletier, William Benevald and Michael Fieldman, illustrated the article with pencil drawings.

The Way We See It

Festival Helps Suburb Culture

The Schaumburg Festival of Arts, announced last week, promises to become one of the area's major cultural events.

Centered on Schaumburg High School, it will include an art festival, complete with exhibits of paintings, sculpture and other art forms, dramatic productions and concerts. Scheduled June 19 and 20 it will begin with a parade of floats, bands, baton twirlers, clowns and other units.

The art festival is designed to give local artists a chance to demonstrate their talent and stimulate awareness among Schaumburg residents of the existence of local talent. It is also designed to help finance a Schaumburg Civic Theater.

The fair will include paintings, flower colors, ceramics, sculptures and crows, for sale and for exhibition.

A children's play, the Young People's Theater, will be presented by the park district and a magic show is scheduled. Talent '71 will offer persons aged 14 to 19 a chance to demonstrate their talents. An evening of one-act plays is planned, along with a program featuring the music of the past decade.

Other community activities will tie in with the Festival of Arts. A poster contest for junior high school students will be used to call attention to the festival.

In area elementary schools, a poetry writing contest will be held. Special recognition at the festival will be given to winners of the poster and poetry contests.

The festival represents an enormous amount of planning and should provide a significant cultural boost for the entire Northwest suburban community.

"Lots of people have complained about the cultural void in this area," observed Mrs. Sonja LeRaas, chairman. "This will be a large scale attempt to do something about it."

Judging by the reception of other cultural programs in the northwest area, the committee should find real community interest, involvement and support.

Guest Editorial

Police and the Public

Many sources, including this newspaper, have repeatedly warned that serious trouble is brewing with and within the police forces of the United States.

There is far too little public recognition of the strain and the assault under which these forces live and operate. Their work has grown increasingly dangerous over recent years. They have been criticized, verbally attacked, scorned, termed "pigs," not only by callow collegians but far too often by members of the community who ought to know a good deal better. Finally, given the danger of their work, given their indispensable importance to society, they are often seriously underpaid.

It is impossible for individuals, other than candidates for sainthood, to live under such circumstances and not be tempted to feel anger and resentment. There is widespread conviction among policemen that they are the unappreciated scapegoats for society's ills, and that, if they do not stand up for themselves, nobody will.

The dangers which lie within a police strike are so monumental, however, that such strikes are quite reasonably looked upon as impermissible under any and all conditions. By striking, policemen put themselves on the same level with those who attack them. Indeed, they appear to lend substance to the charges made against them by those who have now made a career of being antipolice.

Finally, the terrible financial bind in which most cities find themselves makes it hard, if not impossible, to meet all of the po-licemen's demands, however fair these may seem when viewed against the country's general wage level.

But there will be no permanent solution to police discontent until all factors in the situation are taken into account. And by this we mean that society must once again come to openly recognize how much it owes the men who daily put their life on the line for society.

So long as television, radio, newspapers and magazines continue to give a sensationalized distorted view of police activities, so long as leading citizens pay more attention to the misdeeds of a few, while overlooking the heroism of many, police officers will continue a prey to slander and discontent.

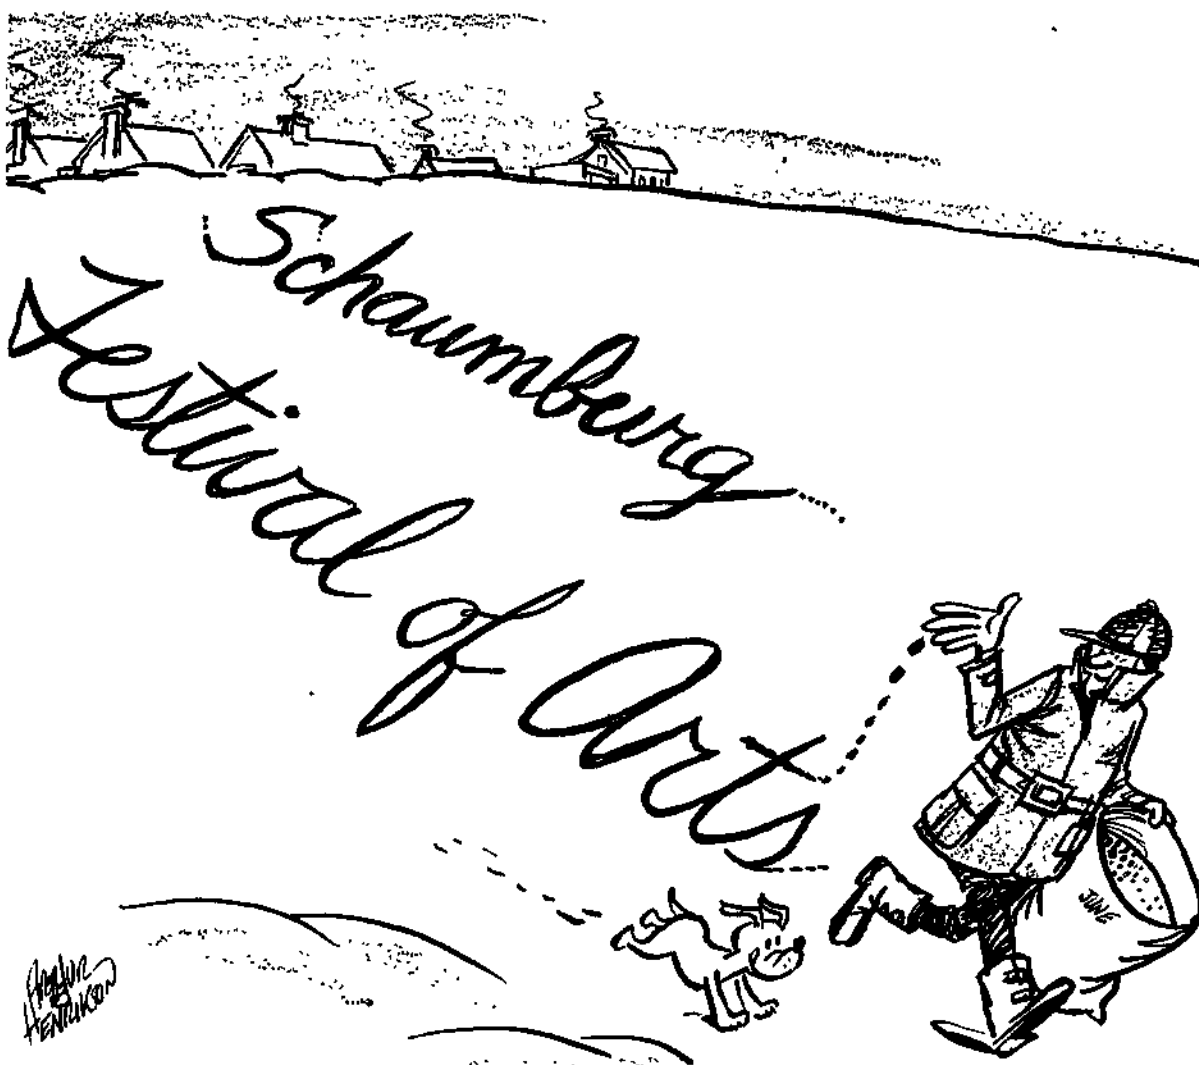

The police often seem to be particular victims of snobism and elitism in American society. Police discontent affords additional proof of the desperate need to recognize and honor the worth of all men's work, so long as this upholds progress and order.

Palatine Today

Climax of a Bitter Saga

by MARTHA KOPER

There's probably more people in Palatine who don't have the vaguest idea what it means that Pebble Creek golf course is finally a part of the village than the vehement homeowners who have spent a lot of money to oppose the annexation.

The whole bitter story came to an end Monday night to the hoopla of the village board and the developer along with groans from a few homeowners.

The 66-acre tract at Baldwin and Hicks Road has been outside Palatine village limits since the beginning of time. As years passed, the land around the golf course gradually became part of the village. But the putting greens still retained their immunity.

Then a few years ago, a local builder, Elmer Gleich, eyed the land and decided it was a great spot for a few apartments. Just a few apartments — only two or three-story buildings.

You would have thought Gleich was asking to build slave headquarters on the land when he made his proposal known to the town. Some homeowners adjacent to the property stormed to the second floor of the village hall and shouted. The village board listened, and Gleich's annexation proposal was soundly defeated.

That's how the whole story started.

Martha Koper

Similar scenes have been enacted for the past four years, even though the land was sold to Sellergren Brothers Inc., which now intends to construct more than 1,000 apartments on the property.

Before the board's final action Monday night, the shouting got louder, the village board's actions became more hazy, and the developer got more confused.

The board requested several changes in the original plan. Jim Sellergren, vice president of the construction company, responded favorably to most of the demands.

But somehow, the bickering continued. The village trustees just didn't seem satisfied with Sellergren's alternatives.

The final argument staged by the group of die-hard opponents had to do with the density of apartments proportional to the land. I couldn't help but laugh.

I was the reporter who heard the same group claim — just two years ago — the property should never be more than a golf course. I was there a couple of months ago when they said they didn't care about a school site in the project as long as their homes were separated from the 13-story buildings by some open green space.

I've stayed at the village hall for hours on Monday nights listening to the group say the same things over and over again. And I've spent long Monday nights wondering why the village board continued to listen to the same old arguments.

This week, in their traditional anti-climactic fashion, village officials calmly approved the annexation with a unanimous vote. It's all over. Really. The end finally has come.

All that now remains are rumors that those same homeowners will start legal action against the village and stop at nothing to halt construction of what will be a tax boost to the village economy.

Welcome to friendly Palatine, Mr. Sellergren.

Pigs Are Offended

by NANCY COWGER

"What self-respecting pig wouldn't be insulted?"

In the interests of equal space, this writer took time off from regular duties yesterday to conduct a rather unusual interview — with a pig.

It all came about because of a recent upset in the Schaumburg Police Department. It seems the chief and his men were broiling over a drawing in a children's book depicting police officers in the shape of pigs. The police had their day in print. Now, to give the porkers their due, I'll relate my conversation with Curly Tail, noted among his fellows for his intelligence as well as his hammy nature.

"It was the police who let this nonsense sizzle up," said Curly. "You didn't hear any porkers complaining early. We like the cops. But we got mad when they acted like a comparison to us was such an insult. They should have had a sense of humor, like we did."

"Now, since you ask, why shouldn't we be mad?"

As Curly puts it, the pigs don't do anything to anger the public.

"We've accepted our role in life, feeding the hungry, even though it means a big sacrifice. What hurts even more is the cops' attitude."

"Pigs don't give traffic tickets, don't make you keep off the grass, even if it should be ours to romp in. We don't throw you in a sty if you enjoy your corn too much. We don't interfere if you want to steal someone else's feed."

"And how many times do you hear of a pig taking a bribe to keep someone away from the butcher's knife?"

In reaction to the comparison, police around the country have repeated a phrase using the letters from pig — Pride, Integrity and Guts. Curly had some comments on that too.

"We take pride in our work, too. We pass tests, just like the police. Only our finest fellows end up on your dining room table."

"Our integrity puts even the police to shame. You won't see any pig lining up for the slaughter unless he knows he can meet the test."

"And who could dare to question our guts. I do think the term rather indelicate, but remember, the police used it first. And since they did, I'll point out, sausages wouldn't be what they are today, without us."

But Curly calmed down long enough to repeat one bit of barnyard wisdom, in the way of advice to the police.

"Don't go looking for insults. You may wind up with ham and egg on your face."

An 'Open Letter'

By Palatine GOP

As Village Trustee candidates of the Regular Republican Organization of Palatine, we are being contacted by many people representing homeowners' associations and community organizations on how they may best lend their support.

As Republican candidates we favor and will work for a two-way communication system with all residents, homeowners' associations and community organizations. It is our hope that all groups in all areas of the village will maintain a free flow of communication with us. We pledge to be responsive to any group expressing concerns.

We feel that much of the strength of our community lies in the integrity of its homeowners' and community organizations. This strength flows from the fact that these organizations represent citizens of all political persuasions working not just for their own good but also for the good of the whole community.

We believe that any plan to exploit homeowners' groups or community organizations for political purposes would be detrimental to good government in our village.

While we would be encouraged and flattered to receive any endorsement and formal support, we feel this would not be the most appropriate way to represent all of the people. For this reason we do not seek the endorsement of any existing non-political organization.

We will, however, welcome individual support of all citizens who share our belief in the need for more efficient and responsive village government.

Bring Back The Buffalo!

by CRAIG GAARE

If Elk Grove has elk, and Deer Grove has deer, why doesn't Buffalo Grove have buffalo?

That question was posed to me recently by a Herald photographer. I couldn't answer him, but his query did start me thinking.

The village has stationery with a picture of a buffalo on it. It has decals for village vehicles with buffaloes on them. Even the village flag has a buffalo in its design.

There is Bill's Buffalo House, the Buffalo Grove Mall, the Bank of Buffalo Grove, the Buffalo Grove Golf Course, but no buffalo. Everywhere one looks in the village, there is the word "buffalo," but where is the object of this affection and reverence? Why isn't there a live buffalo in Buffalo Grove?

There must have been a buffalo there at one time or another in order for Buffalo Grove to get its name. But the buffalo in Buffalo Grove must have suffered the same fate as the Buffalo Utility Co. — it was junked and has become extinct.

Just think. What a civic project it would be! The Jaycees, the Lions Club, the boy scouts, cub scouts and brownies could all fight for the distinction of bringing a buffalo back to Buffalo Grove!

A suitable site for the buffalo to live would have to be selected. Two sites come to mind immediately. One would be the "Raupp Memorial," an abandoned barn south of Rte. 63 which the Jaycees are supposed to develop. This would give them an inside advantage. They could turn the barn into a home for the buffalo so residents could observe the animal all year-round. However, an alternate site would be more agreeable to the village residents and most likely to the buffalo, too.

An ideal site would be the 40-acre tract of land behind the Ranchmart shopping center for which 900 apartment units are currently planned. There the buffalo could romp and graze in an open field. I'm sure residents in the area would much rather have a buffalo living next door to them than "those transient apartment people."

If that site were to be selected, village trustees could condemn the land and move to get it dedicated as a national buffalo sanctuary by the federal government. Imagine what that would do to land values in the area!

The village fathers could get real estate experts to testify that land values would soar, just as the people who opposed the apartments had experts testify that land values would plunge if apartments were to be built there.

The way to do it would be to designate the property as a national buffalo shrine and then seek a federal grant to buy a buffalo. Who ever heard of a buffalo sanctuary without a buffalo on it?

The whole question could become an election issue with candidates charging there is a "buffalo gap" because there is a buffalo sanctuary and no buffalo.

The first step must be taken.

I propose that the village board commission a study to determine the feasibility of putting the buffalo back in Buffalo Grove. The study would have to determine the "buffalo ratio," recommending the proper number of buffalo related to the village's population.

Then the village slogan, making the buffalo worship complete, could be "As Buffalo Grove Grows, So Grow the Buffalo" or maybe "The Home Where the Buffalo Roams."

If the buffalo don't roam in Buffalo Grove, then the village's name should be changed. A likely name would be Franksville, in honor of Albert Frank, the original developer of Buffalo Grove. He's still around.

Project Assists Migrant Children

It is with a great deal of pride and pleasure that I write this letter to thank you for your enthusiastic support of our "Choose a Child — Buy a Smile for Xmas" project.

A project of this nature depends largely on the awareness of the public and the power of the press cannot be overestimated. Your coverage of our project completely told the story to the Des Plaines residents and they responded with love and generosity.

Almost 1,200 Christmas gifts were collected for needy migrant workers' children here in our Northwest suburban area. In addition, 35 Christmas dinner baskets and 45 turkey certificates were prepared and distributed.

The tremendous success of the "Choose a Child" project goes to the Des Plaines Realtors whose Christmas trees were tagged with children's names, you, the press who gave us that necessary publicity and the Des Plaines residents who gave us their hearts.

More Colorful More Carefree More Comfortable

by DOROTHY OLIVER

Throw away your chenille bedspread; put those fancy sheets back in the linen closet — you don't need them anymore. Mattresses have come into their own and the beauty of their designs eliminates the need for any other covering.

Even bedding has gone mod with major manufacturers displaying lively florals and quilted damask coverings. Box springs either match the prints or come in color coordinated solids. The old striped mattress ticking is a thing of the past for today's buyer.

Could it be that the ultimate mattress has arrived? They are dirt resistant, firmer than ever, don't need to be turned and are colorful beyond your wildest dreams. And that's the conventional ones. If you choose, you can float your way to dreamland on a waterbed — economically.

MANUFACTURERS, SUCH as Sealy, have brought greater edge strength to their coil spring mattresses. Serta has put a contour edge on its boxspring to keep the mattress stationary.

Mattresses need little care — only occasional dusting and thorough vacuuming twice a year — thanks to acrylic finishes and Scotchgarding.

The Perfect Sleeper Patricia by Serta is a breakthrough in the bedding industry. Blue, violet, green and gold quilted floral ticking covers mattress and box spring. The big news is that this mattress never needs to be turned.

A scientifically designed foundation works coil for coil with the mattress and extra heavy perimeter coils reinforce the Twin Edge design.

SEALY BOASTS of a revolutionary new mattress foundation named Posture Grid. This is the first foundation to be developed without coil springs. It's geometrically formed spring wire foundation lets body weight be distributed throughout the foundation, regardless of the sleeper's position. The unit is also lighter in weight than box spring units and is virtually noise free.

It is designed to cradle the mattress to reduce shifting and prevent gaps between mattress and foundation.

Sealy's new Posturepedic Imperial is covered in blue and white lace damask, highlighted by ribbons of satin. A patent is pending on the Posturepedic mattress spring unit, which has been designed to give firmer support.

A double row of outer coils with a special locking device reinforces the perimeter, making a substantial improvement in one of the most vulnerable areas of the mattress, the edges, according to Burt Goodman, Sealy vice-president.

SPRING AIR IS introducing a new national line of Comfort mattresses at a moderate price. Floral patterns decorate this and all other Spring Air lines this season.

New for King Koil this year are the Diplomat and Spine Care mattresses in the company's Posture Bond series. An easy care acrylic finish is a feature of the floral print cover.

Geometrics, florals and strips of red, white and blue decorate King Koil's Hollywood line. Box springs are done in solid navy for contrast.

A budget waterbed is available through King Koil, a division of the United States

Bedding Company, with suggested retail prices starting at $199. Prices on the Deluxe Waterbeds are down by as much as $100.

GREATER SALES volume than originally anticipated and improved production facilities have reduced prices, according to Lewis Miller, vice president of marketing.

Frames are made of wood and are upholstered in Naugahyde in the Budget Waterbed series and heating elements are controlled by a thermostat.

Sofa beds this year are as attractive as any couch you could buy. Englander has 22 models to choose from, among them the new Texas King which gives you 74 inches by 74 inches of sleeping room.

Englander's Bed 'N' Sofa line also features a seating height of 17 inches when the unit is closed — exactly matching the standard height of upholstered furniture.

The Magic Bed by Flexsteel Industries converts from sofa to a full size 80-inch long boy bed and can be opened without moving it away from the wall.

AN INDUSTRY-WIDE effort to promote the "modern way to sleep" will begin during "Debut '72," an environmental merchandising program with the theme, "A Whole New Way of Living."

This is the springboard for development of all types of ideas to stimulate the sales of the super sizes in mattresses, particularly the Queen, according to Howard Haas, president of Sealy.

"We believe that the decade of the seventies will see the Queen size emerge as the standard size bed for two people as the full size we know today fades into oblivion," he said.

Suburban Living

ESPECIALLY FOR THE FAMILY

ELEGANT AND FUNCTIONAL are the words to describe Magic Bed by Flexsteel. Upholstered in crushed velvet with contrasting trim, this sofa bed converts to an 80-inch long boy bed.

YOU NEVER HAVE TO struggle with a mattress again with the new Perfect Sleeper Patricia by Serta. Its revolutionary construction eliminates the need for turning. Also new is its quilted floral covering — Scotchgarded for easy care.

Dear Dorothy: Our office installed new high-pile carpeting and the static electricity was driving all of us to ulcers. Every time I touched the phone I got a big blue spark, and our boss was hesitant to shake hands with clients. Finally, a firm provided us with a colorless, odorless spray that eliminated the static. Only catch is that after each vacuuming we have to spray again to stay shock-free. — Sharon Wimp.

Move over, I'm in the same fix. This is another of those cases where the manufacturer's propaganda snowed so many of us. We were telling many readers who asked that the "treated" nylon carpets were static-free and bought it myself. The man of the house has always given off sparks, but never so literally. He swears he's about to be electrocuted. So I've been researching assiduously. Yes, the spray works but for homes the better course seems to be the humidifier. I've plugged humidifiers for a long time as an answer to problems acute during the heating season. There seem to be fewer respiratory ailments and furniture does not dry out and crack. Now, promised that these devices also cut down static electricity, I'm going the humidifier route to get benefits beyond ending the shock waves.

TIP TO BRIDES: If fresh pineapple is your desire and you're not sure when it's ripe, try the tender leaves in the middle of the crown. If they come out easily and pineapple smells good, it's ready.

Dear Dorothy: I sprinkle seed and crumbs outdoors for the birds but would like to hang out some of the simple feeders that are made of suet, seeds and such. Would you know how I could make some of these? — Anna Mae W.

I don't know the specific formulas but a pet shop reports they make such feeders in the shape of bells. One is honey, heated and mixed with bird seed and allowed to solidify. The other is rendered suet, mixed with seed, placed on a plate and hung in a tree or put on a board which has a nail through it from the bottom. The suet mixture is then shaped around the top of the nail and hung.

Dear Dorothy: Thought I read in your column that nylon slippers were being made with antistatic properties. I bought a slip recently that clings as usual and is quite a nuisance when I wear knits. Is there anything that I can do to it? —Helen W.

help a little. But it won't be as satisfactory as the new slippers being made with antistatic and antisoil properties. You'll have to look at the labels and buy only those that state specifically they are made this way.

Dear Dorothy: Is it true that charcoal is given to animals to sweeten their stomach and breath? —Mrs. Robert D.

That's what pet shop owners say. All such shops sell charcoal biscuits. It's also said that these biscuits also help clean their teeth.

West Falls To South Matmen

Though leading in the early going of the meet and staying within striking distance throughout the meet, Maine West lost to Maine South 26-15 in a Central Suburban League wrestling meet at home.

The Warriors led by as much as 10-2 early in the meet and were within five points with two matches to go, but Maine West could not manage to post its second CSL win of the season. The loss dropped the Warriors league mark to 1-4 and the overall record to 4-6.

A 2-2 draw at 98 pounds where Warrior Dave Gano was involved gave Maine West a tie score at 2-2 at the end of the first match.

Bruce Beam got the Warriors off to a 7-2 lead by pinning his opponent in 5:45 at 105 pounds.

The Maine West lead reached 10-2 as Jon Richards posted a 6-2 victory at 112 pounds.

Marc Hoozko lost 6-4 at 119 pounds, Brad Vance lost 15-4 at 126, Craig Barringer lost 2-0 at 132, Carl Sjostrand lost 5-1 at 138, Gary Klein lost 5-1 at 145 and Todd Weidner lost 9-2 at 155 as Maine South took a 20-10 lead.

Leon Wilkins brought the Warriors back to within striking distance by pinning his opponent in 5:49 at 167 pounds. But Jim DeNicolò lost 8-2 at 185 and Jim Michalak lost 10-0 in the heavyweight match and Maine South had the win.

Maine West's sophomore team won 40-10 but the Warrior freshmen lost 43-8. There was no junior varsity meet.

The Warriors will be home with Niles West Friday at 6:30 p.m. for another Central Suburban League meet.

THEY START OUT even but someone always comes in first. Skip Parent of Maine West easily defeated his other triangular meet competitors at Arlington's Olympic Pool Saturday by winning the 200 individual medley with a 2:12.8. Charlie Dunn of Arlington finished second with 2:16.8. The Warriors took first place with 79 points compared to Arlington's 66 and Prospect's 23.

THE BEST IN Sports

QUICK LIKE A RICK. Coming home with a fourth place showing in the 200 yard medley is Rick Fox of Prospect. Fox had a 2:23.0 during the Arlington triangular meet Saturday at Olympic Pool which beat out Jim Stoll of Arlington who had a 2:30.7. However, Arlington finished second and Prospect third in the meet which saw Maine West emerging the winner.

Over Arlington, Prospect

Swim Honors To Warriors

You might say that Arlington won the battles but lost the war to Maine West.

The Cardinals hosted a triangular swim meet and won seven out of the 11 first places but the Warriors came away with the meet title. The scoring went this way: Maine West 79, Arlington 66 and Prospect 23.

There were three double winners and one exceptionally fine solo performance recorded. These were the swimmers who registered twin killings:

*Skip Parent of Maine West in the 200 individual medley (2:12.8) and in the 100 freestyle (55.3).

*Steve Jurco of Arlington in the 200 freestyle (1:54.4) and the 400 freestyle (55.3).

*Tom Rowe of Arlington in the 50 freestyle (23.2) and the 100 butterfly (57.4).

The outstanding solo showing was accomplished by Charlie Dunn. The Arlington freshman won the 100 yard backstroke with an amazing clocking of 1:00.0 — a new pool and varsity record. It was also the best time recorded in the area this season.

Posting the other wins for Maine West were Steve Dueball in the 100 breaststroke (1:09.1) and the medley relay team of Larry Bierwirth, Paul Stenstrom, Steve Mammoser and Russ Zage (1:50.0).

Taking the remaining firsts were Arlington's Jeff Thieman in diving (178.15) and the free style relay team of Rowe, Jurco, Dunn and Rick Cook.

However, despite finishing first the majority of the time, the Cardinals failed to place their second men in front of the Warriors' first two finishers. It was there that the meet was decided.

Here was how Maine West did the job: 200 freestyle — Dave Dettman in second (2:00.4) and Eric Dahl in third (2:04.6), 200 individual medley — Parent in first and Don Hudson in third (2:20.6); 50 freestyle — Russ Zage in second (24.8) and Ken Brown in third (24.9), diving — Weaver in third (127.95) and Joe De Franco in fourth (127.6), 100 butterfly — Mammoser in second (1:05.4) and Parent in third (1:04.1), 100 freestyle — Parent in first and Brown in second (57.1), 400 freestyle — Dettman in second (4:23.2) and Dahl in third (4:34.4), 100 backstroke — Bierwirth in second

(1:01.8) and Jeff Cassin in fifth (1:09.4), 110 breaststroke — Dueball in first and Paul Stenstrom in second (1:10.7), and freestyle relay — Maine West in second (3:43.8).

Prospect's only second place finishes were Bill Cripe in diving (139.0) and the medley relay team edging out Arlington 1:53.4 to 1:53.8.

Arlington captured the sophomore meet with 86 points. Maine West had 68 and Prospect 14.

There were two double winners — Gary Dahl of Maine West in the 200 and 400 freestyle event and Dave Hartman of Arlington in the 200 individual medly and the 100 breaststroke.

Norsemen Travel Friday

by LARRY MLYNCZAK

Maine North has just one game scheduled for this weekend — and that is fine with head coach Jerry Nelson.

Last weekend the Norsemen played a steady game against Glenbrook South junior varsity and won in overtime Friday 57-54 but experienced a flat night against Deerfield on Saturday and lost 63-44.

"I think that double weekend hurt us," Nelson said. "The boys just weren't sharp on Saturday after playing that Friday game."

This weekend the Norsemen will go against Niles West at Niles West at 8:15 p.m. Maine North will play again on Tuesday, at Niles East at 4:15 p.m.

The Norsemen led most of the way against Glenbrook South but then saw their lead chopped away as the Titans came back to tie the score. But Maine North recovered and led for most of the overtime period.

Getting the clutch points in the overtime for the Norsemen were Les Leonhard who had two field goals and a free throw and Doug Werhane who sank a crucial free throw.

Marty DiFlavio paced Maine North in the scoring department with 25 points. Leonhard had 13 points, Butch Benton eight, Bob Allen four, Mickey Drew two, Gary Halls two, Tom Michaelson two and Werhane one.

In the rebounding department Leonhard had 16, DiFlavio 12, Allen seven and Michaelson five.

The Norsemen experienced difficulty with Deerfield's 3-2 press defense and trailed most of the contest.

Allen led the Norsemen in scoring with 16 points while DiFlavio had 15. Halls and Leonhard had four points each, Werhane had two and Drew had two. Leonhard led the squad in rebounds.

The Norsemen still have seven more games to play before they go into the Fenton District Tournament — probably facing Schaumburg in the opener.

Against Schaumburg two weeks ago,

Maine North lost 72-62 and the Saxons had an outstanding shooting game. Maine North had a slight edge in the rebounding department, with Leonhard getting 14, DiFlavio nine and Michaelson seven, but Schaumburg's shooting proved to be the difference in the contest.

For Maine North DiFlavio had 22 points, Leonhard 19, Werhane nine, Halls nine and Michaelson three.

Nelson is optimistic that Maine North may play a "home" game in the Maine North gymnasium before the season is completed.

"I think that the completion of our gym is about three weeks away," the Norsemen coach said. "All that needs to be finished are the striping of the floor and the putting up of the baskets."

"I'm pretty optimistic and I think — and I'm hoping — that we can play a couple games this year on our floor."

Maine North's record is 2-11 but it hides the fact that the Norsemen have won two of their last four games.

West Swimmers Fall To Glenbrook

Maine West won five events but was "slammed" in three others as the Warrior swimmers lost to Glenbrook North 54½ to 39½ at Glenbrook North.

Warriors took first places in the medley relay, the 200-yard freestyle, the individual medley, the backstroke and the breaststroke but did not manage to break into the top two in the butterfly and the 100 and 400 freestyles.

The foursome of Larry Bierwirth, Paul Stenstrom, Steve Mammoser and Russ Zage tied Glenbrook South for first place in the 200-yard medley relay with a 1:49.7 clocking.

Skip Parent set a new school record in the 200-yard freestyle with a 1:55.9 time while taking first place. Dave Dettman took third place.

In the 200-yard individual medley Eric Dahl took first place in 2:18.1 and Don Hudson took third in 2:18.6. The Warriors took the top two places in diving with Joe DeFranco winning and Mammoser second.

In the 100-yard butterfly, the 100-yard freestyle and the 400-yard freestyle, Maine West could only get third places with Parent, Zage and Dettman, respectively.

Bierwirth won the 100 yard backstroke with relative ease with a 1:00.6 clocking. Steve Dueball nabbed first place in the 100-yard breaststroke.

Maine West's 400-yard freestyle relay team lost to Glenbrook South by less

Glenbrook North, undefeated on the frosh-soph level, defeated Maine West's frosh-soph contingent.

Maine West is now 1-3 in the Central Suburban League and has two meets scheduled for this weekend. The Warriors will host New Trier West, undefeated in the CSL, on Friday at 7:30 p.m. and will compete in the Carl Sandburg Relays on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Hinsdale's Wrestlers Handle Demons, 26-19

Maine East dropped its third wrestling meet of the 1970-71 season — all losses in West Suburban League competition — in a 26-19 decision to Hinsdale Central.

The Demons are 5-3 overall and will host Downers Grove North Friday at 6:30 p.m.

Maine East got off to a good start in the lower weights against Hinsdale and held periodic 8-0, 14-3 and 17-8 leads. But Hinsdale Central's strength in the heavier weights proved to be the difference.

Paul Board, who has a 12-4 record, recorded his fifth pin of the season in 1:17 to give Maine East a 5-0 lead at 98 pounds.

Jim Sylvere, who has an 11-4 record with five pins, won a 9-3 decision at 105 pounds to make the team scores 8-0.

After Steve Leibovitz lost 5-1 at 112 pounds, Tony Raschillo raised his record to 11-2-2 with a 7-3 victory at 119. Tom Bullis posted a 4-0 victory at 126 pounds to give Maine East a 14-3 lead.

After Phil Wald was pinned in 3:29 at 132 pounds, Rick Johnson won 7-6 at 138 to give Maine East a 17-8 lead. Johnson's record is now 10-1-2.

Mike Kan lost 11-7 at 145 pounds and Bob Bunge lost 8-2 at 155 as Hinsdale Central closed the gap to 17-14. The Demons retained their three-point lead as Tom Groenwald drew 4-4 at 167.

But Hinsdale Central came back to win the meet with a 4:32 pin against Mark Grant and a 3:27 pin against Ed Kleckner.
